NIGHT EDITION

THE HIGH SCHOOL

Graduation Exercises to be Held on June 21

The graduation exercises of the Lowell High school will be held in the Opera House on the evening of Tuesday, June 21. The speaker will be Dean LeBaron R. Briggs of Harvard. Principal Irish will preside and the diplomas will be presented by Mayor Mehan.

The honor of valedictorian goes to the boy who leads his class up to Feb. 1, and the valedictorian for this year will be Charles T. Plante of Kenwood. Miss Elizabeth Irish, daughter of Principal Irish, will be the salutatorian.

While no complaint has been heard from Principal Irish, it is a well known fact that for two weeks before the date set for the graduation exercises he is much annoyed by persons asking for tickets and Mr. Irish is called upon to explain by telephone as well as in the street, that it is impossible for him to furnish tickets to others than the graduates and the school committee.

"This year," for instance, there will be 220 graduates and the custom is to give each graduate four tickets. The first balcony and the floor of the Opera House will seat 858 persons and four times 220 is more than 858. Mr. Irish would like to accommodate all who ask for tickets, but he can't do physical impossibilities.

The question has been asked if it was necessary for the salutatorian and valedictorian to be a Carney medal scholar, and the answer is "no," although in a majority of cases they are chosen valedictorian and salutatorian must have led their class in scholarship from the start to Feb. 1—department is not taken into consideration.

Good Spring Tonic

"We have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla for a spring tonic and as a blood purifier. Last spring I was not well at all. When I went to bed I was tired and nervous and could not sleep well. In the morning I would feel twice as tired; my mother got a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I took. I felt like a new person when I had finished that bottle. We always have some of Hood's medicines in the house." Hilvey Roselle, Morristown, Wis.

There is no "just as good" medicine. Insist on having Hood's.

Get it today in usual liquid form or chocolate tablets called Sarsatabs.

WOMEN DROWNED

Steamer Struck a Rock South of St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, May 12.—Two women were drowned and eleven others who are missing are believed to have lost their lives when the steamer City of Saltillo struck a rock and foundered in reach of shore at Glen Park, 24 miles south of St. Louis, last night.

The dead: MISS ANNA RHEA, Nashville, Tenn. MRS. ISAAC RHEA, Nashville, Tenn., recovered.

The missing and believed dead: S. C. Baker, first clerk of the steamer.

Mrs. Joseph Harris, Nashville. Mrs. Archie Patterson, Chester, Ill. Archie Patterson, Jr., two years old. W. J. Pickett, salesman, St. Louis. Foster Post, third clerk. Miss Lena Wall, Nashville. Head porter.

Cabin boy. Two roustabouts, names unknown.

Captain Harry Crane, in command of the boat, after checking up the passenger list, today said that it was almost certain those reported missing were dead. The boat carried 37 passengers, mostly women and children, and a crew of thirty. She left St. Louis at seven o'clock with a heavy cargo, including cattle and livestock, and the voyage was considered precarious because of the great amount of driftwood floating in the river. Of the two known dead one was the wife and the other the daughter of Isaac T. Rhea, president of the St. Louis & Tennessee River Packet Co., owners of the boat. Mrs. Rhea was dragged from the water alive, but died within an hour. The body of Miss Anna Rhea has not been recovered.

Miss Louise Rhea, another daughter, escaped.

They were en route to their home in Nashville after visiting friends in St. Louis. When the vessel struck the rock and sank in twenty feet of water, the greatest confusion prevailed. The noise of rending timbers, shrieks of women and children and the howling of cattle mingled with the cries of the crew. Passengers and members of the crew clung to the timbers while those more fortunate helped to rescue the women and children. The rescued were taken to the Glencoe company's boarding house.

The City of Saltillo at the time of the accident was bound for Waterloo, Ala. on the Tennessee river.

FUNNY MISTAKE

Woman Takes Colored Baby Instead of Her's

There was excitement galore in Merriam street, partially as the result of the sale at A. G. Pollard's, though this is no ad for the sale, and Officer Phil Murphy, the athletic guardian of the peace of that locality, had an experience more thrilling than all of his stunts as a catcher of runaway horses and over-speedy automobiles.

Here's how it happened:

During the forenoon a white woman pushing a baby carriage containing a cute looking baby wheeled along to Pollard's big show window and came to a full stop. Carefully steering the carriage close up to the big brass rail in front of the window she handed the youngster a bottle that showed no evidence of a milg war and with a "go as far as you like" expression of contentment as she handed over the baby's delight, turned around and went into the store.

A few minutes afterward out comes the uniformed genius of the A. G. Pollard Co., whose duties are to shine up the brass rail from the opening of the establishment to the closing thereof. At this time the kiddo had one chubby hand on the bottle while the other was doing some decorative work on the carefully polished brass of the rail.

"Here, cut that, kid," cried the shinier as he saw his work of a few minutes before being turned to naught by the carriage and wheeled it down the lower window. After giving an extra touch to the rail he disappeared within the store.

Who had disappeared but a moment when along comes a colored woman wheeling a carriage quite similar in appearance to the other carriage, but containing a cute little plectanony and leaving her carriage exactly where the white woman had left hers, she too entered the store to get in on the marvelous bargains.

A few moments later out comes the white woman in a rush and, grabbing the handles of the colored woman's baby carriage, she starts down Merriam street at record pace. Along the way she noticed that everyone was looking at her carriage and then at her and she began to think that something was wrong. She had reached Macartney's store when she noticed something peculiar about the appearance of the carriage. Then she peered over the high back of the vehicle and then she gave a shriek that startled everyone within a mile.

"My baby! Someone has stolen my baby!" she cried, and turning the carriage around she started back at a speed that had the auto limit beaten a mile.

Everyone had to get out of the way for woman, carriage and baby were going like a cannon ball express while the kid was having the ride of his life. Just then Officer Murphy happened along and if he hadn't done a side step that would have done credit to Jimmie Gardner he would have been under the relentless wheels of the vehicle.

"Officer," the woman cried "some one stole my poor little dear while I was

P. O. EMPLOYEES

To Tender Reception to A. G. Thompson

A reception will be tendered Postmaster A. G. Thompson in honor of his reappointment as postmaster by President Taft, at the Elks hall Saturday evening, May 21, by the carriers and clerks of the local office. Postmaster Thompson is very popular with the local forces and they look forward with pleasure for an opportunity to extend congratulations to him on his reappointment.

A pleasing program is being arranged by the committee in charge, which will consist of several select musical numbers, readings and remarks by invited friends, after which a tempting menu will be served in the banquet hall.

This reception will be the third one extended to Postmaster Thompson by the postal employees which marks his fourth appointment to the office of postmaster of Lowell. The service has grown immensely in the past 12 years, from the local office to all the suburbs of Lowell, with the exception of Chelmsford and Billerica; rural carriers go to Willow Dale, Lakeview, Long Pond, Kenwood and down Andover street almost to Lawrence.

The following is the committee in charge: John P. Sheahan, Joseph J. Ward, M. H. Powers, Daniel J. Donoghue, John H. Kenney, Arthur L. Bagshaw, John T. Burns and Daniel J. McOsker.

THE BALLINGER CASE

WASHINGTON, May 12.—It was expected today that Secretary Ballinger would conclude his testimony at the Ballinger-Pinchot hearing, and Louis D. Brandeis indicated in his cross examination of Mr. Ballinger that he would turn him over to Mr. Pepper, counsel for Gifford Pinchot, in a short time.

Mr. Pepper said that his cross examination of the secretary would be brief.

ASTRONOMER HUGGINS DEAD

LONDON, May 12.—Sir William Huggins, the astronomer, died today. He was born in London in 1824 and had long directed a private observatory, which he erected. He was formerly president of the Royal Astronomical society and of the British Association for the Advancement of Science.

SCHOONER FLOATED

ROCKLAND, Me., May 12.—A tug today succeeded in floating the lumber laden schooner Annie Booth, St. John for Boston, which went ashore near Port Clyde yesterday. She was towed into Port Clyde for repairs before continuing on her way. The schooner did not appear to be leaking badly.

Judge Hadley Says it is the Best in the County

This morning's session of the police court was held in the regular court room, and the judge, court officers and newspapermen were glad to get back to the roomy quarters after spending several weeks in the stuffy room of the court of second sessions.

During the time the court room was in the hands of the employees of the lands and buildings department it underwent a big change and the renovation has been painted and the furniture, the woodwork and the furniture, varnished, the rail work touched up with black and a little bronze here and there, while the inside blinds have been removed and windows washed giving the place a decidedly improved appearance.

Even William Shakespeare, who supports the incandescent light on the judge's desk, was brightened by a coat of bronze, and on the left hand corner of Judge Hadley's desk was a handsome bouquet of flowers, the gift of Probation Officer Skittery.

When Judge Samuel F. Hadley entered the court room at ten o'clock he wore a broad smile and upon taking his seat, gave a short speech on the general improvement of the room and then went into a reminiscence story of the police courts of Lowell. In opening, he thanked the committee on lands and buildings, the efficient superintendent of that department and the employees who had transformed the appearance of the court room.

He said that it was 15 years ago since the court room was renovated, but that at that time it was not done in such an excellent manner as in this case. He said that as the place is occupied daily by so many people occasional renovation is necessary.

He then referred to an addition to the court room, a hat rack which has been placed inside the enclosure. He said that for years he had seen the attorneys throwing their hats and coats on the tables and he often felt that there should be a suitable place for the hanging of such articles, and now he hoped the lawyers would put the new addition to good use.

Judge Hadley then gave a brief history of the police court of Lowell, telling about the time, in 1871, when it was located in the C. E. Coburn building on the opposite side of Market street, and when in 1874 a change was made in the law providing quarters for a district court, whereby the city was to provide the building and the county to pay the rent. At that time he was clerk of the police court.

While the original court room was being laid out Judge Hadley suggested a gallery for the public and though the plans did not contain such a provision they were altered and the present gallery was erected.

On March 11, 1878, the new court room was dedicated with Judge Crosby on the bench.

In conclusion, Judge Hadley said: "I do not think that there is a finer district court room in the county at the present time than this one."

Larceny and Drunkenness

Thomas Pooler and his son Thomas and daughter Matilda were arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on complaints charging larceny and drunkenness.

The father and son were found guilty and fines of $2 each were imposed.

In the case of the daughter she was found guilty and sentenced to three months in jail. Rioux, the complainant, said that his sister was married to a brother of the defendant and that his home is in Lewiston, Me. He came to this city the other day and went to the Pooler house in Tilden street to make a visit. The night before last just before he retired he counted the money he had and found that there was $7 in bills and some change. When he awoke in the morning he found the Pooler woman sitting beside the bed and saw her put money in a box.

The defendant said that she took $3.75 from Rioux, but was not guilty of taking $7.50. The court found her guilty and sentenced her to three months in jail, the case of drunkenness being placed on file.

Larceny Case Continued

Frederick Boyd, aged 35 years, and giving his occupation as a leather worker, was arrested last night by Sergeant McCloughrey and Inspector Wash on a warrant charging him with the larceny of $50 in money from John F. Lynch. The money, it is alleged, was dropped out of a man's pocket in a saloon in Middlesex street on the 16th of April and it is said that Boyd picked it up. When arraigned in court this morning he entered a plea of not guilty and said he was ready for trial, but owing to the fact that the government desired other witnesses the case was continued till tomorrow morning.

Stole Flowers

Sent to Sherborn

Case Continued

The case of John Consantes, charged with the larceny of $35 from Alexander Kogias & Co., was continued till next Tuesday at the request of J. Joseph Hennessy. It is alleged that the defendant was in the employ of the plaintiffs who are engaged in the bakery business and stole the amount mentioned in the complaint.

Drunken Offenders

John E. Bulmer, who appeared before the court a few days ago and given a chance to do better by getting a suspended sentence of six months in jail was arrested yesterday and today he was charged with being drunk.

Frederick E. Austin and his wife, Mary E., charged with being drunk, were sentenced to the state farm, the latter going there at her own request.

John O'Donnell, who was under a four months' suspended sentence, was arrested and his sentence became operative.

John A. Landry was fined $6 and five first offenders were fined $2 each.

DEATHS

STAFFORD—Eben B. Stafford, formerly a member of the common council and for years a well known resident of Lowell, died May 10 at his home, 301 Mammoth road, aged 65 years and 11 months. Mr. Stafford was born at Chazy, N. Y., and came to Lowell as a young man. He worked for the Lawrence Manufacturing company for years and eventually became an overseer of the weaving department, in which he was a recognized expert. Leaving the Lawrence company, Mr. Stafford went to the Appleton company and remained there as overseer of weaving for two years. This ended his mill life. In 1898, Mr. Stafford became a member of the common council, and he was elected twice after that. He was always known as a man of integrity and, while slow to make friends, all of his friendships were lasting. For the past three years he had been associated with Edward Boardman in the broker business in Merrimack street. He leaves a widow, mother, two sons, Lowell lodge of Elks, of which he was a member, will send a delegation to attend the funeral.

TOUSIGNANT—Alphes. Tousignant died yesterday morning at his home, 53 Austin street, aged 28 years. He leaves a wife, a daughter, Beatrice, of this city; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Tousignant of Canada; eight brothers, Louis of Pittsburgh, Arthur, Etienne, Emile and Nave of Canada; Amadeo, Dolor and Angelo of Lowell; and four sisters, Mrs. J. Fournier, Mrs. A. Fournier, Mrs. L. Lacroix and Miss Aurea Tousignant of Canada. The deceased was a member of Court St. Paul, C. of F.

MCCARTY—Margaret McCarthy, aged 75 years, died yesterday at her residence, 211 Church street. Deceased was an old resident of this city and a devout member of St. Peter's church.

FUNERAL NOTICE

MCCARTY—The funeral of the late Margaret McCarthy will take place on Saturday morning at 8 o'clock from her late home, 211 Church street. Solemn high mass of requiem will be sung at St. Peter's church at 9 o'clock. Undertakers, M. J. McDonough & Son in charge. Friends are requested not to send flowers.

"JIM" JEFFRIES

Asserts He is in Good Shape

BEN LOMOND, Cal., May 12.—Following his fast and shifty workouts in the ring yesterday, Jim Jeffries sparred with his trainers, who evinced elation over his showing. He felt so good that he talked with the volatility of a school girl. "I am around the bend in the road now," he declared. "I am thoroughly limbered up and my stomach is all right again. I have taken off the extra weight and from now on roadwork won't figure much in my schedule. If I ever had a doubt about being able to get into condition—and I don't say I had—that doubt is gone. I am ready to fight when the time comes and I want my friends to know that I never remember feeling any better than I do right now."

JOHNSON'S BALL GAME

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—What effect will the enforced switch of the Yanks' Thomas bout to San Francisco have on the big fight?

Plebidom is drawing many answers to that question, but the rank and file of the sporting fraternity take a generally hopeful view of the situation and the majority incline to the opinion that the action of the San Mateo county officials in calling a halt on the middleweight contest will exercise no sinister influence on the holding of the big battle at Emeryville.

Jack Johnson's baseball game yesterday afternoon drew a large crowd of spectators. The negro seems to get as much enjoyment out of the national sport as does Jeff. And he has announced that baseball will be part of his daily routine for the remainder of the week.

MR. AND MRS. W. A. CLARK OF NEW YORK AND THEIR $13,000,000 PRIVATE RESIDENCETHE $13,000,000 PALACE

NEW YORK, May 12.—By June 1 former Senator William A. Clark of Montana will normally open his home in New York city, the most expensive private residence in the United States. The fact that a man has built a home and is going to invite a number of friends to inspect its beauties is not very startling, as a rule, but when the house cost a total of $7,000,000 to build and $6,000,000 more was spent in furnishing it then it comes under the head of some home. Ten years ago Mr. Clark planned a New York home, giving the architect full power to turn out a palace among palaces. There has never been a private residence in this country subjected to so much discussion. Presses have been devoted in magazines to finding flaws in the "line," the lower and the general appearance of the house. It has been called a rich man's folly a thousand times, but Mr. Clark has gone ahead pouring his millions into the house until now his task has reached an end. Mrs. Clark has been spending the majority of her time in Paris and if the plans of the millionaire man do not miscarry she will arrive in New York June 1 ready to take an active part in the social world. But here a stumbling block may await the man of millions and his wife, for the inner circles have been quoted as saying they could take no part in launching a woman in social circles with $6,000,000 worth of furniture. "My word," Harry Lehr said one day, "I would be in mortal terror. Think of knocking over a vase that cost $20,000!"

THE WORLD'S WORKHolds Up the Efforts of Local Priest as Example

The World's Work for May has a story in reference to a young man who in the face of great difficulties became a clergyman and is now located in this city, beloved and honored by all who know his zeal and self-sacrifice in the interest of his flock.

Further, who is in charge of one of the large Portuguese parishes in New England, came to the United States as an immigrant from the Azores. He was the youngest of seven children, and his mother and father could not read or write. The family was so poor during the years when the children were young that many a time the father would walk several miles for a basket of corn to feed his hungry boys and girls. Like the majority of Azores Islanders, his little piece of land was not sufficient to support his ones and one sheep throughout the year, and in the summer time he would become a sailor to earn enough to piece out the winter's supply of fuel and food. Yet the mother's ambition was to educate her children, though she knew not how to do so. It was not until she grew here enough to be useful in the fields that she could afford to send her children to school. At length only two were left, and these she insisted should be sent to school. The family was so poor that even at that time that the little boys were without shoes in the play season, and the youngest child was shivering from exposure and could no longer walk to school. Then the mother would carry him to and from school in her arms, and he has told me that over and over again the word "school" came to his mind. "You shall learn to read and write," she would say to him. "You will grow up to be a priest."

No greater honor can come to a peasant family than to have an educated son in the priesthood. The boy caught her enthusiasm. He went to the village priest and begged to be taught more things than the schoolmaster knew. The clergyman saw an apt pupil in him, and in due time fitted him for the ministry. The young man worked diligently, then, and, cultivating a natural talent for music, was soon able to maintain himself.

In due season this youngest son became a priest. His brothers had all shipped away, one by one, to the land of opportunity and Columbus had been covered after the Azores were settled, so he came too, following the trail of one of the New England cities, where he gathered a hundred scattered family

COMET WAS HIDDEN
CAMBRIDGE, May 12.—When the Harvard observatory astronomers set their alarm clocks last night the stars were sparkling and the moon hung like a crescent of promise for good comet weather later in the night, but when the bells rang out at 2 a. m. the morning mist completely hid the celestial visitor.

It has been four days now since the Harvard astronomers have had a peep at Halley's fiery courier of the solar system and only a couple of mornings remain for successful observation.

The Harvard observers refused to commit themselves to any theory regarding the makeup of the comet or the possibilities of a collision between the earth and what is known as the tail. They confine themselves to such facts as their own eyes and those of their delicate photographic plates reveal.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT

Spoke at Berlin University on "The World Movement"

BERLIN, May 12.—Mr. Roosevelt found his voice much improved when he rose this morning and said that he felt perfectly able to deliver his address as planned at the University of Berlin. Until this morning there was doubt whether the former president would be able to keep his engagement and when it became known that he expected to go so there was much elation among the university officials and others who had anticipated the address with eagerness.

Word that Mr. Roosevelt would be heard was communicated swiftly throughout the city this forenoon and when at the hour appointed he reached the university the historic aula was occupied by a distinguished company. Emperor William was present. The former president received a gratifying reception. The subject of the address was "The world movement."

Mr. Roosevelt said that the German emperor had often been held up by him as a statesman who was doing things which he, the speaker, should do. "I remember," he said, "that my friend Dr. Fritschell, then president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, at Boston, told me of the emperor's interest in and knowledge of technical education. While in Africa I used to think that there was something wrong with the mail if it did not bring a letter from Benjamin Ide Wheeler telling me of his admiration for some feature of German life and of the emperor's extraordinary qualities and kindness."

Mr. Roosevelt referred to the fact that his own family was of Low Dutch extraction and to the indebtedness beginning with Colonial days of the United States to Germany in blood, ideas and achievements.

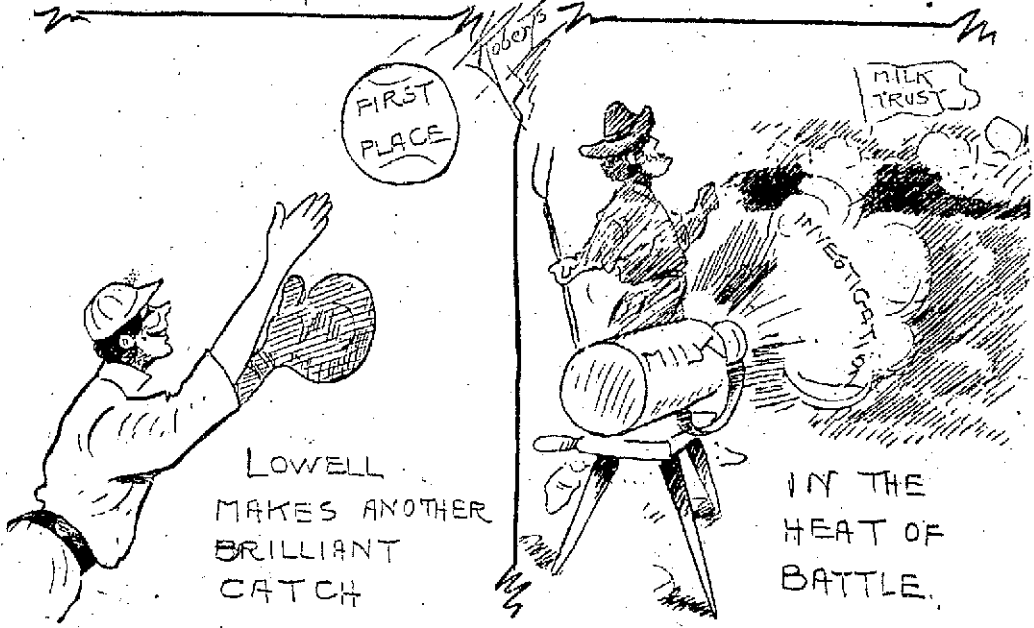

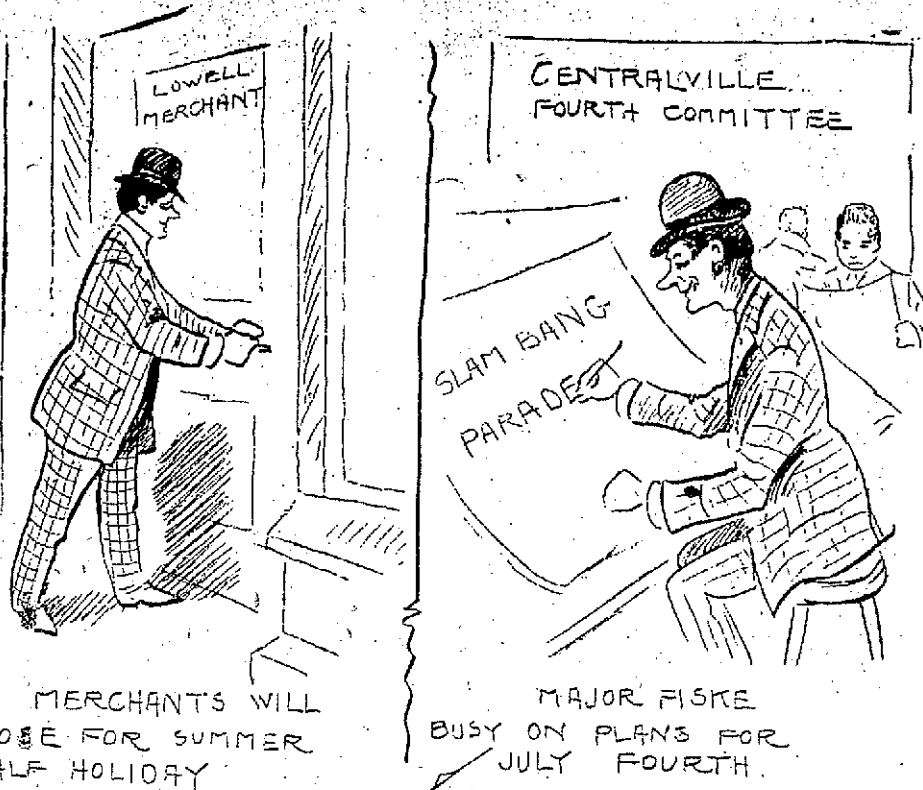

During another diversion from his set speech and following his remarks concerning military virtues the former president said:

"I saw some of your German troops march before the commander in chief yesterday. I cannot understand how any German could look upon those soldiers without feeling pride at the physical and intellectual character of these soldiers from the farm and shop; serving their time and then returning to their work to be replaced by other and younger men. I can see only hope for the future with such men. I would like to speak of the men of the American Civil War if I had the time and the voice."

Mr. Roosevelt's address follows:

Roosevelt's Address—
"The play of new forces is as evident in the moral and spiritual world as in the world of the mind and body. Forces for good and forces for evil are everywhere evident, each acting with a hundred or a thousand fold the intensity with which it acted in former ages. Over the whole earth the swing of the pendulum grows more and more rapid, the mainspring coils and spreads at a rate constantly quickening, the whole world movement is of constantly accelerating velocity."

"In this movement there are signs of much that bodes ill. The machinery is so highly geared, the tension and strain are so great, the effort and the output have alike so increased, that there is cause to dread the ruin that would have come from any great accident, from any breakdown, and also, the ruin that may come from the mere wearing out of the machine itself. The only previous civilization with which our modern civilization can be in any way compared is that period of Greece-Roman civilization extending, say, from the Athens of Themistocles to the Rome of Marcus Aurelius. Many of the forces and tendencies which were then at work are at work now. Knowledge, luxury, and refinement, wide material conquests, territorial administration on a vast scale, an increase in the mastery of mechanical appliances and in applied science—all these mark our civilization as they marked the wonderful civilization that flourished in the Mediterranean lands twenty centuries ago; and they preceded the downfall of the older civilization. Yet the differences are many, and some of them are quite as striking as the similarities. The single fact that the old civilization was based upon slavery shows the chasm that separates the two. Let me point out the further and very significant difference in the development of the two civilizations, a difference so obvious that it is astonishing that it has not been dwelt upon by men of letters.

"One of the prime dangers of civilization has always been its tendency to cause the loss of the virile fighting virtues, of the fighting edge. When men get too comfortable and lead too luxurious lives there is always danger of the softening of the soul and the loss of their manliness of fiber. The barbarian, because of the very conditions of his life, is forced to keep and develop certain hardy qualities which the man of civilization tends to lose, whether he be clerk, farmer, hand merchant, or even a certain type of farmer. Now I will not assert that in modern civilized society these tendencies have been wholly overcome; but there has been a much more successful effort to overcome them than was the case in the early civilizations."

"What is the lesson to us today? Are we to go the way of the older civilizations? The immense increase in the area of civilized activity today, so that it is nearly coterminous with the world's surface; the immense increase in the multitudinous variety of its activities; the immense increase in the velocity of the world movement—all these to mean merely that the crash will be all the more complete and terrible that the answer will be in the negative; but of this we can be certain, that we shall not go down in ruin unless we deserve it, and earn our end. There is no necessity for us to fall; we can hew out our destiny for ourselves. If only we have the wit and the courage and the honesty."

"Personally, I do not believe that our civilization will fall. I think that on the whole we have grown better and not worse. I think that on the whole the future holds more for us than the past. The great past has held, but assuredly, the dreams of golden glory in the future will not come true unless, high of heart and strong of hand, by our own mighty deeds we make them come true. We cannot afford to develop any of the qualities, any one set of activities, at the cost of seeing others equally necessary, atrophied. Neither the military efficiency of the Mongol, the phenomenal business ability of the Phoenician, nor the subtle and polished intellect of the Greek availed to avert destruction."

"We, the men of today and of the future, need many qualities if we are to do our work well. We need, first of all and most important of all, the qualities which stand at the base of individual, of family life, the fundamental and essential qualities—the homely, every-day, all-important virtues. If the average man will not work, if he had not in him the will and the power to be a good husband and father; if the average woman is not a good housewife, a good mother of many healthy children, then the state will topple, will go down, no matter what may beset its brilliance of artistic development or material achievement. But these homely qualities are not enough. There must, in addition, be that power of organization, that power of working in common for a common end, which the German people have shown in such signal fashion during the last half century. Moreover, important than the things of the body, tolerance and arid intellectual barrenness of what was worst in the logical systems of the past, but there has never been greater need of a high and fine religious spirit than at the present time. So, while we can laugh at the good humoredly at some of the pretensions of modern philosophy in its various branches, it would be well to felly on our part to ignore our need of intellectual leadership. Your own great Frederick once said that if he wished to punish a province he would leave it to an element of justice; and yet no one better than the great Frederick knew the value of philosophers, the value of men of science, men of letters, men of art. It would be a bad thing indeed to accept matters; but it would be a bad thing not to have Tolstoi, not to profit by the lofty side of his teaching. There are plenty of scientific men whose hard arrogance, whose cynical materialism, whose dogmatic intolerance, put them on a level with the hinged mediocrity of the vulgar, which they denounce. Yet our chief danger of today would have left from it all that which most highly distinguishes it if the work of the great masters of science during the past four centuries were now undone or forgotten. Science has brought philanthropy, humanitarism, seen such development as now; and though we must all beware of the folly, and the viciousness no worse than folly, which marks the believer in the perfectibility of man, when his heart runs away with his head, or when vanity usurps the place of conscience, yet we must remember also that it is only by working along the lines laid down by the philanthropists, by the lovers of mankind, that we can be sure of lifting our civilization to a higher and more permanent plane of well-being than was ever attained by any preceding civilization. Just war is to be a civilization, but war to the nation that does not make ready to hold its own in time of need against all who would harm it; that was thrice over to the nation in which the average man loses the fighting edge, loses the power to serve as a soldier if the day of need should arise.

"It is no impossible dream to build up a civilization in which morality, ethical development, and a true feeling of brotherhood shall all alike be divorced from false sentimentality and from the rancorous and evil passions which, curiously enough, so often accompany professions of sentimental attachment to the rights of man; in which a high material development in the things of the body shall be achieved without subordination of the things of the soul; in which there shall be a genuine desire for peace and justice without loss of those virile qualities without which no love of peace or justice shall avail any race; in which the fullest development of scientific research, the great distinguishing feature of our present civilization, shall yet not imply a belief that intellect can ever take the place of character—for, from the standpoint of the nation as of the individual, it is character that is the one vital possession."

"Finally, this world movement of civilization, this movement which is now felt throbbing in every corner of the globe, should bind the nations of the world together while yet leaving unimpaired that love of country in the individual citizen which in the present stage of the world's progress is essential to the world's well being. You, my hearers, and I who speak to you, belong to different nations. Unlike and your future, I admire and wonder at the extraordinary greatness and variety of your achievements in so many and such widely different fields; and my admiration and regard are all the greater, and not the less, because I am so profound a believer in the institutions and the people of my own land."

DIED FROM POISONING
NEW YORK, May 12.—Florence Heyneman of Sacramento, Cal., who was recently divorced from her husband, Otto Heyneman, in San Francisco, died today in the Flower hospital here from the effects of taking poison on Tuesday night.

Mrs. Heyneman, who was 30 years old, took to the stage after she was separated from her husband, becoming a chorus girl and appearing in several New York productions. She had been despondent since her arrival from the west recently.

JAIL SENTENCES

For Defendant In Liquor Cases

AUGUSTA, Me., May 12.—Five jail sentences for liquor selling and the requirement of bonds of $1000 in two instances to keep the peace comprised the work of Judge Maher in the municipal court yesterday.

Owen Dow and Paul Larrabee were each convicted on the charge of illegal possession and each fined $100 and costs and each given 60 days in jail and in default of the payment of the fine 60 days additional.

The state claimed that Charles E. Sturgis was the owner of liquor seized from the men named above and he was convicted of illegal possession and fined $100 and costs and given 60 days in jail.

Dow was ordered to give a bond of $1000 to keep the peace. Arthur Cormier and Edgar Dellaire, on an illegal possession charge, were each fined $100 and costs and each given 60 days in jail. Cormier was ordered to give a bond of $1000 to keep the peace.

dered to give bail in the sum of $1000 to keep the peace.

All appealed and will appear at the September session of the superior court.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION

BOSTON, May 12.—Speakers of international reputation addressed the annual meeting of the Boston district of the Massachusetts Sunday School association held in Tremont temple today. Among those who delivered addresses were Rev. F. B. Meyer of London widely known as a preacher, author and lecturer, Rev. Richard Roberts, also a celebrated London minister and Marlon Lawrence of Congo. Rev. Mr. Meyer is president of the world's Sunday School association and Mr. Lawrence is general secretary of the International Sunday School convention to be held in Washington May 24. Bishop Hartwell of Africa and Dr. Bailey of Philadelphia, chairman of the world's association committee who accompanied them during part of the tour, were unable to be presented to the convention today.

CONDITIONS SHOCKING

Commissioner Neill

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The conditions of labor existing at the Bethlehem Steel Works, at South Bethlehem, Pa., as set forth in the report of the bureau of labor, recently sent to congress, are more or less common throughout the entire steel industry, according to a statement issued yesterday by Dr. Charles P. Neill, commissioner of labor. He referred to the conditions in the blast furnaces as shocking.

This announcement was brought forth by a protest made Tuesday by President Charles M. Schwab of the Bethlehem Steel Co., regarding the report. Mr. Schwab complained that the summary was unfair to his company. Commissioner Neill in his statement sustains Mr. Schwab's contention that most of the skilled workmen of the Bethlehem plant had a Saturday half holiday and that "it is true that in some departments work for the entire seven days of the week, month in and month out, has been the practice throughout the entire steel industry."

Continuing, Dr. Neill said: "The annual reports of the bureau of labor on wages and hours show that in the blast furnaces, for example, 34 hours a week has been the regular working time in every section of the country; this means practically a 12 hour day every day in the week. In cases where the day shift and the night shift periodically exchange every week or second week, one shift works six days of 12 hours one week, while the other shift works six days of 12 hours and on the seventh day remains on duty continuously for 24 hours in order to effect the exchange."

"These are conditions of labor which may well be termed shocking, but they are not confined to the Bethlehem Steel Works."

Mr. Neill added that blast furnace work was necessarily a continuous process and that three shifts of eight hours each offered the only plan of relief.

The recent public discussion on the subject, the commissioner added, has brought about a lessening of Sunday labor. In this connection the commissioner continued:

"It might be added that since the beginning of the investigation into the conditions at the Bethlehem plant, emphasis has been placed by the United States Steel corporation, to reduce Sunday work to the minimum."

MICHAEL F. BOYLE

Honored by Pres. Shea
of C. T. A. U.

Mr. Michael F. Boyle, the well known vice president of the Mathew Temperance Institute, has been chosen by Pres. John T. Shea of the C. T. A. U. of the archdiocese as district deputy for the St. John's A. society of North Chelmsford, one of the most prosperous societies in the archdiocesan body. St. John's society is fortunate in securing one so well equipped to look after its interests as Mr. Boyle.

District Deputy Boyle received word of his appointment yesterday and will pay his first official visit very soon.

FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS

CINCINNATI, O., May 12.—The biennial convention of the American Federation of Women's Clubs opened yesterday before 500 delegates and guests. The Rev. Charles Frederick Goss of Cincinnati was the principal speaker. Governor Hudson Harmon of Ohio was present for a few moments and spoke briefly.

The opening was a record breaker in attendance and in the number of delegates from other cities. More than 2500 delegates are present.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Senator Lorimer of Illinois may have company in a senate investigation on how he secured his seat. During the hearing of the Ballinger-Pinchot inquiry the attorney for Glavis demanded that information be admitted telling how Senator Samuel H. Piles of Washington was elected. The statement was made by Attorney Brandeis that Senator Piles had the backing of the Morgan-Guggenheim syndicate. Senator Root, a member of the Ballinger committee, demanded that the statement be removed from the records. This was not done, but the committee refused to make further inquiry along this line. However, the Pinchot-Glavis following are at active work and announce that they will present a number of points on the election of Senator Piles for the consideration of the country.

FORGERY CHARGE VALESKA SURATT

Is Made Against a Winthrop Man Cannot Perform in New York

BOSTON, May 12.—When Albert M. Crowe, 35 years old, of 4 Woodside pk., Winthrop, a yachtman and clubman, entered the court house yesterday afternoon on his way to the superior criminal court, where there has been a larceny charge pending against him since March 11, he met Capt. John R. McGarr of police headquarters, who informed him of his recent indictment by the grand jury on charges of forgery and uttering.

Crowe, who was formerly a real estate broker, with offices at 60 State street, was taken to police headquarters and booked by Capt. McGarr, being removed later to the superior court detention room.

Catherine Snow of 29 Sterling street, Roxbury, alleges that Crowe swindled her out of $550 through real estate deals. Jan. 31, 1908, she says, she gave Crowe $350 to invest for her. He gave her a promissory note for $350, signed by "Franklin Burnham." This note she was informed was secured by a mortgage on certain real estate.

Feb. 8, 1909, she gave Crowe $200, she says, securing in return another promissory note for $200. The second note was signed by "Charles S. Day."

This note was also secured by a mortgage, so the woman claims she was told by Crowe.

Investigation later revealed that the notes were forgeries, and that the real estate that was supposed to secure the notes never existed.

Crowe was arrested March 11 by Capt. McGarr and Armstrong on the complaint of William H. Stimpson, 41 business at 293 Marginal street, East Boston, who lives at Winthrop. The complaint alleged the larceny of $50.

More than one year ago, according to the police, Crowe was asked by Stimpson to insure his auto, which was valued at $5000. Stimpson said he paid Crowe $50, and that the latter notified him that the car had been insured by him.

July 4 last Stimpson's garage caught fire and the car was destroyed. Stimpson tried to get his insurance, asking Crowe for the policy several times. The police claim the policy was canceled because Crowe had not settled with the company for it.

When arraigned in the superior court yesterday afternoon Crowe pleaded not guilty and was held in $20,000.

of the harvest they can reap with the show on tour. But Mayor Gaynor promises to go even further. He says that the show is not fit for the American stage and that he feels it will be his duty to notify his fellow executives throughout the country that this show should not be permitted on any stage.

In the meantime Miss Suratt, who has won fame for her striking costumes if nothing else, has also been barred from giving a vaudeville act at Hammerstein's.

$75,000 DAMAGE

Disastrous Fire Took Place at Westerly, R. I.

WESTERLY, R. I., May 12.—Damage estimated at $75,000 was done to the Barker memorial building, one of the chief business blocks in Westerly, late last night by a fire that is said to have been started by crossed electric light wires in an anteroom of the museum judge rooms on the third floor. Before the fire was brought under control, several adjacent buildings at times were in peril.

The flames worked havoc on the third floor, practically destroying it. The second floor was partly burned out and with the first also suffered heavily by water. The museum judge room occupied the whole of the third and top floor, while the second was devoted to offices.

AN AMBASSADOR LYNN MAN HELD

Is Accused of Owning a Debt Is Alleged to Be a Burglar

PITTSBURG, May 12.—The details of arranging a settlement for an international marriage and the legal work necessary to protect the estate of a daughter of a wealthy American from creditors and relatives of her husband after his death, were made public yesterday in an affidavit and statement of claim filed in the common pleas court by O. E. Bodington, against John G. A. Leishman, the American ambassador to Rome, Italy, whose home is in Pittsburgh.

The statement is in connection with a writ of foreign attachment filed during the April term of court. It alleges that Ambassador Leishman is indebted to Bodington in the sum of $5500. It is set up that the ambassador's family is living in Paris and that Bodington performed legal service for them for four years in connection with the legal affairs of a daughter, Martha Leishman, now the Countess de Gontaut-Biron. It is further stated that the account was paid up to December, 1907, but since that time no money has been received by Bodington for his services in advising Leishman and his daughter as to the French law regulating "contract of separation of property," which was executed upon the marriage of Miss Leishman with Count Louis de Gontaut-Biron.

The statement also covers claims for fees alleged to be due Bodington for services rendered in "saving off" creditors of the count.

BOSTON, May 12.—By the arrest of Nicholas Dragodas, 35 years old, a lodger at 28 Kneeland street, who was captured on Harrison avenue yesterday afternoon by Inspectors Shields, Pelton, Hart and Conway of police headquarters, it is believed that the mystery surrounding many burglaries in Lynn has been cleared.

Inspectors Murray and Fitzgerald of Lynn yesterday said that Dragodas on last Thursday evening broke into the residence of Sewall Clark at 28 Lafayette park, Lynn, stealing jewelry and clothing worth $500.

A watch and chain and diamond locket valued at $200 that was stolen from the home of Mr. Clark was disposed of by Dragodas at the South End pawn shop yesterday. A broker furnished the police with a description of the man that said the watch and chain and it fitted Dragodas perfectly.

Yesterday he denied at police headquarters that he was a burglar. He admitted receiving the watch and locket, saying that he had done so for an Italian friend, who paid him $2 for the trouble.

While the police were searching the room of the alleged thief the detectives found nearly 100 keys and numerous pawn tickets. These pawn tickets, they say, probably represent the proceeds of numerous other Lynn breaks that the detectives of that city are investigating.

Before he was taken to Lynn his picture and measurements were taken for the rogues' gallery.

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

The sworn daily average circulation of The Lowell Sun for the year 1909 was

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilotte, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1910. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

THE LOBSTER DISAPPEARING

The lobster seems to be growing scarce around the shores of Massachusetts. The legislature has asked the fish and game commission for an explanation. The present supply comes chiefly from Maine and Nova Scotia, so that it is necessary to ascertain the cause in order that a remedy may be provided. It is suspected that the lobster may be the prey of some other fish, such as the dog fish, while it is believed that much of the trouble arises from fishermen destroying the young in violation of law.

FOR PUBLIC BATHS.

The city of Somerville has appealed to the legislature for permission to borrow $25,000 to establish a system of public baths. Somerville is so near to the benches and to Boston that it does not need public baths nearly so much as does a factory city like Lowell. We presume Lowell must wait for a considerable time before she can hope for such a "luxury." We say luxury because baths would be so regarded at the present time although in reality a system of public baths is not a luxury but an actual necessity in every factory city.

ANTIQUATED TENEMENTS AND FIRE TRAP BLOCKS.

Those who own antiquated tenement property may as well remodel it so as to meet present day requirements or else pull it down altogether. We have a lot of old rookeries in this city—they are to be found in every city—many of which should be condemned by the building inspector and pulled down.

We have also many large tenement blocks, some of which are ingeniously designed as fire traps. They are three or four stories high and so numerous are they occupied that if a fire ever started in them in the night time nothing but a miracle or the heroism of the firemen could ever save the occupants.

We have too many such buildings right in the heart of the city. Inspector Dow of the building department has condemned a few of the old eye sores, and it is to be hoped that he will exercise his authority to put more of them out of existence.

The working people very wisely avoid tenements that have a water closet in the basement with perhaps very poor sanitary arrangements.

When this very old and dilapidated tenement property shall have been either remodeled or cleared away, we may have more sanitary homes and a more healthful city.

DEMONSTRATIONS OF LOYALTY TO THE BRITISH MONARCHY.

The message sent out by the Queen Mother to the people of the nation is very touching and pathetic. She expresses her deepest gratitude to all classes for their sympathy and appeals to the people for remembrance in their prayers during her present affliction while at the same time commending to them her son, the new king, and expressing the belief that he will be as devoted to the interests of the whole people as was his beloved father. There is no doubt whatever that the death of King Edward has caused the deepest sympathy and sorrow among all classes of people throughout the United Kingdom. It seems to have inspired new loyalty to the throne and made it stronger if possible than ever before.

If any doubts were entertained as to the loyalty of the British people to monarchy, those doubts will be dispelled by the demonstrations of sorrow on the death of King Edward and of sympathy for the new king and his devoted queen. There have been strong expressions of sympathy and loyalty from unexpected sources since the death of King Edward. Even Mr. Crook, the socialist leader, expressed the loyalty of himself and followers when he said: "We like to feel that he (the king) is above us all and to look up to him." This was unexpected from an organization that believes in individual equality and one that is particularly opposed to monarchy in any form. It would seem that in England the socialists exempt the king from their leveling process.

There was still another example of this sympathy that was rather surprising, coming as it did from the leader of the Laborites, Mr. Snowden. It was supposed that there had been a growing spirit among the working classes against monarchy and in favor of a republic, but according to Mr. Snowden's statement at the present time, there is no such feeling, for he says: "We are a democratic party, not republicans," and he adds: "No member of the labor party attacks the monarch."

That expression seems to be conclusive in regard to the attitude of the labor party and its loyalty to the throne. Nor is there any great reason why it should be otherwise so far as the English people are concerned. The British government is absolutely subject to the will of the people except so far as the popular will is thwarted by the House of Lords. Before the king's death it was hoped that in a short time this power of obstructing popular legislation would soon be wiped out. By some this reformation of the upper house with the curtailment of its powers is regarded as an attack upon the monarchy. In reality it is nothing of the kind. On the contrary it will rather strengthen the monarchy to have the House of Lords brought absolutely into subjection to the people. That is what will result if the veto power of the lords be nullified so that the peers can no longer defeat popular measures of legislation.

The new king has already made a good impression with the country and in advising the people not to let the mourning for the dead king interfere with their business or their amusements, he has shown such a regard for the interests of all classes that his message has been very highly appreciated. It shows a tendency on his part to consider the interests of the people as well as the interests of royalty, and that is the unselfish spirit that pleases the democracy of the country and that will insure its loyal support. The general belief at the present time is that King George will soon ingratiate himself with the people so that he will be fully as popular as was his father.

SEEN AND HEARD

Any one can carry his burden, however heavy, till nightfall. Any one can do his work, however hard, for one day. Any one can live sweetly, lovingly, purely, till the sun goes down. And this is all that life really means.—Emerson.

"Away, away from the dusty town, In the depths of the woodlands your grief to drown: From the busy strife, Where the world is life With song and bloom, and the breath of life!"

Let the very humblest man know that he may one day have it in his power to help the very strongest man he has ever known.—Joseph Parker.

"Look for goodness; look for sadness, You will find them all the while; If you bring a smiling visage To the glass, you find a smile. Do not look for wrong and evil, You will find them if you do; As you measure for your neighbor, Life will measure back to you."

"Shirking responsibility is playing truant from the school of experience."

"When you get into a cloud, don't imagine that the sun has gone out of existence. Just do something to get out of the cloud."

"Fire, sugar, whips, and words, both hard and soft, have been advocated from time to time as the proper thing to make a balky horse change his mind, but none of them seems to be effective in such cases. But here is a brand new one introduced on Fletcher street by a Hebrew collector and seller of rags and junk. At least a hundred people will testify that it is the most effective system."

A dignified sort of a horse came up Fletcher street a few days ago, with a deliberate tread, while its owner dozed contentedly on the seat of the wagon. The horse came to an abrupt stop near Liberty Square and refused to go further. Immediately the driver jumped down from the seat and stepped in a doorway. A minute passed and a policeman walked across the street and said to the man: "What do you mean by leaving that horse in the street that way?" "He's balky," said the driver. "Well, then, why don't you try to make him go? Why don't you do something?" The old peddler smiled patiently. "That's the only way to make him go," he said. "Just let him alone."

When he talks I get off the wagon and stand where he can't see me. If I stay on the seat or stand where he can get a glimpse of me, he won't go. He'll be starting in a minute or so."

"Before the policeman had time to answer, the horse gazed cautiously about him and then started slowly along. "See," said the peddler, "he's going all right now," and he climbed over the back of the wagon and got on the seat."

A Sunday school teacher tells the story of the result of an attempted application of the principles of economics.

For some time she had endeavored to impress upon the mind of one of her scholars, the names of the three qualities, faith, hope, and charity. One Sunday she presented the pupil of the poor memory with three new shining coins, a penny, a five-cent piece and a dime.

"Please," she said, "represents faith, the five-cent piece, hope, and the dime charity. Keep these coins and every time you look at them think of what they stand for."

The Sunday following the teacher reviewed the lesson of the week before and called upon the holder of the coins to produce them and give their names in proper rotation. The youngster shuffled from one leg to the other, stammered, blushed and seemed overcome with mortification. Finally he burst out with:

"Please, Miss Ethel, I ain't got nothing left but faith. Baby's worried hope, and mama took charity and bought ten cents' worth of meat to make hamburger steak out of."

CONQUER OR DIE

"Tired? Well, what of that? Didst fancy life was spent on beds or ease? Fluttering the rose-leaves scattered by. Come, rouse thee! work while it is called day! Coward, arise! go forth upon thy way."

"Lonely? and what of that? Some must be lonely; 'tis not given to all. To feel a heart responsive rise and fall, To blend another life into its own; Work may be done in loneliness. Work on!"

"Dark? Well, and what of that? Didst fondly dream the sun would never set? Dost fear to lose thy way? Take courage yet! Learn thou to walk by faith, and not by sight! Thy steps will guided be, and guided right."

"Hard? Well, what of that? Didst fancy life one summer holiday, With lessons none to learn, and naught but play? Go, set thee to thy task; Conquer or die! It must be learned; learn it, then, patiently."

81 FIRMS SIGN

Agreement to Close on Thursday Afternoons

The retail clerks of the different stores of the city combined business and pleasure at Prescott hall, last evening, and after transacting business of importance they danced until midnight. The principal business was the discussion of the report of the special committee appointed at the previous meeting to confer with the merchants in regard to the Thursday afternoon closing.

The committee made report that 81 firms had agreed to close Thursday afternoon during the summer.

A vote of thanks was tendered the merchants for their prompt and general response to the request of the clerks.

The meeting also recommended that a committee be appointed to formulate plans for a clerks' protective association. After some discussion both these recommendations were unanimously adopted.

After the business meeting dancing was enjoyed until 12 o'clock. Another meeting will be held in the near future.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

At the Opera House today and for the remainder of the week there will be a complete change of program, both of vaudeville and pictures. On the bill today will be seen Prince Kanazawa and brother, Japanese acrobats and wonder workers in a series of novel and sensational feats, including what is termed a slide for life, a startling and sensational slide from gallery to stage. Boris Foster, the cheer-up comedian, who comes direct from a week's engagement at the American Music hall, Boston; Johnnie Wise & Co. in a comedy, singing, dancing and character change act, that is a big hit wherever seen, and Davis and Davis, vocalists and dancers. The pictures to be seen are all new and shown in Lowell for the first time and what is said to be one of the best bills so far seen at the Opera House is promised.

The wonder is how it is possible to give such big value for the small price of admission charged as many of the vaudeville acts seen at the Opera House are numbered among the features of the vaudeville programs of the larger cities and where a much higher price of admission is charged. Matinees are given at the Opera House every afternoon from 2 to 5 and two full shows at night, starting at 7 and 9.30.

JOHN MARSH FARM

Brought $9100 at Public Auction Yesterday

Prospective purchasers came from miles around to the sale of the John H. Marsh farm at Pelham, N. H. yesterday afternoon. The sale was under the direction of C. H. Hanson & Co., and Mr. James S. Hanson, auctioneer.

J. D. Raymond of South Sudbury, Mass., was the purchaser, and the price paid was $9100. The bidding was confined to three men, J. D. Raymond, the purchaser, S. W. Dane of Lynn, Mass., and Mr. Parker of the South Sudbury house of Boston. Bidding started at $500 and was raised in bids of $1000 and $500, until knocked down to Mr. Raymond.

The farm is one of the largest in the town and the buildings in size and situation are not equalled for miles around. But one other barn in the state of New Hampshire is said, is larger than the John H. Marsh barn, and the house is an imposing structure of 20 rooms, well set back from the street. There are 300 acres of land.

Mr. Raymond for several years has conducted a high grade milk farm at South Sudbury. He is a Harvard graduate and believes in farming on scientific principles. He stated yesterday that if he finds conditions to his liking he will establish a farm in Pelham such as he conducted in South Sudbury.

The sale started promptly at 12.30 and was continued until 4 o'clock. The farm is one of the largest in the town and the buildings in size and situation are not equalled for miles around. But one other barn in the state of New Hampshire is said, is larger than the John H. Marsh barn, and the house is an imposing structure of 20 rooms, well set back from the street. and was concluded at 6.15, about 400 lots of furniture and farming implements, carts, cows, pigs, hens, etc., being disposed of. Included in the furnishings of the house were many articles in antique ware. These were eagerly snapped up by those in the crowd who knew their value.

The sale as a whole netted good prices. The system of handling the various lots was good and little time was lost between bids. The purchaser of the farm will take possession some time in June.

LOCAL ARMENIANS

WILL HOLD NATIONAL CHURCH SERVICE NEXT SUNDAY

The local Armenians of the National church will hold their first service in St. John's Episcopal church, next Sunday afternoon, when a mass will be celebrated by Rev. S. Tashjian of Boston. After the mass a baptismal service will be held. This will be the first time that the complete ritual of the church has ever been used in this city.

CHELMSFORD

A supper and entertainment under the direction of the Ladies' Benevolent society was held in the Congregational vestry last evening. A Pledgers' Parade supper began at 6.30, several of the boys acting as distributors of the sandwiches, fancy cakes, etc., later serving ice cream and coffee.

The entertainment included piano solo by Mrs. A. E. Barton, readings by Mrs. Isabella Lovejoy, contralto solos by Miss Alice Stearns, and several selections upon the phonograph by Mr. A. C. Charles.

Those in charge were Miss Lillian Kibourn, Miss Annie Todd, Mrs. E. A. Lyle, Mrs. E. T. Adams, Mrs. W. A. Mitchell.

OFFICERS CHOSEN

By Free Baptist Conference at Chelmsford St. Church

The second and last day of the 25th annual meeting of the Massachusetts Association of Free Baptist Churches is being held at the Chelmsford Street Free Baptist church. Today's session opened with an experience meeting at 9:30, led by Rev. Walter Malvern of Melrose. Reports of committees were heard at 10:30, and there was a sermon at 11 o'clock by Rev. G. Bolster of Somerville. Dinner was served at 12:15.

In the afternoon there was a meeting of the Massachusetts Free Baptist Young People's society. Rev. Walter J. Malvern president. There was a devotional service at 1:30, and at 2 o'clock business and reports held the boards. The rest of the afternoon was given over to music and addresses. At 4 o'clock there was prayer and consecration service.

Officers Elected

Yesterday, the opening day of the conference, the following officers were elected: President, Rev. Charles E. McColly of Lawrence; Vice-president, Rev. J. C. Wilson of Lowell; Secretary and treasurer, Rev. W. J. Twort of Haverhill; Auditor, M. H. Reed of Haverhill. Executive board, for three years: Rev. C. E. McColly of Lawrence, Mrs. Emily A. Page of Haverhill. Delegates to general conference, Rev. Myra C. Hoyt of Brockton (alternate), Mrs. J. E. Doe of Somerville, Rev. W. J. Twort of Haverhill (alternate), C. A.

Baton of Boston), Rev. W. W. Harris of Chelsea (alternate), J. L. Pugsley of Melrose).

The messengers were received, with their messages of greeting, from the Maine, Vermont and Rhode Island associations.

A workers' conference followed, when the following questions were discussed: "The Reason Why Young Men Should Enter the Ministry," Rev. Myra C. Hoyt. Mrs. Hoyt, who is the only woman minister in the Massachusetts Free Baptist conference, said that the reason why young men should enter the ministry seemed much the same to her as the reasons why anyone should enter the ministry. No one should enter unless called.

"Why Men Should Work for Men" was discussed by Mr. Paul of Boston. Mrs. Frances E. Mosher of Boston gave some reasons why the church should extend its home mission work.

A brief business session of the Women's Mission society was held, and after supper, which was served in the lower rooms of the church, the evening session was opened with a praise service by Rev. H. Nickerson of Lynn.

The committee on resolutions reported, and the following recommendations were adopted by the conference: That all money collected for missions shall be forwarded to the treasurer of the state association.

That the executive committee, in preparing the program for the next session, assign Wednesday evening entirely to a consideration of work for men. That the clerk be instructed to pay the railroad fares of delegates to the general conference held at Ocean Park, Me., June 13; and also to pay $1 a day for the actual working days of the conference.

A rising vote of appreciation was given the local church, for its entertainment of the conference.

Rev. Horace H. Hayes of the Boston church received the right hand of fellowship from the conference, through Rev. W. W. Malvern of Melrose.

Rev. Charles E. McColly gave an address on "Men's Work for Men." He held that the church is being "feminized" to a great extent. Men owe their duty to the church, he said, the same as to the state. All over the land we hear the cry, "Where are the men?"

When a minister has to announce, as one did recently, "The auditor and I will hold the usual Friday night prayer meeting," something needs to be done. We have been putting the greatest burden of our societies on the shoulders of the women, and the burden is becoming almost unbearable. According to the census of 1906, out of 20 million Protestants, 60 per cent. are women; and it might be added that 77 per cent. of the men who do go to church do nothing but ride on the gospel chariot without even dragging their feet.

The only way to solve the boy problem is to get the men into the church and the Sunday school. You cannot expect boys to stay to Sunday school if their fathers will not stay.

The church is being manned by women, and a manless church is the derision of the age. The church is losing her power and her prestige because of this. One reason why young men are not going into the ministry is because they have to preach to women almost entirely. We have got tired of being called ladies' men. Men are talking all over the country, that religion is a woman's business. Instead of letting George do it, they are letting the women do it. The elevation of the church must come into the hearts of men, through men. We want men in the church, and when we get them, we want to give them something to do.

Rev. H. H. Hayes of Boston preached a sermon on "The Promise and Potency of the Church." His text was from Matthew, 16th chapter, 18th and 19th verses.

COMEDY DRAMA

PRESENTED BY THE TOWER

CLASS OF P. M. CHURCH

At the Gorham Street P. M. church last night the young men of the "Tower Class" presented the comedy-drama entitled "Strife." The play was given under the direction of Miss Maude M. Mountford and proved a great success.

Messrs. Orrin McKenzie, Kilgore Manning, Tom Baldwin, Guy McQuaid, George Higginbottom, E. Champion, Walter Matthews, B. Stark, John Graham and others assisted in the "mob" scene.

Miss Eva Robinson, reader; Mr. N. W. Matthews, Jr., baritone; Mr. Edward Looney, clarinetist; Messrs. Roffe and Phil, banjo, mandolin and guitar, gave selections during the evening and were enthusiastically received, responding to encore.

Miss Alice Whelan was the accompanist of the evening. The cast: Judge Henry Buttons, a retired judge and wealthy mill owner.

Mr. George Demmett, a gentleman of leisure.

Harold Thomas, a gentleman of leisure.

Henry Hansell, a merchant.

Mr. Harry Jenson, Aristotle Thompson, Horatio Squash, (the judge's most intimate friends).

Mr. Andrew Brown, Mr. A. Chapman, Hans Von Sandt, his cook.

Mr. Fred Matthews, Julius and Neb (his servants).

Mr. James Brown, Mr. Wm. Haines, Policeman.

Mr. Orrin Taylor, Laura Bell, the judge's ward.

Mrs. Hilda Bowring, Mrs. Hansell, Henry's mother.

Dolly, a maid.

THORNDIKE WILLS

Charities Are Likely to Get Millions

BOSTON, May 12.—In the will of Charles Thorndike and his wife, Mary F. Thorndike, of Nahant and Boston, which were probated at Salem yesterday, Harvard University, the Industrial School for Deformed and Crippled Children and the House of the Good Samaritan, are named as possible legatees to bequests totalling several millions at the expiration of the trust. Dr. Augustus Thorndike, the only child, is given $300,000 outright in his father's will, and the residue, together with Mrs. Thorndike's estate, is left in trust, the income to be divided among Dr. Thorndike's five minor children and his father's sister. Twenty years after the death of all named in the trust both estates are to be divided among their issue.

Should the beneficiaries all die without issue Mr. Thorndike's estate is to be shared by the three public beneficiaries mentioned above, and Mrs. Thorndike's estate all goes to the Industrial School for Deformed and Crippled Children.

Mr. Thorndike's estate is estimated at $340,000 and Mrs. Thorndike's estate at $640,000. He died on April 8 of pneumonia and his wife died the following day from the same disease, so that the property disposed of in Mrs. Thorndike's will represents her dower rights in her husband's estate, as she lived a few hours longer.

The Thorndike home at Nos. 481 and 483 Commonwealth avenue is one of the finest in the Back Bay. It is a double house and extends through to Beacon street. Charles Thorndike's legal residence was in Nahant, where he had a summer home.

The chances of Harvard University and the two charitable organizations sharing in the estate are rather remote, as Dr. Thorndike is the father of five children, two boys and three girls, whose ages range from 8 to 17 years.

FOUND GUILTY

MAN ACCUSED OF TRYING TO

EXTORT MONEY FROM CARUSO

NEW YORK, May 12.—A verdict of guilty was found in the Enrico Caruso "black hand" case in Brooklyn yesterday. The man on trial was Antonio Mislana, one of the men charged with attempting to extort $16,000 from the famous tenor. The jury found Mislana guilty of attempted extortion and he will be sentenced on Monday. Antonio Cinotti, the other alleged would-be blackmailer, will shortly be put on trial on a similar charge.

Caruso testified in the case before sailing Tuesday for Europe.

That Means Dollars to You

We've turned a trick on Serge Suits we're rather proud of.

With prices of worsted fabrics soaring in the air, we've put through a deal by which we've bettered our last year's $15 serge—which was a corker.

These are from one of the biggest and finest houses in Rochester—where only the best clothes are made. The fabric is a fine wale, lustrous serge of good weight and the tailoring is of high order.

We'll warrant them fully—color, cloth and making—if a suit fades or pulls out at the seams, we'll take it back. We've laid in a good supply—in regular, short, stout and long sizes—up to 46.

In our experience, we know of no suits to match them at the price.

Come in and see them—if you don't think as we do—don't buy.

You'll get $18.00 in value in every one of them.

Do they fit? Well you know us. Just see them.

BOARD OF TRADE

Secretary's Resignation Accepted With Regret

At the regular meeting of the directors of the board of trade yesterday the resignation of Secretary John A. McKenna was reluctantly accepted with regret. Before accepting the resignation, the directors sought to have Mr. McKenna retain his position for a time at least, but were unsuccessful as Mr. McKenna begins his duties with the Hoins Electric company at once.

On motion of Charles H. Coburn, the board expressed its appreciation of the work accomplished by him for the good of the organization and the city by a rising vote, and genuine regret was expressed at his resignation.

Secretary McKenna, in response, stated that the four years of work had been very beneficial to him, and he hoped also to the board of trade. He trusted that the same cordial feeling and co-operation would be extended to the new secretary as had always been his good fortune to enjoy.

The new members admitted included Andrew P. Sackley, Napoleon D. LaFleur, Union National bank, John W. Holgate and B. H. Anderson.

No action was taken toward the election of a secretary, the directors finally postponing action until next Wednesday afternoon at 4:45.

It was announced that the board had become affiliated with the American Civic association, which is dealing with several problems of national importance, one of them being the forestry bills which include the reserve planned for the White mountains.

The work of the executive committee in behalf of a safer and safer observance of July 4th was discussed and approved. The board desires a more dignified program than one confined to mere noise and danger.

Daniel F. Carroll, chairman of the committee on factory locations, reported that a number of concerns had been in communication with the committee and that there is good prospect of a large company from Lynn locating here, employing 1000 hands. The Lowell Institution for Savings owns some land and it was believed that this bank would go the limit in providing suitable factory facilities for the new concern. The negotiations had proceeded far enough, Mr. Carroll thought, to indicate that it is reasonably certain that the new company would come here.

For the committee on new streets Robert F. Marden reported that the committee was planning to hold a meeting with residents of the Andover street section with a view to interesting them in the plan for a definite street plan for that vicinity as it develops. He read the law which was passed by the legislature in 1906, dealing with the requirements for Boston, and said that the committee planned to secure some such law for Lowell. The law reads as follows:

"After the passage of this act no person or corporation shall prepare or open for public travel in the city of Boston any way, unless its location, direction, width and grades are satisfactory to and have been approved in writing by said board of street commissioners."

Supt. of Streets Newell F. Putnam was added to the committee.

After some discussion, resolutions were adopted identical with those already adopted by a number of other boards of trade of New England, inviting the International Convention of Chambers of Commerce and Industrial associations to meet in Boston in 1912.

This year's meeting is to be held June 21 to 23 in London and an effort is to be made to bring the world convention to the United States and Boston in 1912.

A PROTEST

AGAINST INCREASE IN COMMUTATION RATES

ALBANY, May 12.—Complaints filed with the public service commission against the proposed increase in commutation rates between Mt. Vernon and New York have been served by the commission upon the New York, New Haven & Hartford R. Co. The commission is asked to direct its counsel to start proceedings in the supreme court to prevent the road either by mandamus or injunction putting into effect the proposed increased rates and charges on the ground that they would be unlawful.

The company must answer within ten days.

A MOTHER'S SACRED DUTY

Her Noblest Work is to Safeguard the Health of Her Children.

Women are taught to sew, cook, make their own clothes, they are even given some knowledge of how to preserve their health and good looks.

But how many mothers have been educated to know the signs of the different diseases of children?

When their children have little sick spells how many mothers can tell what ails them?

For example, it is a fact that about three out of every four sick children are sick because they have worms in their stomach or bowels. Not many mothers know that, but it is a fact just the same.

There is a valuable hint for all mothers when children are sick: "Think of worms first." It is the most frequent cause of ailments in children.

Here are some of the signs by which you can tell that your child has worms: Offensive breath, choking and swallowing during sleep, starting and groaning in sleep, constant thirst, cross and peevish, either a very poor and indigestible appetite, and also vomiting after eating.

Your child having worms should receive treatment at once. Save it from needless suffering by instant action on your part.

Don't let 25 cents in money stand between you and the health of your child. Go at once to a good drug store and with 25 cents purchase a package of Fessenden's Worm Expeller. It will be worth much money by curing your child, by restoring your little one to rosy, happy, healthy, happy health, but it will only cost you the small sum of 25 cents. In these days when doctors' bills are so high and the cost of everything is way up it is a blessing to be able to buy this child's life-saving remedy for so small a sum as 25 cents, when it is really worth its weight in gold as a life saver for children.

Remember the name, "Fessenden's Worm Expeller"—get it and start using it at once.

TWO MONUMENTS

To the Memory of Pulaski and Kosciuszko

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Two monuments to the memory and deeds of Pulaski and Kosciuszko, the Polish heroes, both of whom fought and one of whom died that liberty in America might live, were dedicated here today. The time of the dedications was so arranged that President Taft could attend each.

While the president made the principal address at the unveiling of the monument to Pulaski, which stands in the triangle at 15th street and Pennsylvania avenue, Secretary of War Dickenson was making the principal address at the Kosciuszko statue in Lafayette park, opposite the White House, and J. F. Smuts, of the Polish National Alliance made an address in Polish.

The monument to Pulaski was erected by an act of congress, but the statue of Kosciuszko is a gift to the nation from the Polish National Alliance and other organizations of Poles who have made their homes in the free republic for which their distinguished countrymen fought. There was a double significance to the unveiling of the monument to Kosciuszko, for it marked the opening here tomorrow of the first Polish National Congress to attend which thousands of Poles from all over the United States have come.

The purpose of the congress is to discuss in all its phases the condition of the Polish nation, to acquire familiarity with the needs of the Polish national life and find ways and means of fulfilling them.

The ceremonies which preceded the dedication of the statue were long planned and very elaborate. A military parade in which all the regular troops stationed at Fort Myer as well as the National Guard of the District of Columbia marched, was one of the features. Brigadier General Tasker H. Bliss, U. S. A., was in command.

In the heart of the busier section of the city the monument to Pulaski stands fourteen feet from the sidewalk in a triangular green. In the saddle of a charger is mounted the figure of the hero in the Polish Hussar uniform in which he won command of a brigade of Washington's cavalry for his gallant conduct at the Brandywine. Pulaski always wore the uniform of his beloved fatherland and it clothed his breast through three years of valiant fighting on American soil until he fell at the siege of Savannah in 1779 and died on the United States brig of war Vesep in the harbor, two days after.

The sculptor, Chedinski, gathered material for his work in Paris, Berlin and parts of Poland and secured from the descendants of Pulaski a life-size painting of the hero mounted on a horse, done by Pulaski's sister.

In Lafayette park, a beautiful shaded square across Pennsylvania avenue from the White House, the monument to Kosciuszko with the exception of one completes the set of five planned there. The others are to General Lafayette and Count Rochambeau, who commanded the French allies at Yorktown. On the remaining corner will be erected the statue of Baron Von Steuben. An immense statue of General Andrew Jackson is in the center of the park.

Kosciuszko is represented in the figure as the hero of two hemispheres, as his countrymen love to refer to him. A map of the United States with the American eagle guarding is on the front of the pedestal. On the other side is the outline of Europe and Asia attacked by the snake of despotism, with the Polish eagle fighting in defense. A Polish soldier, wounded and falling, is being defended by a Polish farmer with a scythe. Opposite, an American soldier is cutting the shackles of an American farmer, which bind him to the foreign yoke. Mounted on the pedestal is the statue of Kosciuszko, a map of Poland, and on his hand, the other on his sword.

The valiant deeds of the man who fought consistently for liberty in an old world and a new—so consistently that he refused to lend himself to the plans of Napoleon for the restoration of Poland, are recalled by the inscriptions on the monument.

Driven to this country by an unhappy love affair, he saw the new republic established and did not return to his native Poland until 1786. When Russia attacked Poland, in 1792, Kosciuszko with 4000 men held Dubienka against 18,000 Russians in a famous battle. After the second partition of Poland, in 1794, he put himself at the head of a national movement and was

A Mystery Solved

Eczema Not a Blood Disease—New Remedy for Every Skin Trouble

For years the medical profession has been seeking a cure for Eczema, the most common and most stubborn of skin diseases. Some said it was a blood disease; some said it was a result of indigestion. It remained for one tedious chemist to settle beyond any question that eczema in all its forms is a skin disease and related in no way to a disordered condition of the blood. This same chemist experimented with many antiseptic, heating and soothing agents, but it was not until he formed the compound Cadum that he at last realized he had given to the world something that would bring relief or cure to millions of sufferers. Cadum ranks today with the great discoveries of the medical world. Its action is so positive that the itching of eczema is stopped immediately. People who have itched and scratched for years find sleep and rest as soon as Cadum is used, and in ordinary cases a complete restoration of the skin to a healthy condition is reached in two or three weeks. The soothing, healing effects of Cadum are almost instantaneous. Cadum is sold at all druggists. Trial box 10c; large box 25c. The small box is sufficient for trial purposes, and may be used not only for eczema in all its forms, but also for hives, pimples, blotches, tetter, itch, acne, herpes, scaly rash, psoriasis, ringworm, freckles, eruptions, sores, scabs, itching, piles, scurvy, etc.

proclaimed dictator and commander-in-chief. Covered with wounds he fell into the hands of his enemies and was restored to liberty by the Emperor Paul, two years later.

Alexander, in 1814, refused to grant an amnesty to Poles in foreign lands and to make Kosciuszko constitutional king of Poland, and for the remainder of his life he lay aside his sword and lived the peaceful life of a farmer in France until he was killed when his horse plunged over a precipice. The Emperor Alexander later moved his body to Cracow and had it laid beside John Sobieski.

MURDER TRIAL

Two Judges to Sit on Bench

BOSTON, May 12.—Judges Crosby and Dana of the superior court have been assigned to preside at the trial of Elizabeth Richmond, charged with the murder of Stewart McTavish, which will be held at East Cambridge. The murder of Stewart McTavish, which occurred at hotel Florence, 135 Cambridge street, East Cambridge, supposedly of the afternoon of July 23 last, and for which Mrs. Elizabeth Richmond, 54 years old, was arrested and charged with the crime, was mysterious and sensational.

McTavish was 24 years old. It was generally thought at the time of the discovery of the crime that McTavish had intended to sell for his home in Charlestown, P. B. 1, on the night that he was killed.

When the mutilated body of McTavish was discovered by the Cambridge police at the time of the discovery of the murder, which was undoubtedly committed with the ax, that McTavish and Mrs. Richmond had been imbibing freely and that in a quarrel the man met his death.

Mrs. Richmond was arraigned in the Cambridge district court the day following the discovery of the murder and pleaded not guilty to the charge of murder. Her case was continued to August 3, when she was held for the grand jury. She was later arraigned in the superior court at East Cambridge on Sept. 21 and again pleaded not guilty. Ralph W. Glogau was assigned as counsel by Judge King.

It was thought by the Cambridge police at the time of the discovery of the murder, which was undoubtedly committed with the ax, that McTavish and Mrs. Richmond had been imbibing freely and that in a quarrel the man met his death.

CHOIR FESTIVAL

Grand Affair Planned in Aid of Playgrounds

The choir festival of all the churches in Lowell in aid of the public playgrounds, to be held in Associate hall on May 17 and 18, will be a unique affair. For the first time in the history of Lowell all the choirs in the city, Catholic, Protestant, Jew and Gentile, will join in making the affair a great success.

The concert program for the two evenings will be one that should attract all lovers of music. Each night will have special attractions that everybody will want to see.

The Universalist choir will present the sextet from "Lullaby," and a male quartet from the hymn "The Hallelujah Chorus" will render the "Miserere" from "Il Trovatore"; a quartet from St. Patrick's choir will render favorite Irish melodies, while a quartet from the Presbyterian churches will sing some of the most celebrated Scotch ballads. There will also be features from the Polish and Swedish churches, one from the Jewish synagogue, with several other choirs that have not yet reported their final programs.

So great is the enthusiasm in this festival that one choir offered to pay for 20 seats so that it might get all its singers into the hall. There will be from 250 to 300 singers participating each evening. The tickets are for sale at O'Sullivan Brothers, Jewell's, formerly Lawler's, Lowell Pharmacy, Carter & Sherburne's, Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A.

ARTILLER DEAD

Was Wounded in Fracas at Attleboro

ATTLEBORO, May 12.—Late yesterday morning Chief of Police Noyes received a wire from Frank Ross with manslaughter in causing the death of Germanos Artiller, who died yesterday as the result of injuries in a fracas Sunday. The warrant was served on Ross at the Taunton Jail just before noon.

The trouble took place in Lons Cutt, a section of Attleboro, late Sunday afternoon. Some men became involved in an argument, and finally there was a fight, razors, knives and pistols being brought into play.

Suddenly, one of the men, Germanos Artiller, was seen to fall, and his assault quickly made his escape. The chief of police was notified and he visited the scene with a squad of officers.

Artiller was found covered with blood and gasped. He was brought to the office of Dr. J. W. Battershall in an automobile and the physician found it necessary to take 30 stitches to close the wounds on the head, arm and abdomen.

While the injured man was being attended to by the physician word was received at police headquarters that a man had run through several streets and finally hidden himself in the cellar at William Blair's house on Orange street. There he was taken by officers and proved to be Francis Ross. In court Monday Chief Noyes asked for a continuance as he anticipated serious consequences. The injured man, Artiller, became insensible Tuesday morning passed away. The chief says that he has witnesses to testify that Ross was the man who struck Artiller Sunday night and caused the injuries which proved fatal.

FATE OF HEINZE INMATES STARVED

Expected to be Decided by the Jury Tonight

Is the Charge Made by Ex-Mayor of Nashua

NEW YORK, May 12.—Fritz Augustus Heinze, Montana copper man and former banker, may know by tonight whether the government's long fight to convict him of crimes against the banking laws is to result in making him share the fate of his former associate, Charles W. Morse, or whether the verdict of a jury will proclaim him innocent.

Heinze left to his counsel, all the fighting for him throughout the long trial of the government's charges that he had misapplied funds of the Mercantile National bank while he was its president in 1907 in an effort to crop up the market for United Copper stock. In this connection he was charged with over-certification of the checks of his brother's firm, Otto Heinze & Co., who had the United Copper market operations in charge. The principal in the case did not go on the stand himself but smilingly sat by and watched the proceedings as his witnesses testified to the big mining land holdings of the Heinzes and piled up figures to show that there was ample security behind the loans that had been taken out for the benefit of the Heinze firm on Oct. 14, 1907, when the prosecution charges he over-certified upwards of $400,000 in checks of his brother's firm.

There was apparent confidence in the ranks of the Heinze counsel before the summing up began today that the government had failed to make out a case of criminal intent on Heinze's part.

On the other hand, U. S. Dist. Atty. Wise, who had the final say in the case before Judge Hough, took up his duty of changing the jury on the law, by no means appeared downcast.

Summing up of the attorneys was expected to occupy pretty much the entire day with the prospect that the jury would be charged and retire for its deliberations in the late afternoon or early evening.

NORTH CHELMSFORD

The St. John's Ladies' Auxiliary of North Chelmsford held their annual May party and dance in the town hall last night. There was a very large attendance, with many invited guests. At eight o'clock a concert program was started and continued until 8.30, when general dancing followed to the music of Kittredge's orchestra of Lowell. The decorations were attractive and these with the light dresses worn by the young ladies made a pretty scene. At intermission ice cream and cake were served in the lower hall, after which dancing was resumed and continued until midnight. A car returned to Lowell for the party. The committee in charge were Misses Belle Valentine and Loretta Ward, with Miss Mary Cox as floor marshal and Miss Nellie Ward as assistant. President Mrs. Thomas McTeague was chairman of the reception committee.

DONE BY A FIRE AT DERRY, N. H. YESTERDAY MORNING.

DERRY, N. H., May 12.—A fire in the Charles W. Abbott block, on Railroad square, yesterday morning, caused a damage of $8000 or more. The fire was first seen in the lunch room of William J. Joyce, and quickly broke out through the windows and the staircase and spread to the roof. The building is some 200 feet long, with a basement of storerooms, the ground floor being occupied by stores and offices, and the entire top floor by the Dennis Casey bowling alleys and pool room.

The loss to the building will be about $1500; to William J. Joyce, lunch room, $500; Dennis Casey, bowling and pool room, $2000; George M. Phalen, cigar manufacturer, $800; Henry F. Pelkey, boot and shoe dealer, $800; William J. Kingsbury, music store and insurance agency, $1000; George Bernier, barber shop, $800; Joseph Cohen, tailor, $600; Calvin H. Bradford, carpenter and builder; W. W. Gage, woodworker, and a clubroom, some $200.

NASHUA, N. H., May 12.—"When aged inmates complained that they were hungry they were told the board of trustees had ordered the food curtailed, and that is one of the causes for my withdrawal as a trustee." Thus spoke ex-Mayor Charles H. Burke yesterday in explaining his reasons for declining to longer serve as an official of the John M. Hunt home. The announcement that Mr. Burke at a recent meeting of the board had stated in no uncertain language that he was through as trustee caused a decided stir in town. But the charges embodied in his statement of explanation have brought a sensation, that aroused the entire city, and demands for an investigation are being freely made.

Mr. Burke declared in his statement, that inmates who had begged him to have sufficient food provided, told of being obliged to go to houses near the home and to friends in various parts of the city, asking for something to eat. The John M. Hunt home has been pointed to as an ideal institution. Persons who have been loud in their praises of the home are reported as among those who now favor a thorough investigation of the institution. The magnificent building in the South End, it was dedicated to the memory of John M. Hunt, in his day one of Nashua's wealthiest and most progressive citizens, by his widow.

The institution has an endowment fund of over $100,000 which is still growing," said Mr. Burke, "and there is no necessity for anything but good usage of the inmates. My pride and appreciation of a good name would not allow my connection with the board of trustees of the John M. Hunt home to continue.

"From the incorporation of the home I have been a member of the executive committee which has charge of the management of the institution.

"I made several protests to Mr. Taylor, president of the board, against the management of the home, stating that I could not remain on a board of trustees that met the conditions at the home to continue. I told him we could afford to discharge several matrons, but we could not afford to hurt the reputation of the home.

"My appeal resulted in slight improvement of the meals at the home, more meat and more fish, and the dropping off of butterine from the daily bill of fare served on the table. The serving of butterine upon the table was a recent addition to the cuisine and its use was not authorized by the executive committee.

"In fact, the executive committee has held no meeting for some time past where the detail management of the home was considered.

"It was ignored as a committee, and matters that should have come before them for consideration were consigned to others."

Attorney Edward H. Wason, the clerk of the board of trustees defended the institution. He said that twice, very recently, members of the board had visited the home at meal time, the matron not having been previously warned of their coming, and they had found plenty of food, well cooked and well served, and of sufficient and substantial variety.

He declared his conviction that "the green-eyed monster" was at the bottom of trouble which had started among certain inmates of the institution.

He said the institution purchased its butter from a well-known creamery, and that also had been used for cooking purposes only. He said that it also had been used on the table it had been "by mistake and was not the practice."

MAYOR OF LAWRENCE

Accuses Chief Engineer of Attempted Bribery

LAWRENCE, May 12.—Mayor White's specifications of charges against Chief Engineer James A. Hamilton of the fire department, on which he proposed to remove him, were made public at a hearing before the aldermen last night. Incompetency, extravagance, violation of the city ordinances in making purchases and attempt to bribe members of the city government were included.

refusing to give assistance in flushing sewer streets; that he has not obtained proper discounts on purchases; that he has allowed friends and relatives to incur charges against the city for telephone calls; that extravagance was shown in the purchase of hose; that he purchased a fire alarm wagon without authority; also, safety rugs and horses; that he bought a new hose wagon at a cost of $850 and approved the bill under the head of repairs; that excessive rates were paid for the board of horses; that he has at various times bribed and attempted to bribe members of the city government; that he had recommended the purchase of hose at a time when the department had ample for double requirements; that he has ignored the assistant engineers; that he has been so wantonly extravagant that the expenses of the department have increased $17,787.03, as compared with the corresponding period of his predecessor and the fire alarm department alone has increased $2,495.32 in 10 months.

After Assistant Engineers McCreadie and Toye and Edward F. Kress had testified and Assistant City Clerk Wade had read records of meeting of the fire department committee last year, the hearing was adjourned until Thursday, May 19.

NEW DENTAL PARLORS

Dr. Thomas Jefferson King, the famous painless dentist, met with big success in the opening of his new Dental Parlors in Lowell. He is demonstrating his celebrated system of Dentistry to scores of people and will continue to give the people of this city the benefit of the highest class modern dental work at popular prices.

Painless Extraction
Teeth extracted and filled painlessly for the most nervous and delicate people, especially those who have heart or lung trouble. Dr. King's method is the only absolutely SAFE treatment known to dental science. All other methods are dangerous and painful.

FREE Full Set $5

Dr. King's latest invention, the "NATURAL GUM," is acknowledged by the dental profession to be a wonderful improvement over the old artificial gum. It has always been easy to recognize artificial teeth in the mouth, but now by using Dr. King's "Natural Gum," a set of teeth can be made by his method, and only by his method, that will absolutely defy detection.

BIBLE SCHOOL

Convention Held at Chelmsford Centre

The Merrimack River Baptist Bible school convention was held yesterday at the Central Baptist church at Chelmsford Centre. There was a large attendance. President C. B. Mitchell presided.

The following committees were appointed: Arrangements, Mr. Hilliard, S. F. Snell of Lawrence, George E. Murray of Lawrence; nominations, N. O. Magoun of Lawrence, Rev. Silas Morse of Haverhill, Don Findlay Stevenson of Lowell; resolutions, Rev. J. W. Swaffield of Lawrence, J. W. Shirley of Lawrence, Rev. S. W. Cummings of Lowell; enrollment, Rev. A. R. Dilts of Lowell; Rev. W. F. Lombard of Andover, H. F. Morse of Haverhill.

The morning address was delivered by Rev. Dr. W. J. Swaffield of the First Baptist church of Lawrence.

The discussion on "Phases of Sunday School Work" was conducted by Rev. F. A. McDonald of the Fifth Street Baptist church of Lowell.

At the business session, which took place at the afternoon meeting, the following officers were chosen: President, J. W. Shirley, Lawrence; vice-president, George H. Taylor, Lowell; secretary-treasurer, Rev. C. H. Ellis, Chelmsford Centre; executive committee, the foregoing officers and C. B. Mitchell, Haverhill, N. O. Magoun, Lawrence, R. B. Thomas, Lowell, P. F. Gilbert, Andover, and Mrs. N. D. Parker, Chelmsford; representative to the state board, Deacon G. E. Murray, Lawrence.

The annual report of Secretary Ellis was one of much interest. The first part of it concerned the total figures, while the second consisted of reports from each one of the Sunday schools in the association. There are 574 teachers and 4976 scholars, making a total of 5550. Last year there were 5454 scholars and teachers. Of the number this year 36 per cent. of the teachers have attended services regularly, while 56 per cent. of all the scholars have attended. The number of baptisms have been 126. The report stated that the financial condition of the association was not quite as good as last year.

The principal address of the afternoon was made by Rev. Asa Reed Dilts, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church of this city. He spoke on "Fishers of Men."

The evening session followed a supper served in the town hall. The principal address was by Rev. Dr. Edward Bradin of Boston.

AMATEUR GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP
BROOKLINE, May 12.—More than a hundred wielders of the brassie and the putter, many of them aspirants for national honors next fall, grasped the opportunity today of participating in the fifteenth annual spring tournament of the country club, over whose links the national amateur golf championship will be played next fall. The best sixteen in two days' medal play and match play for the Country club medal. Among those who started today were James Post of New York, F. W. Kendall and W. V. Conover of Deal, N. J., W. Fellows Morgan, Jr., of Milford, B. W. Cokeran of Baltimore and F. Hardison of Lancashire, England, as well as a large number of Harvard players and local experts.

Combination Coal and Gas

Crawford Ranges

The Crawford Gas Ovens are safe. They are lighted in a new way; there is no dangerous pilot light and explosions are impossible. This improvement is patented and very important.

The Damper is automatically opened by opening oven door to light the burners, which cannot be lighted until the door is opened.

In these Gas Ovens there is an extra set of burners at the top for broiling; a great advantage over the ordinary gas oven, insuring better broiling and great convenience.

The Oven Bottoms and Racks are cast iron, and the outer walls are triple—an interlining of asbestos between two sheets of iron, which assists to retain the heat.

The use of these Gas Ovens does not interfere in any way with the operation of the coal range—both can be used at the same time.

Double Oven above or Single Oven at end of range.

THOMAS-PAPKE

Until May 19

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—The fight between Joe Thomas and Bill Papke which was to have been staged at Colma on May 14 has been postponed until May 19. The mill will take place at Dreamland rink in San Francisco and the length has been cut from 25 to 20 rounds. The change was made on account of the opposition encountered in San Mateo county.

RETAIL GROCERS

IN SESSION PAID TRIBUTE TO A DEPARTED MEMBER

The monthly meeting of the Lowell Retail Grocers and Butchers association was held last night. There was a good sized audience and considerable business was transacted during the evening. At the conclusion of the routine business Edward M. Bowers, treasurer of the association, spoke in a feeling manner of the loss of one of the members of the organization, John J. Keefe, who passed away last week. President R. St. Fitzpatrick and Secretary John McLaughlin also paid a tribute to Mr. Keefe. It was voted unanimously not to hold a banquet this season.

Under good and welfare, the members endorsed the recent action of the association on the half-holiday closing. A motion to be given early in August was talked up, and some enthusiasm was shown. Trading stamps were denounced by the association.

Proposals for Coal and Wood for the Town of Chelmsford

TELLS OF ACCIDENT

Forbes Relates Story of Drop in a Balloon

HORSE CAYE, Ky., May 12.—That a flight for a world's distance record from Quincy, Ill., by A. Holland Forbes, holder of the Lahn cup, and Jas. C. Yates, the astronomer, both of New York, which began at Quincy, Ill., Monday evening terminated late Tuesday in a disastrous tumble to the earth from the height of perhaps 300 feet near Center, Ky., was not without its compensations was indicated by a statement made by Forbes last night. The balloon broke the ascent record, it is declared and some valuable photographs of the coma were secured at a height of 18,000 feet. Forbes, in discussing their experience after reaching an altitude of 20,000 feet, said: "In descending from the great elevation we had very little sand left and as the gas contracted the balloon bag became extremely flabby. Everything went well until we were a few hundred feet above the ground when the appendix line broke loose from the ring supporting the basket. There was so little gas in the bag at the time that the rigging collapsed and the basket attached naturally dropped. This caused the rip cord which is attached to the ring to rip open the balloon at the height of 300 feet from the ground."

COMEDY DRAMA

Written by Mr. Bowker
Presented Last Night

John W. Bowker, assisted by a capable cast, presented a pretty little comedy-drama entitled "Just Plain Justice" at Hathaway's theatre last night. There was a large and appreciative audience and the piece itself and the manner in which it was produced spoke well for Mr. Bowker, the author and the portrayal of the leading roles.

Prof. P. Waldron Edmunds had general charge of the training of the members of the cast and their capable work spoke well of his ability.

The play had to do with the exposing of certain physicians, the story being that of a man who believed that he is being experimented on by physicians and oculists.

The cast of characters was as follows:

William Stoker, a sick man.
Mr. John W. Bowker
Mrs. Jennie Stoker, his wife.
Miss Louise Collins
James Stoker, his brother.

Mr. N. A. Houston
Doctor Trak, his hero. Mr. H. Lovell
Jimmy Draper, his neighbor.
Mr. Ellsworth Chappell
Nellie Draper, his wife.
Miss Flossie McManus
Edward Leary, a farmer.

Mr. Samuel L. Taylor
Edwin Southie, a stranded actor.
Mr. John C. McKelvey
Dr. Guessy, an expert. Mr. F. Dresser
Dr. Rutman, Supt. Eton hospital.

Mr. Chas. R. Griffin
Dr. Trammer, not worth much.
Mr. Thomas Chalmers
Dr. Blinn, a foxy individual.
Mr. John Shaughnessy
Seth Hoskins, a villager.

Mr. Charles D. Rodger
Hank Sleeman, another one.
Mr. John McNulty
Ned Ryan, a neighbor.

Mr. Joshua Chappell
Bill Jones, a grocer. Mr. D. H. Jones
Mr. Shamp, Leary's neighbor.

Mr. J. Dresser
Rev. R. Amor, a true man.
Mr. R. R. Flynn
Samantha Margins, the hired girl.
Miss Katherine Gordon
Mrs. Guessy
Miss Rose Chappell.

the rigging when close to the ground. The basket did not tilt as it would have done under ordinary circumstances and that was the cause of our injury. I think the only thing that prevented the breaking of our basket when the basket fell bottom squarely down under the weight of the bag was the rubber air mattress which we had placed in the bottom of the basket that we might be comfortable when we wanted to be down.

"For a moment I was stunned by the impact. Then I recovered and saw two or three men coming to our aid. They extricated us and in improvised litters we were carried to this house."

"In starting from Quincy we were unable to carry more than thirty-three forty pound bags of sand, which to gether with the tremendous height to which we ascended shortened the trip. We should never have started the flight with less than 50 bags of ballast."

"On this trip I did not mind the low temperature so much. Both of us were prepared for it. We suffered for want of oxygen though when we went higher than 18,000 feet the air pressure at that altitude is not more than 3 or 4 pounds, and it seems that one cannot get enough air. We wanted like dogs and my cardinals and eyes pained me greatly. Yates suffered in the same manner. Some garments take loads of oxygen with their supplies but we did not think that we would need it. One can become accustomed to the rapid changes in air pressure after he has been in the same a while."

Both Forbes and Yates were resting comfortably this morning and expressed the opinion that by the end of the week they would be able to undertake the journey to their homes in New York.

WOMEN DROWNED

Steamer Struck a Rock South of St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, May 12.—Two women were drowned and eleven others who are missing are believed to have lost their lives when the steamer City of Salt Lake struck a rock and foundered in reach of shore at Glen Park, 24 miles south of St. Louis, last night.

The dead: MISS ANNA RHEA, Nashville, Tenn.; MRS. ISAAC RHEA, Nashville, Tenn., recovered.

S. C. Baker, first clerk of the steamer. Mrs. Joseph Harris, Nashville.

Archie Patterson, Chester, Ill. W. J. Pickett, salesman, St. Louis. Fowler Post, third clerk.

Miss Lena Wall, Nashville. Head porter.

Cabin boy. Two roustabouts, names unknown.

Captain Harry Crane, in command of the boat, after checking up the passenger list today, said that it was almost certain those reported missing were dead. The boat carried 27 passengers, mostly women and children, and a crew of thirty. She left St. Louis at seven o'clock with a heavy cargo, including cattle and livestock, and the voyage was considered precarious because of the great amount of driftwood floating in the river. Of the two known dead one was the wife and the other the daughter of Isaac T. Rhea, president of the St. Louis & Tennessee River Packet Co., owners of the boat. Mrs. Rhea was dragged from the water alive, but died within an hour. The body of Miss Anna Rhea has not been recovered.

Miss Louise Rhea, another daughter, escaped.

They were en route to their home in Nashville after visiting friends in St. Louis.

When the vessel struck the rock and sank in twenty feet of water, the greatest confusion prevailed. The noise of rending timbers, shrieks of women and children and the howling of cattle mingled with the cries of the crew.

Passengers and members of the crew clung to the timbers while those more fortunate helped to rescue the women and children. The rescued were taken to the Glenco company's boarding house.

The City of Salt Lake at the time of the accident was bound for Waterloo, Ala. on the Tennessee river.

Recovered. Miss Louise Rhea, another daughter, escaped.

WILL COST $1200

To Complete Park on Bank of Dutton Street Canal

"Before the summer months have gone this will be one of Lowell's beauty spots," said Supt. Whitte to a reporter for The Sun this forenoon. He had reference to the bank of the canal in Anne street.

Mr. Whitte and laborers connected with his department started to work on the canal bank this morning. The old fence along the street will be torn down and the ground will be prepared for the flowers and shrubbery to be planted there and in a little while the bank will be decorated and made beautiful with beds of rhododendron, verbenas, thymus, viburnum, molly, philadelphus, clematis, Forsythia fortunei, ligustrum, regina, dentata, gracilis (whatever they mean) and others too numerous to mention. If you're a past master on "flowerology" and shrubology" you'll know all about them.

The park department was allowed $400 to beautify the canal bank and Mr. Whitte said this forenoon that to do the job as it should be done it would be necessary to expend about $1200. The park department has petitioned for an extension of the edge-stone in Anne street.

The Looks and Canals will raise the wall on the other or west side of the canal to correspond with the wall on the Anne street side. The material is already on hand but the Looks and Canals are experiencing a very busy spell at present because of the work being done by the Massachusetts mills, and are unable to devote, only snatches of time, to the Anne street canal job. When the work of beautifying the canal bank has been gone through with a great improvement, will have been made and one that will assist in inspiring other and similar improvements throughout the city.

CONTROL TRANSFERRED

KENOSHA, Wis., May 12.—At a meeting of the stockholders of the Northwestern Telegraph company, owner of many lines operated by the Western Union Telegraph company in Wisconsin and Minnesota control of the company yesterday formally passed into the hands of financiers of Hartford, Conn.

A majority of the stock amounting to nearly $4,000,000 was voted by Francis R. Cooley of Hartford and the old directors gave up their places on the board to Francis R. Cooley, Chas. P. Cooley, Jonathan Bruce, Lyman Bradford, Arthur Shipman, Arthur R. Bradley and Henry M. Sperry, all of Hartford.

FUNNY MISTAKE

Baby Instead of Hers

There was excitement galore in Merrimack street, partially as the result of the sale at A. G. Pollard's, though this is no ad for the sale, and Officer Phil Murphy, the athletic guardian of the peace of that locality, had an experience more thrilling than all of his stunts as a catcher of runaway horses and over speedy automobiles.

Here's how it happened:

During the forenoon a white woman pushing a baby carriage containing a colic looking baby wheeled along to Pollard's big show window and came to a full stop. Carefully steering the carriage close up to the big brass rail in front of the window she handed the youngster a bottle that showed no evidence of a milk war and with a "go as far as you like" expression of contentment as she handed over the baby's delight, turned around and went into the store.

A few minutes afterward out comes the unfatigued genius of the A. G. Pollard Co. whose duties are to shine up the brass rail from the opening of the establishment to the closing thereof. At this time the kiddo had one chubby hand on the bottle while the other was doing some decorative work on the carefully polished brass of the rail.

"Here, cut that kid," cried the shiner as he saw his work of a few minutes before being turned to naught and he made a lunge for the handles of the carriage and wheeled it down street about 50 feet leaving it beside the lower window. After giving an extra touch to the rail he disappeared within the store.

He had disappeared but a moment when along comes a colored woman wheeling a carriage quite similar in appearance to the other carriage, but containing a cute little pinky and leaving her carriage exactly where the white woman had left hers, she too entered the store to get in on the marvelous bargains as previously announced in the columns of The Sun.

A few moments later out comes the white woman in a rush and grabbing the handles of the colored woman's baby carriage, she starts down Merrimack street at record pace. Along the way she noticed that everyone was looking at her carriage and then at her and she began to think that something was wrong. She had reached Marquette's studio when she noticed something peculiar about the appearance of the carriage. Then she peered over the high back of the vehicle and then she gave a shriek that startled everyone within a block.

"My baby! Someone has stolen my baby!" she cried, and turning the carriage around she started back at a speed that had the auto limit beaten a mile.

Everyone had to get out of the way for woman, carriage and baby were going like a cannon ball express, while the kid was having the ride of his life.

Just then Officer Murphy happened along and if he hadn't done a side step that would have done credit to Jimmie Gardner he would have been under the relentless wheels of the vehicle.

"Officer," the woman cried "some one stole my poor little dear while I was in Pollard's and left me this colored baby."

Asserts He is in Good Shape

BEN LOMOND, Cal., May 12.—Following his fast and shifty workouts in the ring yesterday, Jim Jeffries sparred with his trainers, who evinced elation over his showing. He felt so good that he talked with the volatility of a school girl. "I am around the bend in the road now," he declared. "I am thoroughly limbered up and my stomach is all right again. I have taken off the extra weight and from now on my roadwork won't figure much in my schedule. If I ever had a doubt about being able to get into condition—and I don't say I had—that doubt is gone. I am ready to fight when the time comes and I want my friends to know that I never remember feeling any better than I do right now."

JOHNSON'S BALL GAME

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—What effort will the enforced switch of the Papke-Thomson bout to San Francisco have on the big fight?

Fightdom is framing many answers to that question, but the rank and file of the sporting fraternity take a generally hopeful view of the situation and the majority incline to the opinion that the action of the San Francisco county officials in calling a halt on the middleweight contest will exercise no sinister influence on the holding of the big battle at Emeryville.

Jack Johnson's baseball game yesterday afternoon drew a large crowd of spectators. The negro seems to get as much enjoyment out of the national sport as does Jeff, and he has announced that baseball will be part of his daily routine for the remainder of the week.

Pages have been devoted in magazines to finding flaws in the "lines" of the towers and the general appearance of the house. It has been called a rich man's folly a thousand times, but Mr. Clark has gone ahead pouring his millions into the home until now his task has reached an end. Mrs. Clark has been spending the majority of her time in Paris, and if the plans of the mingling man do not miscarry she will arrive in New York June 1 ready to take an active part in the social world. But here a stumbling block may await the man of millions and his wife, for the inner circles have been quoted as saying they could take no part in launching a woman in social circles with $6,000,000 worth of furniture. "My word," Harry Lehr said one day, "I would be in mortal terror. Think of knocking over a vase that cost $20,000!"

lies of his own people and organized a parish. Their first house of worship was an old wooden Primitive Methodist meeting house. Now, within less than ten years, the little priest has built the first story of what will be an imposing church of granite or marble; for his parish has grown to 2000 souls. His ambition is to rear a structure in marble.

He has built for himself a beautiful colonial residence, the working plans of which were sketched by himself and later worked out by an architect. He wanted it to be typical of New England, within as well as without; only he has laid out the spacious grounds in the rear with gardens in which grow Azores island flowers and vegetables, and he keeps goats in memory of his youth.

What is the significance of all this? The future of these foreign colonies that are growing up among us depends largely upon the loyalty of the priests in charge of them. This Portuguese priest claims our attention because he is the son of that woman in the Azores, still unable to read or write, who was ambitious for her family and wanted them to succeed. It was she who gave him his inspiration, and who sent him forth as a good immigrant, bound for our shores.

The little parish that he gathered together in the wooden meeting house was a parish of poverty but of hopes. He was pointing the way steadily, not only to material prosperity but to intellectual development and intelligent citizenship. He preaches not only the love of God, but the love of the new land; and he teaches his people to make friends with the Americans, and copy their ways. He himself sets the example by making his fellowship among Catholics and Protestants alike.

Give Clever Minstrel Show at Colonial Hall

The young men of the physical training department of the local Y. M. C. A. gave a very clever minstrel show at Colonial hall last evening. The program was divided into two parts and minstrel songs and jokes were followed by select vaudeville. The singing was good, the jokes were all right and some clever "local hits" were made. The entire program was as follows:

Minstrels: Tambos, Alex Williams, Christopher Scafe, A. G. Cheney, bones, J. F. MacNamara, James P. Grant, Arthur LeLacheur, Interlocutor, H. B. Douchette, musical director, Frank Brown Murphy, pianist, Russell M. Fox.

Overture.

Y. M. C. A. Orchestra.

Curtain Raiser, "Sing Me a Song of the South."

Entire Company.

Introduction of Premier and men, MacNamara and Williams.

Medley of popular airs.

Chorus.

1—End song, "Come After Breakfast."

J. F. MacNamara.

2—Solo, "The Sexton and the Bell," Thomas Parkinson.

3—End song, "Has Anybody Here Seen Kelly."

A. G. Cheney.

4—End song, "Moving Day in Jungle town."

Arthur LeLacheur.

5—Solo, "The Star of Love is Burning," James E. Donnelly.

6—End song, "The Hat My Father Wore."

7—Solo, "Old Fashioned Roses," William Wilson.

COMET WAS HIDDEN
CAMBRIDGE, May 12.—When the Harvard observatory astronomers set their alarm clocks last night the stars were sparkling and the moon hung like a crescent of promise for good comet weather later in the night, but when the bells rang out at 2 a. m. the morning mists completely hid the celestial visitor.

It has been four days now since the Harvard astronomers have had a peep at Halley's fiery courier of the solar system and only a couple of mornings remain for successful observation.

The Harvard observers refused to commit themselves to any theory regarding the makeup of the comet, the possibilities of a collision between the earth and what is known as the tail. They confine themselves to such facts as their own eyes and those of their delicate photographic plates reveal.

PRINCESS IS WELL
AMSTERDAM, May 12.—Princess Juliana is perfectly well. The reports issued in Paris and elsewhere yesterday that the little princess was seriously ill are false.

U. S. FLOUR, 75c Bag

Never in the history of this store have we had such a great demand for a flour as on this particular brand. The proof of the flour is in the bread it produces, fine, white, light, wholesome loaf of finest quality. Many people have bought large lots thinking they would not get more, but we will handle this flour continually.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT

Spoke at Berlin University on "The World Movement"

BERLIN, May 12.—Mr. Roosevelt found his voice much improved when he rose this morning and said that he felt perfectly able to deliver his address as planned at the University of Berlin. Until this morning there was doubt whether the former president would be able to keep his engagement and when it became known that he expected to do so there was much elation among the university officials and others who had anticipated the address with eagerness.

Word that Mr. Roosevelt would be heard was communicated swiftly throughout the city this forenoon and when at the hour appointed he reached the university the historic Aula was occupied by a distinguished company. Emperor William was present. The former president received a gratifying reception. The subject of the address was "The world movement."

Mr. Roosevelt said that the German emperor had often been held up by him as a statesman who was doing things which he, the speaker, should do. "Remember," he said, "that my friend Dr. Ertel, then president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, at Boston, told me of the emperor's interest in and knowledge of technical education. While in Africa I used to think that there was something wrong with the mail if it did not bring a letter from Benjamin Ide Wheeler telling me of his administration and of some feature of German life and of the emperor's extraordinary qualities and kindness."

Mr. Roosevelt referred to the fact that his own family was of Low Dutch formation and to the indebtedness beginning with Colonial days of the United States to Germany in blood, ideas and achievements.

During another diversion from his set speech and following his remarks concerning military virtues the former president said:

"I saw some of your German troops march before the commander in chief yesterday. I cannot understand how any German could look upon those soldiers without feeling pride at the physical and intellectual character of those soldiers from the farm and shop; serving their time and then returning to their work to be replaced by other and younger men. I can see only hope for the future with such men. I would like to speak of the men of the American Civil War if I had the time and the voice."

Mr. Roosevelt's address follows:

Roosevelt's Address

"The play of new forces is as evident in the moral and spiritual world as in the world of the mind and body. Forces for good and forces for evil are everywhere evident, each acting with a hundred or a thousand fold the intensity with which it acted in former ages. Over the whole earth the swing of the pendulum grows more and more rapid; the mainspring coils and spreads at a rate constantly quickening; the whole world movement is of constantly accelerating velocity."

"In this movement there are signs of much that bodes ill. The machinery is so highly geared, the tension and strain are so great, the effort and the output have alike so increased, that there is cause to dread the ruin that would have come from any great accident, from any breakdown, and also the ruin that may come from the mere wearing out of the machine itself. The only previous civilization with which our modern civilization can be in any way compared is that period of Graeco-Roman civilization extending, say, from the Athens of Themistocles to the Rome of Marcus Aurelius. Many of the forces and tendencies which were then at work are at work now. Knowledge, luxury, and refinement, wide material conquests, territorial administration on a vast scale, an increase in the mastery of mechanical appliances and in applied science—all these mark our civilization as they marked the wonderful civilization that flourished in the Mediterranean lands twenty centuries ago; and they preceded the downfall of the older civilization. Yet the differences are many, and some of them are quite as striking as the similarities. The single fact that the old civilization was based upon slavery shows the chasm that separates the two. Let me point out the further and very significant difference in the development of the two civilizations, a difference so obvious that it is astonishing that it has not been dwelt upon by men of letters.

"One of the prime dangers of civilization has always been its tendency to cause the loss of the virtues fighting virtues, of the fighting edge. When men get too comfortable and lead too luxurious lives there is always danger less the softness eat like an acid into their manliness of fiber. The barbarian, because of the very conditions of his life, is forced to keep and develop certain hardy qualities which the man of civilization tends to lose, whether he be clerk, factory hand, merchant, or even a certain type of farmer. Now I will not assert that in modern civilized society these tendencies have been wholly overcome; but there has been a much more successful effort to overcome them than was the case in the early civilizations.

"What is the lesson to us today? Are we to go the way of the older civilizations? The immense increase in the area of civilized activity today, so that nearly coterminous with the world's surface, the immense increase in the multitudinous variety of its activities; the immense increase in the velocity of the world movement—are all these to mean, merely that the crash will be all the more complete and terrible that the answer will be in the negative? But of this we can be certain, that we shall not go down in ruin unless we deserve and earn our doom. There is no necessity for us to fall; we can save our destiny for ourselves, if only we have the wit and the courage and the honesty.

"Personally, I do not believe that our civilization will fall. I think that on the whole we have grown better and not worse. I think that on the whole the future holds more for us than even the great past has held. But, assuredly, the dreams of golden glory in the future will not come true unless, high of heart and strong of hand, by our own mighty deeds we make them come true. We cannot afford to develop any one set of qualities, any one set of activities, at the cost of seeing others, equally necessary, atrophied. Neither the military efficiency of the Mongol, the extraordinary business ability of the Phoenician, nor the subtle and published intellect of the Greek availed to avert destruction.

"We, the men of today and of the future, need many qualities if we are to do our work well. We need, first of all and most important of all, the qualities which stand at the base of individual, of family life, the fundamental and essential qualities—the homey, every-day, all-important virtues. If the average man will not work, if he had not in him the will and the power to be a good husband and father; if the average woman is not a good housewife, a good mother of many healthy children, then the state will topple, will go down, no matter what may be its brilliance of artistic development or material achievement. But these homey qualities are not enough. There must, in addition, be that power of organization, that power of working in common for a common end, which the German people have shown in such signal fashion during the last half century. Moreover, the things of the spirit are even more important than the things of the body. We can well do without the hard intolerance and arid intellectual barrenness of what was worst in the theocratic systems of the past, but there has never been greater need of a high and fine religious spirit than at the present time. So, while we can laugh good-humoredly at some of the pretensions of modern philosophy in its various branches, it would be worse than folly of our part to ignore our need of intellectual leaders. Yet our own great Frederick once said that if he wished to punish a province he would leave it to be governed by philosophers; the sneer had in it an element of justice; and yet no one better than the great Frederick knew the value of science, men of letters, men of art. It would be a bad thing indeed to accept Tolstoy as a guide in social and moral matters; but it would also be a bad thing not to have Tolstoy, not to profit by the lofty side of his teachings. There are plenty of scientific men whose hard arrogance, whose cynical materialism, whose dogmatism of intolerance put them on a level with the bigoted medieval ecclesiasticalism which they denounce. Yet our debt to scientific men is incalculable, and our civilization of today would have reft from it that which most highly distinguishes it if the work of the great masters of science during the past four centuries were now undone or forgotten. Never has philanthropy, humanitarianism, seen such development as now; and though we must all beware of the folly, and the viciousness no worse than folly, which marks the believer in the perfection of the place when his heart runs away with his head, or when vanity usurps the place of conscience, yet we must remember also that it is only by working along the lines laid down by the philanthropists, by the lovers of mankind, that we can be sure of lifting our civilization to a higher and more permanent plane of well-being than was ever attained by any preceding civilization. Unjust war is to be abhorred; but war to the nation that does not make ready to hold its own in time of need against all who would harm it; and who thrive over it in the nation in which the average man loses the fight; and who, loses the power to serve as a soldier if the day of need should arise.

"It is no impossible dream to build up a civilization in which morality, ethical development, and a true feeling of brotherhood shall all alike be divorced from false sentimentality and from the rancorous and evil passions which, curiously enough, so often accompany professions of sentimental attachment to the rights of man; in which the things of the body shall be achieved without subordination of the things of the soul; in which there shall be a genuine desire for peace and justice without loss of those virile qualities without which no love of peace or justice shall avail any race; in which the fullest development of scientific research, the great distinguishing feature of our present civilization, shall yet not imply a belief that intellect can ever take the place of character—for, from the standpoint of the nation as of the individual, it is character that is the one vital possession."

"Finally, this world movement of civilization, this movement which is now felt throbbing in every corner of the globe, should bind the nations of the world together while yet leaving unimpaired that love of country in the individual citizen which in the present stage of the world's progress is essential to the world's well-being. You, my hearers, and I who speak to you, belong to different nations. Under modern conditions the books we read, the news sent by telegraph to our newspapers, the strangers we meet, half of the things we hear and do each day, all tend to bring us into touch with other peoples. Each people can do justice to itself only if it does justice to others; but each people can do its part in the world movement for all only if it first does its duty within its own household. The good citizen must be a good citizen of his own country first before he can with advantage be a citizen of the world at large. I wish you well, I believe in you and your future. I admire and wonder at the extraordinary greatness and variety of your achievements in so many and such widely different fields; and my admiration and regard are all the greater, and not the less, because I am so profound a believer in the institutions and the people of my own land."

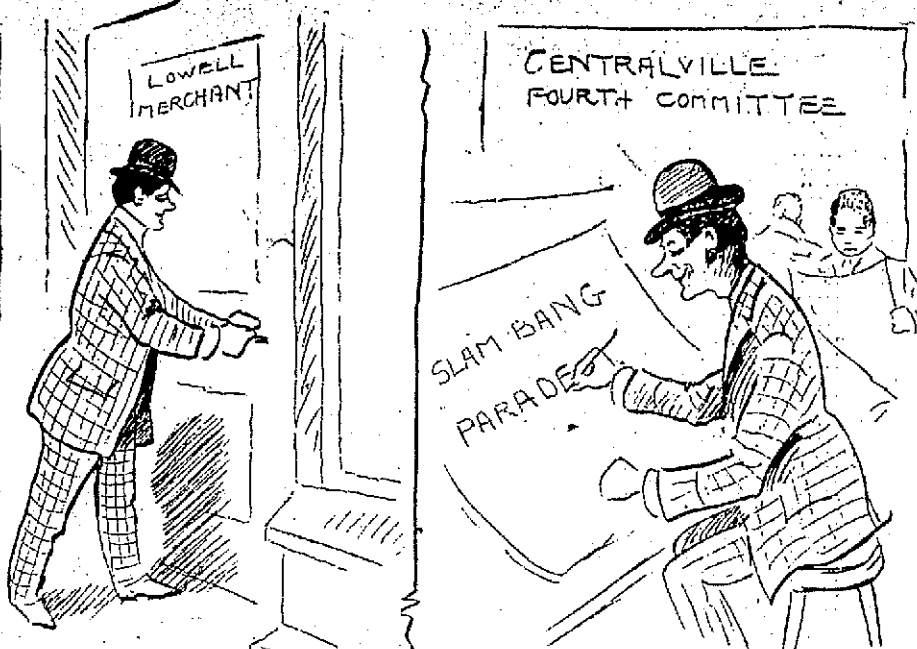

DIED FROM POISONING

NEW YORK, May 12.—Florence Heyneman of Sacramento, Cal., who was recently divorced from her husband, Otto Heyneman, in San Francisco, died today in the Flower hospital here from the effects of taking poison on Tuesday night.

Mrs. Heyneman, who was 30 years old, took to the stage after she was separated from her husband, becoming a chorus girl and appearing in several New York productions. She had been despondent since her arrival from the west recently.

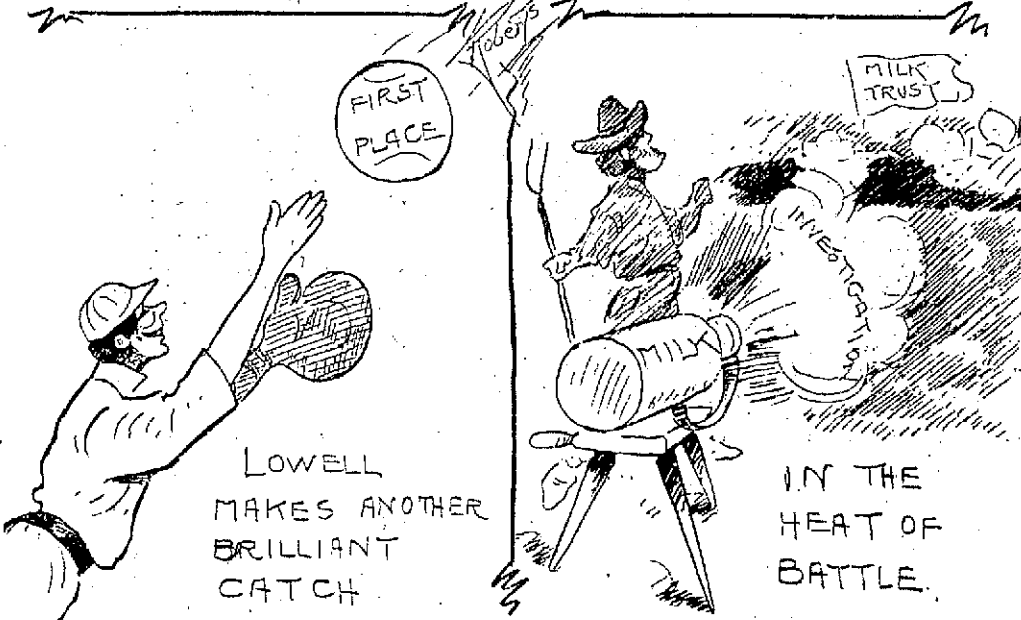

WANTED TO BOARD elderly gentleman or lady, in private family. Address Mrs. Nelson, East Chelmsford, Mass., Box 55, R. F. D.

JAIL SENTENCES

For Defendant in Liquor Cases

AUGUSTA, Me., May 12.—Five jail sentences for liquor selling and the requirement of bonds of $1000 in two instances to keep the peace comprised the work of Judge Maher in the municipal court yesterday.

Owen Dow and Paul Larrabee were each convicted on the charge of illegal possession and each fined $100 and costs and each given 60 days in jail and in default of the payment of the fine 60 days additional.

The state claimed that Charles E. Sturges was the owner of liquor seized from the men named above and he was convicted of illegal possession and fined $100 and costs and given 60 days in jail.

Dow was ordered to give a bond of $1000 to keep the peace. Arthur Cormier and Edgar Delaire, on an illegal possession charge, were each fined $100 and costs and each given 60 days in jail. Cormier was ordered to give bail in the sum of $1000 to keep the peace.

All appealed and will appear at the September session of the superior court.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION

BOSTON, May 12.—Speakers of international reputation addressed the annual meeting of the Boston district of the Massachusetts Sunday School association held in Tremont temple today. Among those who delivered addresses were Rev. F. B. Meyer of London widely known as a preacher, author and lecturer. Rev. Richard Roberts, also a celebrated London minister and Marion Lawrence of Congo. Rev. Mr. Meyer is president of the world's Sunday School association and Mr. Lawrence is general secretary of the International Sunday School association. All three men recently completed a tour of the world in the interest of the world's sixth Sunday school convention to be held in Washington May 24. Bishop Hartzel of Africa and Dr. Bailey of Philadelphia, chairman of the world's association committee who accompanied them during part of the tour, were unable to be presented to the convention today.

CONDITIONS SHOCKING

Commissioner Neill

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The conditions of labor existing at the Bethlehem Steel Works, at South Bethlehem, Pa., as set forth in the report of the bureau of labor, recently sent to congress, are more or less common throughout the entire steel industry, according to a statement issued yesterday by Dr. Charles P. Neill, commissioner of labor. He referred to the conditions in the blast furnaces as shocking.

This announcement was brought forth by a protest made Tuesday by President Charles M. Schwab of the Bethlehem Steel Co., regarding the report. Mr. Schwab complained that the summary was unfair to his company. Commissioner Neill in his statement sustains Mr. Schwab's contention, that most of the skilled workmen of the Bethlehem plant had a Saturday half holiday and that "it is true that in some departments work for the entire seven days of the week, month in and month out, has been the practice throughout the entire steel industry."

Continuing, Dr. Neill said: "The annual reports of the bureau of labor on wages and hours show that in the blast furnaces, for example, 84 hours a week has been the regular working time in every section of the country; this means practically a 12 hour day every day in the week. In cases where the day shift and the night shift periodically exchange every week or second week, one shift works six days of 12 hours one week, while the other shift works six days of 12 hours and on the seventh day remains on duty continuously for 24 hours in order to effect the exchange."

"These are conditions of labor which may well be termed shocking, but they are not confined to the Bethlehem Steel Works."

Mr. Neill added that blast furnace work was necessarily a continuous process and that three shifts of eight hours each offered the only plan of relief.

The recent public discussion on the subject, the commissioner added, has brought about a lessening of Sunday labor. In this connection the commissioner continued:

"It might be added that since the beginning of the investigation into the conditions at the Bethlehem plant emphasis has been placed by the United States Steel corporation to reduce Sunday work to the minimum."

MICHAEL F. BOYLE

of C. T. A. U.

Mr. Michael F. Boyle, the well known vice-president of the Mathew Temperance Institute, has been chosen by Pres. John T. Shea of the C. T. A. U. of the archdiocese as district deputy for the St. John's T. A. society of North Chelmsford, one of the most prosperous societies in the archdiocesan body. St. John's society is fortunate in securing one so well equipped to look after its interests as Mr. Boyle.

District Deputy Boyle received word of his appointment yesterday and will pay his first official visit very soon.

FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS

CINCINNATI, O., May 12.—The biennial convention of the American Federation of Women's Clubs opened yesterday before 600 delegates and guests. The Rev. Charles Frederick Goss of Cincinnati, was the principal speaker. Governor Judson Harmon of Ohio was present for a few moments and spoke briefly.

The opening was a record breaker in attendance and in the number of delegates from other cities. More than 3500 delegates are present.

SENATOR SAMUEL H. PILES FROM WASHINGTON

SENATOR S. H. PILES
CLINGING TO WASHINGTON, D.C.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Senator Lorimer of Illinois may have company in a senate investigation on how he secured his seat. During the hearing of the Ballinger-Pinchot inquiry the attorney for Glavis demanded that information be admitted telling how Senator Samuel H. Piles of Washington was elected. The statement was made by Attorney Brandels that Senator Piles had the backing of the Morgan-Guggenheim syndicate. Senator Root, a member of the Ballinger committee, demanded that the statement be removed from the records. This was not done, but the committee refused to make further inquiry along this line. However, the Pinchot-Glavis following are at active work and announce that they will present a number of points on the election of Senator Piles for the consideration of the country.

FORGERY CHARGE VALESKA SURATT

Is Made Against a Winthrop Man

BOSTON, May 12.—When Albert M. Crowe, 38 years old, of 4 Woodside pl., Winthrop, a yachtman and clubman, entered the court house yesterday afternoon on his way to the superior criminal court, where there has been a larceny charge pending against him since March 11, he met Capt. John R. McGarr of police headquarters, who informed him of his recent indictment by the grand jury on charges of forgery and uttering.

Crowe, who was formerly a real estate broker, with offices at 60 State street, was taken to police headquarters and booked by Capt. McGarr, being removed later to the superior court detention room.

Catherine Snow of 29 Sterling street, Roxbury, alleges that Crowe swindled her out of $500 through real estate deals. Jan. 31, 1908, she says, she gave Crowe $350 to invest for her. He gave her a promissory note for $850, signed by "Franklin Burnham." This note she was informed was secured by a mortgage on certain real estate.

Feb. 8, 1909, she gave Crowe $200, she says, securing in return another promissory note for $200. The second note was signed by "Charles S. Day." This note was also secured by a mortgage, so the woman claims she was told by Crowe.

Investigation later revealed that the notes were forgeries, and that the real estate that was supposed to secure the notes never existed.

Crowe was arrested March 11 by Capt. McGarr and Armstrong on the complaint of William H. Stimpson, in business at 299 Marginal street, East Boston, who lives at Winthrop. The complaint alleged the larceny of $50. More than one year ago, according to the police, Crowe was asked by Stimpson to insure his auto, which was valued at $3000. Stimpson said he paid Crowe $50, and that the latter had lifted him that the car had been insured by him.

July 1 last Stimpson's garage caught fire and the car was destroyed. Stimpson tried to get his insurance, asking Crowe for the policy several times. The police claim the policy was canceled because Crowe had not settled with the company for it.

When arraigned in the superior court yesterday afternoon Crowe pleaded not guilty and was held in $20,000.

of the harvest they can reap with the show on tour. But Mayor Gaynor promises to go even further. He says that the show is not fit for the American stage and that he feels it will be his duty to notify his fellow executives throughout the country that this show should not be permitted on any stage. In the meantime Miss Suratt, who has won fame for her striking costumes if nothing else, has also been barred from giving a vaudeville act at Hammerstein's.

$75,000 DAMAGE

Disastrous Fire Took Place at Westerly, R. I.

WESTERLY, R. I., May 12.—Damage estimated at $75,000 was done to the Barber memorial building, one of the chief business blocks in Westerly, late last night by a fire that is said to have been started by crossed electric light wires in an anteroom of the Masonic lodge rooms on the third floor. Before the fire was brought under control, several adjacent buildings at times were in peril.

The flames worked havoc on the third floor, practically destroying it. The second floor was partly burned out and with the first also suffered heavily by water. The Masonic lodge room occupied the whole of the third and top floor, while the second was devoted to offices.

Price walls, also, tomorrow night.

AN AMBASSADOR LYNN MAN HELD

Is Accused of Owing a Debt

PITTSBURGH, May 12.—The details of arranging a settlement for an international marriage and the legal work necessary to protect the estate of a daughter of a wealthy American from creditors and relatives of her husband after his death, were made public yesterday in an affidavit and statement of claim filed in the common pleas court by O. B. Bodington, against John G. A. Leishman, the American ambassador to Rome, Italy, whose home is in Pittsburgh.

The statement is in connection with a writ of foreign attachment filed during the April term of court. It alleges that Ambassador Leishman is indebted to Bodington in the sum of $5500. It is set up that the ambassador's family is living in Paris and that Bodington performed legal service for them for four years in connection with the legal affairs of a daughter, Martha Leishman, now the Countess de Gontaut-Blaron. It is further stated that the account was paid up to December, 1907, but since that time no money has been received by Bodington for his services in advising Leishman and his daughter as to the French law regulating "contract of separation of property," which was executed upon the marriage of Miss Leishman with Count Louis de Gontaut-Blaron.

The statement also covers claims for fees alleged to be due Bodington for services rendered in "saving off" creditors of the count.

Is Alleged to Be a Burglar

BOSTON, May 12.—By the arrest of Nicholas Dragodas, 35 years old, a lodger at 28 Kneeland street, who was captured on Harrison avenue yesterday afternoon by Inspectors Shields, Pelton, Hart and Conway of police headquarters, it is believed that the mystery surrounding many burglaries in Lynn has been cleared.

Inspectors Murray and Fitzgerald of Lynn yesterday said that Dragodas on last Thursday evening broke into the residence of Sewall Clark at 25 Lafayette park, Lynn, stealing jewelry and clothing worth $500.

A watch and chain and diamond jacket valued at $200 that was stolen from the home of Mr. Clark was disposed of by Dragodas at the South End the day after the burglary. A broker furnished the police with a description of the man that sold the watch and chain and it fitted Dragodas perfectly. Yesterday he denied at police headquarters that he was a burglar. He admitted pawning the watch and jacket, saying that he had done so for an Italian friend, who paid him $2 for the trouble.

While the police were searching the room of the alleged thief the detectives found nearly 100 keys and numerous pawn tickets. These pawn tickets, they say, probably represent the proceeds of numerous other Lynn burglaries that the detectives of that city are investigating.

Before he was taken to Lynn his picture and measurements were taken for the rogues' gallery.

OFFICERS CHOSEN

By Free Baptist Conference at Chelmsford St. Church

The second and last day of the 28th annual meeting of the Massachusetts Association of Free Baptist Churches is being held at the Chelmsford Street Free Baptist church. Today's session opened with an experience meeting at 9:30, led by Rev. Walter Malvern of Melrose. Reports of committees were heard at 10:30, and there was a sermon at 11 o'clock by Rev. G. Bolster of Somerville. Dinner was served at 12:15.

In the afternoon there was a meeting of the Massachusetts Free Baptist Young People's society, Rev. Walter J. Malvern president. There was a devotional service at 1:30, and at 2 o'clock business and reports held the boards. The rest of the afternoon was given over to music and addresses. At 4 o'clock there was prayer and consecration service.

Officers Elected

Yesterday, the opening day of the conference, the following officers were elected:

President, Rev. Charles E. McColly of Lawrence.
Vice president, Rev. J. C. Wilson of Lowell.
Secretary and treasurer, Rev. W. J. Twort of Haverhill.
Auditor, M. H. Reed of Haverhill.
Executive board, for three years, Rev. C. E. McColly of Lawrence, Mrs. Emily A. Page of Haverhill.
Delegates to general conference, Rev. Myra C. Hoyt of Brockton (alternate), Mrs. J. E. Doe of Somerville, Rev. W. J. Twort of Haverhill (alternate), C. A.

Eaton of Boston), Rev. W. W. Harris of Chelsea (alternate, J. L. Pugatey of Melrose).

The messengers were received, with their messages of greeting, from the Maine, Vermont and Rhode Island associations.

A workers' conference followed, when the following questions were discussed: "The Reason Why Young Men Should Enter the Ministry," Rev. Myra C. Hoyt, Mrs. Hoyt, who is the only woman minister in the Massachusetts Free Baptist conference, said that the reason why young men should enter the ministry seemed much the same to her as the reasons why anyone should enter the ministry. No one should enter unless called.

"Why Men Should Work for Men" was discussed by Mr. Paul of Boston.

Mrs. Frances S. Mosher of Boston gave some reasons why the church should extend its home mission work.

A brief business session of the Women's Mission society was held, and after supper, which was served in the lower rooms of the church, the evening session was opened with a praise service by Rev. H. Nickerson of Lynn.

The committee on resolutions reported, and the following recommendations were adopted by the conference:

That all money collected for missions shall be forwarded to the treasurer of the state association.

That the executive committee, in preparing the program for the next session, assign Wednesday evening entirely to a consideration of work for men.

That the clerk be instructed to pay the railroad fares of delegates, to the general conference held at Ocean Park, Me., June 13; and also to pay $1 a day for the actual working days of the conference.

A rising vote of appreciation was given the local church, for its entertainment of the conference.

Rev. Horace H. Hayes of the Boston church received the right hand of fellowship from the conference, through Rev. W. W. Malvern of Melrose.

Rev. Charles E. McColly gave an address on "Men's Work for Men," and held that the church is being "feminized" to a great extent. Men owe their duty to the church, he said, the same as to the state. All over the land we hear the cry, "Where are the men?"

When a minister has to announce, as one did recently, "The pastor and I will hold the usual Friday night prayer meeting," something needs to be done.

We have been putting the greatest burden of our societies on the shoulders of the women, and the burden is becoming almost unbearable. Out of 20 million Protestants, 60 per cent are women; and it might be added that 77 per cent of the men who go to church do nothing but ride on the gospel chariot without even dragging their feet.

The only way to solve the boy problem is to get the men into the church and the Sunday school. You cannot expect boys to stay to Sunday school if their fathers will not stay.

The church is being manned by women, and a manless church is the derision of the age. The church is losing her power and her prestige because of this. One reason why young men are not going into the ministry is because they have to preach to women almost entirely. We have got tired of being called ladies' men. Men are talking all over the country, that religion is a woman's business. Instead of letting George do it, they are letting the women do it. The elevation of the church must come into the hearts of men, through men. We want men in the church, and when we get them, we want to give them something to do.

Rev. H. H. Hayes of Boston preached a sermon on "The Promise and Potency of the Church." His text was from Matthew, 16th chapter, 18th and 19th verses.

COMEDY DRAMA

PRESENTED BY THE TOWER

CLASS OF P. M. CHURCH

At the Gorham Street P. M. church last night the young men of the "Tower Class" presented the comedy-drama entitled "Strife." The play was given under the direction of Miss Maude M. Mountford and proved a great success.

Messrs. Orrin McKenzie, Kilgore Manning, Tom Baldwin, Guy McQuaide, George Higginbottom, E. Champion, Walter Matthews, B. Clarke, John Graham and others assisted in the "mob scene."

Miss Eva Robinson, reader; Mr. N. W. Matthews, Jr., baritone; Mr. Edward Looney, clarinetist; Messrs. Rolfe and Phil, banjo, mandolin and guitar, gave selections during the evening and were enthusiastically received, responding to encores.

Miss Alice Whelan was the accompanist of the evening. The cast: Judge Henry Buttons, a retired judge and wealthy mill owner.

Mr. George Dennett, Harold Thomas, a gentleman of leisure, Mr. Richard Campbell

Henry Hansell, a mechanic, Mr. Harry Jepson

Aristotle Thompson, Horatio Squash, (the judge's most intimate friend), Mr. Andrew Brown, Mr. A. Chapin

Hans Von Sandt, his cook, Mr. Fred Matthews

THORNDIKE WILLS

Charities Are Likely to Get Millions

BOSTON, May 12.—In the wills of Charles Thorndike and his wife, Mary P. Thorndike, of Nahant and Boston, which were probated at Salem yesterday, Harvard University, the Industrial School for Deformed and Crippled Children and the House of the Good Samaritan, are named as possible legatees to bequests totalling several millions at the expiration of the trust.

Dr. Augustus Thorndike, the only child, is given $300,000 outright in his father's will, and the residue, together with Mrs. Thorndike's estate, is left in trust, the income to be divided among Dr. Thorndike's five minor children and his father's sister. Twenty years after the death of all named in the trust both estates are to be divided among their issue.

Should the beneficiaries all die without issue Mr. Thorndike's estate is to be shared by the three public beneficiaries mentioned above, and Mrs. Thorndike's estate all goes to the Industrial School for Deformed and Crippled Children.

Mr. Thorndike's estate is estimated at $840,000 and Mrs. Thorndike's estate at $940,000. He died on April 8 of pneumonia and his wife died the following day from the same disease, so that the property disposed of in Mrs. Thorndike's will represents her dowry rights in her husband's estate, as she lived a few hours longer.

The Thorndike home at Nos. 481 and 483 Commonwealth avenue is one of the finest in the Back Bay. It is a double house and extends through to Deacon street. Charles Thorndike's legal residence was in Nahant, where he had a summer home.

The chances of Harvard University and the two charitable organizations sharing in the estate are rather remote, as Dr. Thorndike is the father of five children, two boys and three girls, whose ages range from 8 to 17 years.

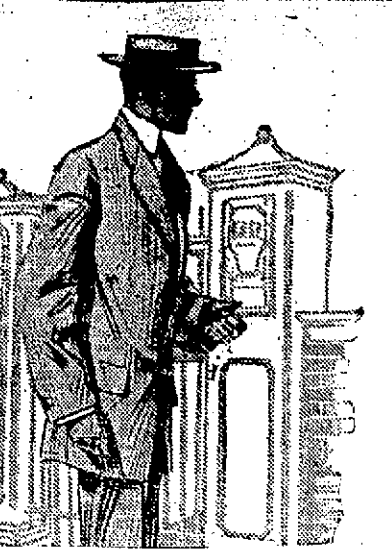

FOUND GUILTY

MAN ACCUSED OF TRYING TO EXORT MONEY FROM CARUSO

NEW YORK, May 12.—A verdict of guilty was found in the Enrico Caruso "black hand" case in Brooklyn yesterday. The man on trial was Antonio Misiana, one of the men charged with attempting to extort $15,000 from the famous tenor. The jury found Misiana guilty of attempted extortion and he will be sentenced to prison.

Antonio Cinotti, the other alleged would-be blackmailer, will shortly be put on trial on a similar charge.

Caruso testified in the case before sailing Tuesday for Europe.

We've turned a trick on Serge Suits we're rather proud of.

With prices of worsted fabrics soaring in the air, we've put through a deal by which we've bettered our last year's $15 serge—which was a corker.

These are from one of the biggest and finest houses in Rochester—where only the best clothes are made. The fabric is a fine wale, lustrous serge of good weight and the tailoring is of high order.

We'll warrant them fully—color, cloth and making—if a suit fades or pulls out at the seams, we'll take it back. We've laid in a good supply—in regular, short, stout and long sizes—up to 46.

In our experience, we know of no suits to match them at the price.

Come in and see them—if you don't think as we do—don't buy.

You'll get $18.00 in value in every one of them.

Do they fit? Well you know us. Just see them.

BOARD OF TRADE

Secretary's Resignation Accepted With Regret

At the regular meeting of the directors of the board of trade yesterday the resignation of Secretary John A. McKenna was reluctantly accepted with regret.

Before accepting the resignation, the directors sought to have Mr. McKenna retain his position for a time at least, but were unsuccessful as Mr. McKenna begins his duties with the Helme Electric company at once.

On motion of Charles H. Coburn, the board expressed its appreciation of the work accomplished by him for the good of the organization and the city by a rising vote, and genuine regret was expressed at his retirement.

Secretary McKenna, in response, stated that the four years of work had been very beneficial to him, and he hoped also to the board of trade. He trusted that the same cordial feeling and co-operation would be extended to the new secretary as had always been his good fortune to enjoy.

The new members admitted included Andrew P. Sackley, Napoleon D. LaFleur, Union National bank, John W. Holgate and B. H. Anderson.

No action was taken toward the election of a secretary, the directors finally postponing action until next Wednesday afternoon at 4:45.

It was announced that the board had become affiliated with the American Civic association, which is dealing with several problems of national importance, one of them being the forestry bills which include the reserve planned for the White mountains.

The work of the executive committee in behalf of a safer and safer observance of July 4th was discussed and approved. The board desires a more dignified program than one confined to mere noise and danger.

Daniel F. Carroll, chairman of the committee on factory locations, reported that a number of concerns had been in communication with the committee and that there is good prospect of a

A MOTHER'S SACRED DUTY

Her Noblest Work Is to Safeguard the Health of Her Children.

Women are taught to sew, cook, make their own clothes, they are even given some knowledge of how to preserve their health and good looks.

But how many mothers have been educated to know the signs of the different diseases of children?

When their children have little sick spells how many mothers can tell what ails them?

For example, it is a fact that about three out of every four sick children are sick because they have worms in their stomachs or bowels. Not many mothers know that, but it is a fact just the same.

Here is a valuable hint for all mothers when children are sick: "think of worms first." It is the most frequent cause of ailments in children.

Here are some of the signs by which you can tell that your child has worms: Offensive breath, choking and swallowing during sleep, starting and grunting in sleep, constant thirst, cross and peevish, either a greedy constant desire for food or very poor and flimsy appetite, and also vomiting after eating.

Your child having worms should receive treatment at once. Save it from needless suffering by instant action on your part.

Don't let 25 cents in money stand between you and the health of your child. Go at once to a good drug store and with 25 cents purchase a package of Fessenden's Worm Expeller. It will be worth much more money by curing your child, by restoring your little one to rosy cheeks, happy health, and by saving you the cost of a doctor's bill.

TWO MONUMENTS

To the Memory of Pulaski and Kosciuszko

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Two monuments to the memory and deeds of Pulaski and Kosciuszko, the Polish heroes, both of whom fought and one of whom died at liberty in America, might live, were dedicated here today. The time of the dedications was so arranged that President Taft could attend each.

While the president made the principal address at the unveiling of the monument to Pulaski, which stands in the triangle at 13th street and Pennsylvania avenue, Secretary of War Dickinson was making the principal address at the Kosciuszko statue in Lafayette park, opposite the White House, and J. F. Smalley, of the Polish National Alliance made an address in Polish.

The monument to Pulaski was erected by an act of congress, but the statue of Kosciuszko is a gift to the nation from the Polish National Alliance and other organizations of Poles who have made their homes in the free republic, for which their distinguished countrymen fought.

There was a double significance to the unveiling of the monument to Kosciuszko, for it marked the opening here tomorrow of the first Polish National Congress to attend which thousands of Poles from all over the United States have come.

The purpose of the congress is to discuss in all its phases the condition of the Polish nation, to acquire familiarity with the needs of the Polish national life and find ways and means of fulfilling them.

The ceremonies which preceded the dedication of the statue were long planned and very elaborate. A military parade in which all the regular troops stationed at Fort Myer as well as the National Guard of the District of Columbia marched, was one of the features.

Brigadier General Tasker H. Bliss, U. S. A., was in command. In the heart of the busier section of the city the monument to Pulaski stands fourteen feet from the sidewalk in a triangular green. In the middle of a charger is mounted the figure of the hero, in the Polish Hussar uniform in which he won command of a brigade of Washington's cavalry for his gallant conduct at the Battle of Red Bank.

Pulaski always wore the uniform of his beloved fatherland and it clothed his breast through three years of valiant fighting on American soil until he fell at the siege of Savannah in 1779 and died on the United States brig of war Wasps in the harbor, two days after.

The sculptor, Chedzinski, gathered material for his work in Paris, Berlin and parts of Poland and secured from the descendants of Pulaski a life-size painting of the hero, mounted on a horse, done by Pulaski's sister.

In Lafayette park, a beautiful shaded square across Pennsylvania avenue from the White House, the monument to Kosciuszko with the exception of one completes the set of five planned here. The others are General Lafayette and Count Rochambeau, who commanded the French allies at Yorktown. On the remaining corner will be erected the statue of Baron Von Steuben. An immense statue of General Andrew Jackson is in the center of the park.

Kosciuszko is represented in the figure as the hero of two hemispheres, as his countrymen love to refer to him. A map of the United States with the American eagle guarding it is on the front of the pedestal. On the other side is the outline of Europe and Asia, attacked by the snake of despotism, with the Polish eagle fighting in defense. A Polish soldier, wounded and falling, is being defended by a Polish farmer with a scythe. Opposite, an American soldier is cutting the shadow of an American farmer, who blind him to the foreign yoke. Mounted on the pedestal is the statue of Kosciuszko, a map of West Point on one hand, the other on his sword.

The valiant deeds of the man who fought consistently for liberty in an old world and a new—so consistently that he refused to lend himself to the plans of Napoleon for the restoration of Poland, are recalled by the inscriptions on the monument.

Driven to this country by an unhappy love affair, he saw the new republic established and did not return to his native Poland until 1794. When Russia attacked Poland, in 1794, Kosciuszko with 4000 men held Dublenka against 18,000 Russians in a famous battle. After the second partition of Poland, in 1794, he put himself at the head of a national movement and was

Eczema Not a Blood Disease—New Remedy for Every Skin Trouble

For years the medical profession has been seeking a cure for Eczema, the most common and most stubborn of skin diseases. Some said it was a blood disease; some said it was a result of indigestion. It remained for one tedious chemist to settle beyond any question that eczema in all its forms is a skin disease and related in no way to a disordered condition of the blood. This same chemist experimented with many antiseptic, healing and soothing agents, but it was not until he formed the compound Cadum that he at last realized he had given to the world something that would bring relief or cure to millions of sufferers. Cadum ranks today with the great discoveries of the medical world. Its action is so positive that the itching of eczema is stopped immediately. People who have itched and scratched for years find sleep and rest as soon as Cadum is used, and in ordinary cases a complete restoration of the skin to a healthy condition is reached in two or three weeks. The soothing, lasting effects of Cadum are almost instantaneous. Cadum is sold at all druggists. Trial box 10c; large box 25c. The small box is sufficient for trial purposes, and may be used not only for eczema in all its forms, but also for hives, pimples, blotches, itchy skin, acne, herpes, scaly skin, rash, psoriasis, ringworm, chaps, eruptions, sores, scabs, itching, piles, scurvy, etc.

preclaimed dictator and commander-in-chief. Covered with wounds he fell into the hands of his enemies and was restored to liberty by the Emperor Paul, two years later.

Alexander, in 1814, refused to grant an amnesty to Poles in foreign lands and to make Kosciuszko constitutional king of Poland, and for the remainder of his life he lived the sword and lived the peaceful life of a farmer in France until he was killed when his horse plunged over a precipice. The Emperor Alexander later moved his body to Cracow and had it laid beside John Sobieski.

MURDER TRIAL

Two Judges to Sit on Bench

BOSTON, May 12.—Judges Crosby and Duff of the superior court have been assigned to preside at the trial of Elizabeth Richmond, charged with the murder of Stewart McTavish. The murder of Stewart McTavish, which occurred at hotel Florence, 135 Cambridge street, East Cambridge, supposedly in the afternoon of July 23 last, and for which Mrs. Elizabeth Richmond, 64 years old, was arrested and charged with the crime, was mysterious and sensational.

McTavish was 24 years old. It was generally thought at the time of the discovery of the crime that McTavish had intended to sail for his home in Charlestown, P. E. I., on the night that he was killed.

When the mutilated body of McTavish was discovered Mrs. Richmond was found lying in a stupor on the floor of the kitchen, which was situated but a few feet across the street from the room in which McTavish's body was found. A revolver and a short-handled ax, covered with blood, were found in the rooms on the first floor.

It was thought by the Cambridge police at the time of the discovery of the murder, which was undoubtedly committed with the ax, that McTavish and Mrs. Richmond had been imbibing freely and that in a quarrel the man met his death.

Mrs. Richmond was arraigned in the Cambridge district court the day following the discovery of the murder and pleaded not guilty to the charge of murder. Her case was continued to August 3, when she was held for the grand jury. She was later arraigned in the superior court at East Cambridge on Sept. 21 and again pleaded not guilty. Ralph W. Glogau was assigned as counsel by Judge King.

CHOIR FESTIVAL

Grand Affair Planned in Aid of Playgrounds

The choir festival of all the churches in Lowell in aid of the public playgrounds, to be held in Associate hall on May 17 and 18, will be a unique affair. For the first time in the history of Lowell all the choirs in the city, Catholic, Protestant, Jew and Gentile, will join in making the affair a great success.

The concert program for the two evenings will be one that should attract all lovers of music. Each night will have special attractions that everybody will want to see.

The Universalist choir will present the sextet from "Lullaby" and a male quartet from the "Johannine" Conception choir will render the "Miserere" from "Il Trovatore"; a quartet from St. Patrick's choir will render favorite Irish melodies, while a quartet from the Presbyterian churches will sing some of the most celebrated Scotch ballads. There will also be features from the Polish and Swedish churches, one from the Jewish synagogue, with several other choirs that have not yet reported their final programs.

So great is the enthusiasm in this festival that one choir offered to pay for 20 seats so that it might get all its singers into the hall. There will be from 250 to 300 singers participating each evening. The tickets are for sale at O'Sullivan Brothers, Jewell's, formerly Lawler's, Lowell Pharmacy, Carter & Sherburne's, Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A.

ARTILLER DEAD

Was Wounded in Fracas at Attleboro

ATTLEBORO, May 12.—Late yesterday morning Chief of Police Nerney received a warrant charging Francis Rowe with manslaughter in causing the death of German Artiller, who died yesterday as the result of injuries in a fracas Sunday. The warrant was served on Rowe at the Taunton jail, just before noon.

The trouble took place in Long Cut, a section of Attleboro, late Sunday afternoon. Some men became involved in an argument, and finally there was a fight, razors, knives and pistols being brought into play.

Suddenly, one of the men, German Artiller, was seen to fall, and his assaultant quickly made his escape. The chief of police was notified and he visited the scene with a squad of officers.

Artiller was found covered with blood and gashes. He was brought to the office of Dr. J. W. Battershall in an automobile and the physician found it necessary to take 30 stitches to close the wounds on the head, arm and abdomen.

While the injured man was being attended to by the physician word was received at police headquarters that a man had run through several streets and finally hidden himself in the cellar at William Blair's house on Orange street. There he was taken by officers and proved to be Francis Rowe. In court Monday Chief Nerney asked for a continuance, as he anticipated serious consequences. The injured man, Artiller, became insensible Tuesday morning and passed away.

The chief says that he has witnesses to testify that Rowe was the man who struck Artiller Sunday night and caused the injuries which proved fatal.

FATE OF HEINZE INMATES STARVED

Expected to be Decided by the Jury Tonight

is the Charge Made by Ex-Mayor of Nashua

NEW YORK, May 12.—Fritz Augustus Heinze, Montana copper man and former banker, may know by tonight whether the government's long fight to convict him of crimes against the banking laws is to result in making him share the fate of his former associate, Charles W. Morse, or whether the verdict of a jury will proclaim him innocent.

Heinze left to his counsel all the fighting for him throughout the long trial of the government's charges that he had misapplied funds of the Mercantile National bank while he was its president in 1897 in an effort to prop up the market for United Copper stock. In this connection he was charged with over-certification of the checks of his brother's firm, Otto Heinze & Co., who had the United Copper market operations in charge. The principal in the case did not go on the stand himself but smilingly sat by and watched the proceedings. His witnesses testified to the big mining land holdings of the Heinzes and piled up figures to show that there was ample security behind the loans that had been taken out for the benefit of the Heinze firm on Oct. 14, 1897, when the prosecution charges he over-certified upwards of $400,000 in checks of his brother's firm.

There was apparent confidence in the ranks of the Heinze counsel before the summing up began today that the government had failed to make out a case of criminal intent on Heinze's part. On the other hand, U. S. Dist. Atty. Wise, who had the final say in the case before Judge Hough, took up his duty of charging the jury on the law, by no means appeared discouraged.

Summing up of the attorneys was expected to occupy pretty much the entire day with the prospect that the jury would be charged and retire for its deliberations in the late afternoon or early evening.

NORTH CHELMSFORD

The St. John's Ladies' Auxiliary of North Chelmsford held their annual May party and dance in the town hall last night. There was a very large attendance, with many invited guests. At eight o'clock a concert program was started and continued until 8:30, when general dancing followed to the music of Kittredge's orchestra of Lowell. The decorations were attractive and those with the light dresses worn by the young ladies made a pretty scene. At intermission ice cream and cake were served in the lower hall, after which dancing was resumed and continued until midnight. A car returned to Lowell after the party. The committee in charge were Misses Belle Valentine and Loretta Ward, with Miss Valerie Cox as floor marshal and Miss Nellie Ward as assistant. President Mrs. Thomas McTeague was chairman of the reception committee.

DONE BY A FIRE AT DERRY, N. H. YESTERDAY MORNING

DERRY, N. H., May 12.—A fire in the Charles W. Abbott block, on Railroad square, yesterday morning, caused a damage of $8000 or more. The fire was first seen in the lunch room of William J. Joyce, and quickly broke out through the windows and the staircase and spread to the roof. The building is some 200 feet long, with a basement of storerooms, the ground floor being occupied by stores and offices, and the entire top floor by the Dennis Casey bowling alleys and pool room.

The loss to the building will be about $1500; to William J. Joyce, lunch room, $500; Dennis Casey, bowling and pool room, $2000; George M. Phalen, cigar manufacturer, $800; Henry F. Pelkey, boot and shoe dealer, $800; William J. Kingsbury, music store and insurance agency, $1000; George Bernier, barbershop, $300; Joseph Cohen, tailor, $300; Calvin H. Bradford, carpenter and builder; W. W. Gage, woodworker, and a clubroom, some $200.

NASHUA, N. H., May 12.—"When aged inmates complained that they were hungry they were told the board of trustees had ordered the food curtailed, and that is one of the causes for my withdrawal as a trustee," thus spoke ex-Mayor Charles H. Burke yesterday in explaining his reasons for declining to longer serve as an official of the John M. Hunt home. The announcement that Mr. Burke at a recent meeting of the board had stated in no uncertain language that he was through as trustee caused a decided stir in town. But the charges embodied in his statement of explanation have brought a sensation that aroused the entire city, and demands for an investigation are being freely made.

Mr. Burke declared in his statement, that inmates who had begged him to have sufficient food provided, told of being obliged to go to houses near the home and to friends in various parts of the city, asking for something to eat. The John M. Hunt home has been pointed to as an ideal institution. Persons who have been loud in their praises of the home are reported as among those who now favor a thorough sifting of ex-Mayor Burke's charges. The institution occupies a magnificent building in the South End. It was dedicated to the memory of John M. Hunt, in his day one of Nashua's wealthiest and most progressive citizens, by his widow.

"The institution has an endowment fund of over $100,000 which is still growing," said Mr. Burke, "and there is no necessity for anything but good usage of the inmates. My pride and appreciation of a good name would not allow my connection with the board of trustees of the John M. Hunt home to continue."

"From the incorporation of the home I have been a member of the executive committee which has charge of the management of the institution.

"I made several protests to Mr. Taylor, president of the board, against the management of the home, stating that I could not remain on a board of trustees that suffered the conditions at the home to continue."

"My appeal resulted in slight improvement of the meals at the home, more meat and more fish, and the dropping-off of butterine from the daily bill of fare served on the table. The serving of butterine upon the table was a recent addition to the cuisine and its use was not authorized by the executive committee."

"In fact, the executive committee has held no meeting for some time past where the detail management of the home was considered."

"It was ignored as a committee, and matters that should have come before them for consideration were consigned to others."

Attorney Edward H. Vason, the clerk of the board of trustees defended the institution. He said that twice, very recently, members of the board had visited the home at meal time, the matron not having been previously warned of their coming, and they had found plenty of food, well cooked and well served, and of sufficient and substantial variety."

He declared his conviction that "the green-eyed monster" was at the bottom of trouble which had started among certain inmates of the institution. He said the institution purchased its butter from a well-known creamery, and that also had been used for cooking purposes only. He said that it also had ever been used on the table it had been "by mistake and was not the practice."

Murray of Lawrence

Lawrence, nominations, N. O. Maguire of Lawrence, Rev. Silas Morse of Haverhill, Dea. Friday Stevens of Lowell; resolutions, Rev. D. W. J. Swaffield of Lawrence, J. W. Shirley of Lawrence, Rev. S. W. Cummings of Lowell; enrollment, Rev. A. R. Dilts of Lowell, Rev. W. F. Lombard of Andover, H. P. Morse of Haverhill.

The morning address was delivered by Rev. Dr. W. J. Swaffield of the First Baptist church of Lawrence.

The discussion on "Phases of Sunday School Work" was conducted by Rev. F. A. MacDonald of the Fifth Street Baptist church of Lowell.

At the business session, which took place at the afternoon meeting, the following officers were chosen: President, J. W. Shirley, Lawrence; vice-president, George H. Taylor, Lowell; secretary-treasurer, Rev. C. H. Ellis, Chelmsford Centre; executive committee, the foregoing officers and C. B. Mitchell, Haverhill, N. O. Maguire, Lawrence, R. B. Thomas, Lowell, P. F. Gilbert, Andover, and Mrs. N. D. Parker, Chelmsford; representative to the state board, Deacon G. E. Murray, Lawrence.

The annual report of Secretary Ellis was one of much interest. The first part of it concerned the total figures, while the second consisted of reports from each one of the Sunday schools in the association. There are 574 teachers and 4278 scholars, making a total of 5552. Last year there were 5454 scholars and teachers. Of the number this year 80 per cent. of the teachers have attended services regularly, while 56 per cent. of all the scholars have attended. The number of baptisms have been 196. The report stated that the financial condition of the association was not quite as good as last year.

The principal address of the afternoon was made by Rev. Asa Reed Dilts, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church of this city. He spoke on "Fishers of Men."

The evening session followed a supper served in the town hall. The principal address was by Rev. Dr. Edward Drabbin of Boston.

Fellows Morgan, Jr., of Baltusrol, B. W. Corkean of Baltimore and P. Harrison of Laneshire, England, as well as a large number of Harvard players and local experts.

MAYOR OF LAWRENCE

Accuses Chief Engineer of Attempted Bribery

LAWRENCE, May 12.—Mayor White's specifications of charges against Chief Engineer James A. Hamilton of the fire department, on which he proposed to remove him, were made public at a hearing before the aldermen last night. Incompetency, extravagance, violation of the city ordinances in making purchases and attempt to bribe members of the city government were included.

City Solicitor Murphy represented the mayor and Hon. Louis S. Cox represented the chief engineer. The mayor charged that Chief Hamilton spent money and employed permanent firemen without authority of the city council; that the city has paid for no less than three mileage books on the Boston & Maine railroad for the chief; that he has been disobedient and careless of the city's interest in refusing to give assistance in flushing Essex street; that he has not obtained proper discounts on purchases; that he has allowed friends and relatives to incur charges against the city for telephone calls; that extravagance was shown in the purchase of hose; that he purchased a fire alarm wagon without authority, also safes, rugs and horses; that he bought a new hose wagon at a cost of $350 and approved the bill under the head of repairs; that excessive rates were paid for the board of horses; that he has at various times bribed and attempted to bribe members of the city government; that he had recommended the purchase of hose at a time when the department had ample for double requirements; that he has ignored the assistant engineers; that he has been so wantonly extravagant that the expenses of the department have increased $17,767.03, as compared with the corresponding period of his predecessor and the fire alarm department alone has increased $2,485.32 in 10 months. After Assistant Engineers McCreadie and Toys and Edward F. Kress had testified and Assistant City Clerk Wade had read records of meeting of the fire department committee last year, the hearing was adjourned until Thursday, May 19.

Combination Coal and Gas

Crawford Ranges

The Crawford Gas Ovens are safe. They are lighted in a new way; there is no dangerous pilot light and explosions are impossible. This improvement is patented and very important.

The Damper is automatically opened by opening oven door to light the burners, which cannot be lighted until the door is opened.

In these Gas Ovens there is an extra set of burners at the top for broiling; a great advantage over the ordinary gas oven, insuring better broiling and great convenience.

The Oven Bottoms and Racks are cast iron, and the outer walls are triple—an interlining of asbestos between two sheets of iron, which assists to retain the heat.

The use of these Gas Ovens does not interfere in any way with the operation of the coal range—both can be used at the same time.

Double Oven above or Single Oven at end of range.

BATTLESHIP FLORIDA

Biggest of the American Dreadnaughts Was Launched Today

NEW YORK, May 12.—Flying the white-starred ensign of the United States navy at her stern, the naval battleship, the concentrated big gun, the biggest of the American dreadnaughts built thus far, was successfully launched at the Brooklyn navy yard today in the presence of the vice president of the United States, the secretary of the navy, the naval attaches of all the powers and a crowd of 5000 enthusiasts whom lowering skies and intermittent rains had failed to keep away.

The 21,525 ton fighting leviathan built to carry the thunder of ten 12-inch guns, the concentrated big gun, the biggest of the American dreadnaughts built thus far, was successfully launched at the Brooklyn navy and removed the side shores and cribbing amidships. As soon as the tide was declared favorable work was given to remove the 120 keel blocks and Naval Constructor Baxter took up his station at the stern of the Florida on the starboard side.

down the ways with the voice of her sponsor clearly and proudly calling out:

"Go, brave ship, I christen thee 'Florida'."

The launching was the most successful ever held at the Brooklyn navy yard. The gigantic battleship slid down the tallow-greased ways with the lightness of a frail lifeboat. As soon as she reached the water the current veered her lightly to the north and she wound her course to the end of the river where a dozen of navy tugs hugged her on all sides gradually forcing her to her mooring near Cobbleck Rear Admiral Lutz, commandant of the navy yard, warmly congratulated Miss Fleming on her coolness at a critical moment. Gov. Gilchrist and Vice President Sherman joining in the plaudits while the state flag of Florida in the hands of Senator Fletcher waved frantically above the heads of the christening party.

ODD WRESTLING

Turkish Style at C. M. A. C. Saturday Night

There's something new on for the wrestling fans at C. M. A. C. hall, next Saturday night when Peter Jack, the funny but clever heavyweight Greek wrestler is to meet Kage Mokaine, the Turkish giant, in a bout at Turkish style in connection with the handicap match of Wilfred Barrette vs. Kid Pappas, Barrette to throw Pappas, three times in an hour to win.

There has never been any Turkish wrestling in Lowell and hence it will be a novelty.

The wrestlers go by points and every old kind of a fall goes, pin falls, rolling falls and flying falls, each counting so many points.

Most interesting fact in connection with Turkish style is it, one wrestler can hit his opponent completely off his feet and carry him three steps with his opponent's feet in front of him and free from his body, he is credited with a fall. Jack weighs 150 while the Turkish heam at 310. Hence this ought to be worth the price of admission at least. But there is much discussion and considerable betting on the Barrette and Pappas match and it will not go on until after 10 to give the clerks an opportunity to see the final.

The first preliminary will be between Nelson Deamarris and Mike Ducas, the latter from the Greek colony. Those who say Peter Jack this week will go miles to see him stacked up against a 300 pound Turk especially at Turkish style where everything goes.

Leon Challenges Demetrial

Charles Monheim, the suave manager of Jack Leon, visited The Sun office today armed with a pocketful of certified checks with a challenge for Demetrial for a side bet of from $100 to $2000. "If my man doesn't defeat Demetrial I'll buy the best suit you ever put on your back," said Mr. Monheim. "The only thing I insist on is that a two days' license be granted so that we can finish the match."

And now comes Emil Maupas with a challenge to throw Wilfred Barrette twice in an hour.

GEORGE WHITING

Discusses the Milk Situation

BOSTON, May 12.—George Whiting, one of the leading Boston milk contractors, continued his testimony before the legislative committee investigating the milk situation when the hearing was resumed at the state house today. Mr. Whiting was the first contractor to appear before the committee and it was expected when the hearing began today that it will be at least a week before the testimony is in. When the producers closed yesterday it was with the condition that they would have the privilege of appearing later if they had anything further to say.

AFTERNOON SOCIAL CLUB

The Ladies' Afternoon Social club met yesterday afternoon with Mrs. A. E. Brooks in Normal avenue. There was a large attendance of members, and the afternoon was passed in a delightful manner. Mrs. Bowen read an interesting sketch of "John Howard Payne," the composer of "Home, Sweet Home." Many of the older songs were charmingly sung. Miss Anna Brooks gave several interesting readings. Mrs. William Mitchell, the youngest member of the club, was presented a handsome pinhead set. The bowl was filled with white flowers. Following the meeting a collation was served. The next meeting will be held on the afternoon of May 26 at the home of Mrs. Frank H. Fuller, 266 Wilder street.

ALL ARE GOING

To Day Nursery Fair Opening Tonight

All reads will lead to Merrimack square this evening when what promises to be the greatest Day Nursery festival in history will be opened in Rungels and the adjacent halls.

Everybody is invited to come early for the supper, to inspect the bazaar tables, and to witness the operetta, "Cupid's Garden." You will enjoy the songs, the dances, the tableaux. Some very wonderful costumes have been designed for the flowers. Indeed, if a flower to come to life and grow several sizes larger it would look like the flowers that will appear in this happy concert of the spring. Miss L. Blanche Perrin and Mr. P. O. Blunt have charge of the direction of the dancing and the music, respectively, which promises a successful presentation.

PYTHIAN SISTERS

DORCAS TEMPLE OBSERVED 17TH ANNIVERSARY

The 17th anniversary of Dorcas Temple, Pythian Sisters, was celebrated last night. During the early part of the evening a short business meeting was held after which a social half hour was held. P. C. Robert J. Fullerton acted as master of ceremonies. William Davis entertained with piano selections after which a two act farce entitled "Six Klopionades" was carried out. The cast of characters was as follows:

Mrs. Reynolds Mrs. C. H. Glidden
Inez White Mrs. August Panton
Dora Reynolds Mrs. Mantel Garland
Claudia Snell Mrs. Sewall A. Potter
Mrs. Lynch Mrs. Edward Young
Bridget O'Flanagan
Croesus Jones Miss Margaret Seton
Madame Juliette Mrs. Charles Nichols
Jennie Miss Janette Johnson
Carry Brown Miss Florence Gilmore
Refreshments were served in the banquet hall at the close of the exercises under the charge of Mrs. D. Myrick, assisted by Mrs. Robert J. Fullerton, Mrs. Ida Johnson and Mrs. Griffin.
The success of the entertainment was due to the hard work of the committee consisting of Mrs. A. Cora Stiles, chairman; Mrs. Minnie Tanton; Mrs. Mantel Garland, Mrs. George Titcham, Mr. George Titcham, Mr. Robert J. Fullerton.

LOSS IS $30,000

A Defective Chimney Started a Fire

WESTON, May 12.—The fine summer residence of Grant Walker on Concord road was totally destroyed by fire about 2.30 p. m. yesterday. A defective chimney is believed to have been the cause. The loss will be about $30,000.

The building was of wood and was owned by Mr. Walker, who used it as a summer home. The fire started by the time the local fire department arrived, and as the nearest water supply was 2000 feet distant, the men devoted their attention to saving the contents. As the fire was in the upper part of the building, they succeeded in removing practically all the furniture on the lower floors.

Waltham was asked for help and Chief Johnson sent over one of his steamers, but by the time it reached the scene the house was gutted.

The residence was an what was originally the George Dunn farm, and was built by the late Daniel Sharp Ford of the Youth's Companion.

Mr. Walker bought the place about a dozen years ago. He had made extensive repairs and he and his family had just opened the house for the summer.

He was unable to determine the loss, but it is estimated that the damage to the building and contents will reach a total of $30,000, upon which there is a partial insurance.

THE SHUBERTS

Have Swamped the Theatre Syndicate

NEW YORK, May 12.—The theatre syndicate is at an end. This fact became public yesterday, when it was announced that men who control more than 1200 theatres in the United States and Canada had formed the National Theatre Owners Association to overthrow the so-called syndicate. These theatres represent practically all the playhouses outside the big cities and for many years formed the essential part of the theatre trust. Without which Klaw & Erlanger, Charles Frohman and Nixon & Zimmerman were the chief members, it is powerless to control the theatrical situation.

As the situation now stands Erlanger who prided himself on being the absolute dictator in this country, has fallen from his pedestal. There is a rumor of a speedy dissolution of the theatre trust itself.

The aim of the association is independence, and will have separate booking offices. They stand for the "open door" policy.

In the new organization the theatrical strength of the country cannot be controlled by one man. The officers of the association are John Cort, president; Moss Reis, vice president; J. J. "JIM" JEFFRIES MR. AND MRS. W. A. CLARK OF NEW YORK AND THEIR $13,000,000 PRIVATE RESIDENCE

Asserts He is in Good Shape

BEN LOMOND, Cal., May 12.—Following his fast and arduous workouts in the ring yesterday, Jim Jeffries sprang over his trainers, who evinced elation over his showing. He felt so good that he talked with the volubility of a school girl. "I am around the bend in the road now," he declared. "I am thoroughly limbered up and my stomach is all right again. I have taken off the extra weight and from now on my roadwork won't figure much in my schedule. If I ever had a doubt about being able to get into condition—and I don't say I had—that doubt is gone. I am ready to fight when the time comes and I want my friends to know that I never remember feeling any better than I do right now."

JOHNSON'S BALL GAME
SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—What effect will the enforced exile of the Poppe-Thornas bout to San Francisco have on the big fight?
Fichdom is framing many answers to that question, but the rank and file of the sporting fraternity take a generally hopeful view of the situation and the majority incline to the opinion that the action of the San Mateo county officials in calling a halt on the middleweight contest will exercise no sinister influence on the holding of the big battle at Emeryville.
Jack Johnson's baseball game yesterday afternoon drew a large crowd of spectators. The negro seems to get as much enjoyment out of the national sport as does Jeff, and he has announced that baseball will be part of his daily routine for the remainder of the week.

THE $13,000,000 PALACE

NEW YORK, May 12.—By June 1 former Senator William A. Clark of Montana will formally open his home in New York city, the most expensive private residence in the United States. The fact that a man has built a home and is going to invite a number of friends to inspect its beauties is not very startling, as a rule, but when the house cost a total of $7,000,000 to build and $6,000,000 more was spent in furnishing it then it comes under the head of some house. Ten years ago Mr. Clark planned a New York home, giving the architect full power to turn out a palace among palaces. There has never been a private residence in this country subjected to so much discussion. Faces have been devoted to magazines to finding flaws in the "lines," the towers and the general appearance of the house. It has been called a rich man's folly a thousand times, but Mr. Clark has gone ahead pouring his millions into the home until now his task has reached an end. Mrs. Clark has been spending the majority of her time in Paris, and if the plans of the mining man do not miscarry she will arrive in New York June 1 ready to take an active part in the social world. But here a stumbling block may await the man of millions and his wife, for the inner circles have been quoted as saying they could take no part in launching a woman in social circles with $6,000,000 worth of furniture. "My word," Harry Lehr said one day, "I would be in mortal terror. Think of knocking over a vase that cost $20,000!"

THE WORLD'S WORK

Holds Up the Efforts of Local Priest as Example

The World's Work for May has a story in reference to a young man who in the face of great difficulties became a clergyman and is now located in this city, beloved and honored by all who know his zeal and self sacrifice in the interest of his flock.

Father _____, who is in charge of one of the large Portuguese parishes in New England, came to the United States as an immigrant from the Azores. He was the youngest of seven children, and his mother and father could not read or write. The family was so poor during the years when the children were young that many a time the father would walk several miles for a basket of corn to feed his hungry boys and girls. Like the majority of Azores Islanders, his little piece of land was not sufficient to support his one ox and few sheep throughout the year, and in the summer time he would become a sailor to earn enough to piece out the winter's supply of food and fuel. Yet the mother's ambition was to educate her children, though she saw them, one by one, forced to go to work as they grew large enough to be useful in the fields. At length only two were left, and these she insisted should be sent to school. The family was so sorely pressed even at that time that the little boys were without shoes in the rainy season, and the youngest child got chilblains from exposure and could no longer walk to school. Then the mother would carry him to and from school in her arms, and he has told me that over and over again she would comfort him with the promise: "You shall learn to read and write. You will grow up to be a priest." No greater honor can come to a peasant family than to have an educated son in the priesthood.

The boy caught her enthusiasm. He went to the village priest and begged to be taught more things than the schoolmaster knew. "The clergyman saw an apt pupil in him, and in due time fitted him for the seminary. The young man worked diligently there and, cultivating a natural talent for music, was soon able to maintain himself. In due season this youngest son became a priest. His brothers had all slipped away, one by one, in the Land of Opportunity that Columbus had discovered after the Azores were settled. So he came, too, following the trail to one of the New England cities, where he gathered a hundred scattered families of his own people and organized a parish. Their first house of worship was an old wooden Primitive Methodist meeting house. Now, within less than ten years, the little priest has built the first story of what will be an imposing church of granite or marble. For his parish has grown to 2000 souls. His ambition is to rear a structure in marble.

He has built for himself a beautiful colonial residence, the working plans of which were sketched by himself and later worked out by an architect. He wanted it to be typical of New England, within as well as without; only he has laid out the spacious grounds in the rear with gardens in which grow Azores island flowers and vegetables—and he keeps goats in memory of his youth.

What is the significance of all this? The future of these foreign colonies that are growing up among us depends largely upon the loyalty of the priests in charge of them. This Portuguese priest claims our attention because he is the son of that woman in the Azores, still unable to read or write, who was ambitious for her family and wanted them to succeed. It was she who gave him his inspiration, and who sent him forth as a good immigrant, bound for our shores.

The little parish that he gathered together in the wooden meeting house was a parish of poverty but of hopes. He has been pointing the way steadily, not only to material prosperity but to intellectual development and intelligent citizenship. He preaches not only the love of God, but the love of the new land; and he teaches his people to make friends with the Americans, and copy their ways. He himself sets the example by making his fellowship among Catholics and Protestants alike.

COMET WAS HIDDEN
CAMBRIDGE, May 12.—When the Harvard observatory astronomers set their alarm clocks last night the stars were sparkling and the moon hung like a crescent of promise for good comet weather later in the night, but when the bells rang out at 2 a. m. the morning mists completely hid the celestial visitor.
It has been four days now since the Harvard astronomers have had a peep at Halley's fiery courier of the solar system and only a couple of mornings remain for successful observation.
The Harvard observers refused to commit themselves to any theory regarding the makeup of the comet or the possibilities of a collision between the earth and what is known as the tail. They confine themselves to such facts as their own eyes and those of their delicate photographic plates reveal.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT

Spoke at Berlin University on "The World Movement"

BERLIN, May 12.—Mr. Roosevelt found his voice much improved when he rose this morning and said that he felt perfectly able to deliver his address as planned at the University of Berlin. Until this morning there was doubt whether the former president would be able to keep his engagement and when it became known that he expected to do so there was much elation among the university officials and others who had anticipated the address with eagerness.

Word that Mr. Roosevelt would be heard was communicated swiftly throughout the city this forenoon and when at the hour appointed he reached the university the historic Aula was occupied by a distinguished company. Emperor William was present. The former president received a gratifying reception. The subject of the address was "The world movement."

Mr. Roosevelt said that the German emperor had often been held up by him as a statesman who was doing things which he, the speaker, should do. "I remember," he said, "that my friend Dr. Fitchett, then president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, at Boston, told me of the emperor's interest in and knowledge of technical education. While in Africa I used to think that there was something wrong with the mail if it did not bring a letter from Benjamin Ide Wheeler telling me of his admiration for some feature of German life and of the emperor's extraordinary qualities and kindness."

Mr. Roosevelt referred to the fact that his own family was of Low Dutch extraction and to the indebtedness beginning with Colonial days of the United States to Germany in blood, ideas and achievements.

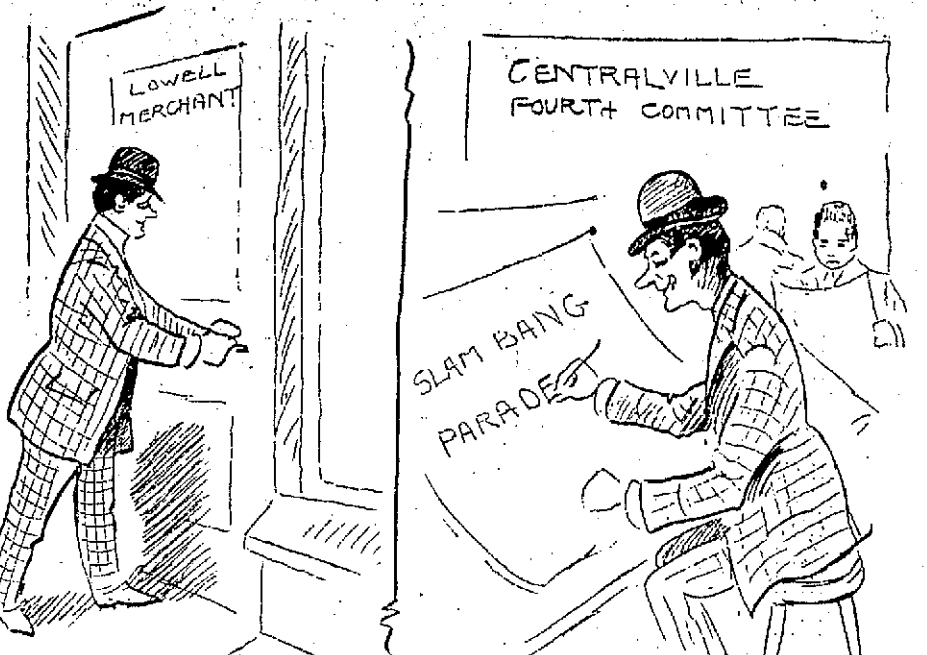

During another diversion from his set speech and following his remarks concerning military virtues the former president said:

"I saw some of your German troops march before the commander in chief yesterday. I cannot understand how any German could look upon those soldiers without feeling pride at the physical and intellectual character of those soldiers from the farm and shop; serving their time and then returning to their work to be replaced by other and younger men. I can see only hope for the future with such men. I would like to speak of the men of the American Civil War if I had the time and the voice."

Roosevelt's Address

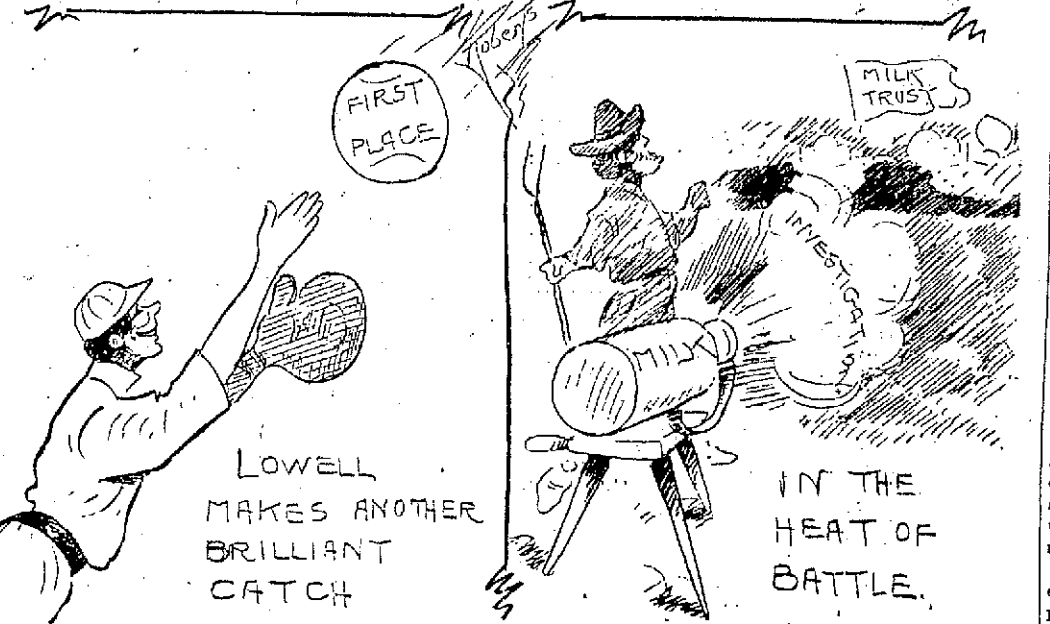

"The play of new forces is as evident in the moral and spiritual world as in the world of the mind and body. Forces for good and forces for evil are everywhere evident, each acting with hundred or a thousand fold the intensity with which it acted in former ages. Over the whole earth the swing of the pendulum grows more and more rapid, the mainspring coils and spreads at a rate constantly quickening. The whole world movement is of constantly accelerating velocity."

"In this movement there are signs of much that bodes ill. The machinery is so highly geared, the tension and strain are so great, the effort and the output have alike so increased, that there is cause to dread the ruin that would have come from any great accident, from any breakdown, and also the ruin that may come from the mere wearing out of the machine itself. The only previous civilization with which our modern civilization can be in any way compared is that period of Graeco-Roman civilization extending, say, from the Athens of Themistocles to the Rome of Marcus Aurelius. Many of the forces and tendencies which were then at work are at work now. Knowledge, luxury, and refinement, wide material conquests, territorial administration on a vast scale, an increase in the mastery of mechanical appliances and in applied science—all these mark our civilization as they marked the wonderful civilization that flourished in the Mediterranean lands twenty centuries ago; and they preceded the downfall of the older civilization. When the differences are many, and some of them are quite as striking as the similarities. The single fact that the old civilization was based upon slavery shows the chasm that separates the two. Let me point out the further development of the two civilizations, a difference so obvious that it is astonishing that it has not been dwelt upon by men of letters.

"One of the prime dangers of civilization has always been its tendency to cause the loss of the fighting virtues of the fighting edge. When men get too comfortable and lead too luxurious lives there is always danger less the softness eat like an acid into their manliness of fiber. The barbarian, because of the very conditions of his life, is forced to keep and develop certain hardy qualities which the man of civilization tends to lose, whether he be clerk, factory hand, merchant, or even a certain type of farmer. Now I will not assert that in modern civilized society these tendencies have been wholly overcome; but there has been a much more successful effort to overcome them than was the case in the early civilizations.

"What is the lesson to us today? Are we to go the way of the older civilizations? The immense increase in the range of civilized activity today, so that it is nearly continuous with the world's surface; the immense increase in the multitudinous variety of its activities; the immense increase in the velocity of the world movement—are all these to mean merely that the crash will be all the more complete and terrible that the answer will be in the negative; but of this we can be certain, that we shall not go down in ruin unless we deserve and earn our end. There is no necessity for us to fall; we can hew out our destiny for ourselves, if only we have the wit and the courage and the honesty.

"Personally, I do not believe that our civilization will fall. I think that on the whole we have grown better and not worse. I think that on the whole the future holds more for us than even the great past has held. But, assuredly, the dreams of golden glory in the future will not come true unless, high over and strong of hand, by our true, we cannot afford to develop any one set of qualities, any one set of activities, at the cost of seeing others, equally necessary, atrophied. Neither the military efficiency of the Mongol, the extraordinary business ability of the Phoenician, nor the subtle and practical intellect of the Greek availed to avert destruction.

"We, the men of today and of the future, need many qualities if we are to do our work well. We need, first of all and most important of all, the qualities which stand at the base of individual, of family life, the founda-mental and essential qualities—the homely, every-day, all-important virtues. If the average man will not work, if he had not in him the will and the power to be a good husband and father; if the average woman is not a good housewife, a good mother of many healthy children, then the state will topple, will go down, no matter what may be its brilliance of artistic development or material achievement. But these homely qualities are not enough. There must, in addition, be that power of organization, that power of working in common for a common end, which the German people have shown in such signal fashion during the last half century. Moreover, the things of the spirit are even more important than the things of the body. We can well do without the hard intolerance and arid intellectual barrenness of what was worst in the theological systems of the past, but there has never been greater need of a high and fine religious spirit than at the present time. So, while we can laugh good-humoredly at some of the pretensions of modern philosophy in its various branches, it would be worse than folly on our part to ignore our need of intellectual leadership. Your own great Frederick once said that if he wished to punish a province he would leave it to be governed by philosophers; the sneer had in it an element of justice; and yet no one better than the great Frederick knew the value of philosophers, the value of men of letters, men of art. It would be a bad thing indeed to accept Tolstoi as a guide in social and moral matters; but it would also be a bad thing not to have Tolstoi, not to profit by the lofty side of his teachings. There are plenty of scientific men whose hard arrogance, whose cynical derision put them on a level with the bigoted medieval ecclesiasticalism which they denounce. Yet our debt to scientific men is incalculable, and our civilization of today would have reft from it all that which most highly distinguishes it if the work of the great masters of science during the past four centuries were now unknown or forgotten. Never has philanthropy, humanitarianism, seen such development as now; and though we must all beware of the folly, and the viciousness of the man who, when his heart is filled with the glow of conscience, yet we must remember also that it is only by working along the lines laid down by the philanthropists, by the lovers of mankind, that we can be sure of lifting our civilization to a higher and more permanent plane of well-being than has ever attained by any preceding civilization. Unjust war is to be abhorred; but was to the nation that does not make ready to hold its own in time of need against all who would harm it, and was to the man who loses the fighting edge, loses the power to serve as a soldier if the day of need should arise.

"It is no impossible dream to build up a civilization in which morality, ethical development, and a true feeling of brotherhood shall all alike be divorced from false sentimentality and from the rancorous and evil passions which, curiously enough, so often accompany professions of sentimentalism. In which a high material development in the things of the body shall be achieved without subordination of the things of the soul; in which there shall be a genuine desire for peace and justice without loss of those virile qualities without which no love of peace or justice shall avail any race; in which the fullest development of scientific research, the great distinguishing feature of our present civilization, shall yet not imply a belief that intellect can ever take the place of character—for, from the standpoint of the nation as of the individual, it is character that is the one vital possession."

"Finally, this world movement of civilization, this movement which is now felt throbbing in every corner of the globe, should bind the nations of the world together while yet leaving unimpaired that love of country in the individual citizen which in the present stage of the world's progress is essential to the world's well being. You, my hearers, and I who speak to you, belong to different nations. Under modern conditions the books we read, the news sent by telegraph to our newspapers, the strangers we meet, half of the things we hear and do each day, all tend to bring us into touch with other peoples. Each people can do justice to itself only if it does justice to others; but each people can do its part in the world movement for all only if it first does its duty within its own household. The good citizen must be a good citizen of his own country first before he can with advantage be a citizen of the world at large. I wish you well. I believe in you and your future. I admire and wonder at the extraordinary greatness and variety of your achievements in so many and such widely different fields; and my admiration and regard are all the greater, and not the less, because I am so profound a believer in the institutions and the people of my own land."

JAIL SENTENCES

For Defendant In Liquor Cases

AUGUSTA, Me., May 12.—Five jail sentences for liquor selling and the requirement of bonds of $1000 in two instances to keep the peace comprised the work of Judge Maher in the municipal court yesterday.

Owen Dow and Paul Larrabee were each convicted on the charge of illegal possession and each fined $100 and costs and each given 60 days in jail and in default of the payment of the fine 60 days additional.

The state claimed that Charles E. Sturgis was the owner of liquor seized from the men named above and he was convicted of illegal possession and fined $100 and costs and given 60 days in jail.

Dow was ordered to give a bond of $1000 to keep the peace.

Arthur Cormier and Edgar Delhaire, on an illegal possession charge, were each fined $100 and costs and each given 60 days in jail. Cormier was ordered to give a bond of $1000 to keep the peace.

ordered to give bail in the sum of $1000 to keep the peace.

All appealed and will appear at the September session of the superior court.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION.
BOSTON, May 12.—Speakers of international reputation addressed the annual meeting of the Boston district of the Massachusetts Sunday School association held in Tremont temple today. Among those who delivered addresses were Rev. F. B. Meyer of London widely known as a preacher, author and lecturer, Rev. Richard Roberts, also a celebrated London minister and Marlon Lawrence of Congo. Rev. Mr. Meyer is president of the world's Sunday School association and Mr. Lawrence is general secretary of the International Sunday School association. All three men recently completed a tour of the world in the interest of the world's sixth Sunday school convention to be held in Washington May 24. Bishop Hartzel of Africa and Dr. Bailey of Philadelphia, chairman of the world's association committee who accompanied them during part of the tour, were unable to be presented to the convention today.

WOMEN DROWNED

Steamer Struck a Rock South of St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, May 12.—Two women were drowned and eleven others who are missing are believed to have lost their lives when the steamer City of Saltillo struck a rock and foundered in reach of shore at Glen Park, 24 miles south of St. Louis, last night.

The dead: MISS ANNA RHEA, Nashville, Tenn. MRS. ISAAC RHEA, Nashville, Tenn., recovered.

The missing and believed dead: S. C. Baker, first clerk of the steamer.

Mrs. Joseph Harris, Nashville. Mrs. Archie Patterson, Chester, Ill. Archie Patterson, Jr., two years old. W. J. Pickett, salesman, St. Louis. Fowler Post, third clerk. Miss Lena Wall, Nashville. Head porter.

Cabin boy. Two roustabouts, names unknown.

Captain Harry Crane, in command of the boat, after checking up the passenger list today, said that it was almost certain those reported missing were dead. The boat carried 27 passengers, mostly women and children, and a crew of thirty. She left St. Louis at seven o'clock with a heavy cargo, including cattle and livestock, and the voyage was considered precarious because of the great amount of driftwood floating in the river. Of the two known dead one was the wife and the other the daughter of Isaac T. Rhea, president of the St. Louis & Tennessee River Packet Co., owners of the boat. Mrs. Rhea was dragged from the water alive, but died within an hour. The body of Miss Anna Rhea has not been recovered. Miss Louise Rhea, another daughter, escaped.

They were en route to their home in Nashville after visiting friends in St. Louis.

When the vessel struck the rock and sank in twenty feet of water, the greatest confusion prevailed. The noise of rending timbers, shrieks of women and children and the bellowing of cattle mingled with the cries of the crew. Passengers and members of the crew clung to the timbers while those more fortunate helped to rescue the women and children. The rescued were taken to the Glenco company's boarding house.

The City of Saltillo at the time of the accident was bound for Waterloo, Ala. on the Tennessee river.

FUNERALS

WHEELER—The funeral of Abel Wheeler took place yesterday afternoon from his late residence, 99 Harvard street. The services were conducted by Rev. Ransom A. FUNNY MISTAKE

Woman Takes Colored Baby Instead of Hers

There was excitement galore in Merrimack street, partially as the result of the sale at A. G. Pollard's, though this is no ad for the sale, and Officer Phil Murphy, the athletic guardian of the peace of that locality, had an experience more thrilling than all of his stunts as a catcher of runaway horses and over speedy automobiles.

Here's how it happened:

During the forenoon a white woman pushing a baby carriage containing a cute looking baby wheeled along to Pollard's big show window and came to a full stop. Carefully steering the carriage close up to the big brass rail in front of the window she handed the youngster a bottle that showed no evidence of a milk war and with a "go as far as you like" expression of countenance as she handed over the baby's delight, turned around and went into the store.

A few minutes afterward out comes the uniformed genius of the A. G. Pollard Co., whose duties are to shine up the brass rail from the opening of the closing thereof. At this time the kiddo had one chubby hand on the bottle while the other was doing some decorative work on the carefully polished brass of the rail.

"Here, kid," cried the shining genius, "here's a new bottle for you, er as he saw his work of a few minutes before being turned to naught and he made a lunge for the handles of the carriage and wheeled it down street about 50 feet leaving it beside the lower window. After giving an extra touch to the rail he disappeared within the store.

He had disappeared but a moment when along comes a colored woman wheeling a carriage quite similar in appearance to the other carriage, but containing a cute little pickaninny and, leaving her carriage exactly where the white woman had left hers, she too entered the store to get in the marvelous bargains as previously announced in the columns of The Sun.

A few moments later out comes the white woman in a rush and grabbing the handles of the colored woman's baby carriage, she started down Merrimack street at record pace. Along the way she noticed that everyone was looking at her carriage and then at her and she began to think that something was wrong. She had reached Macartney's store when she noticed something peculiar about the appearance of the high back of the vehicle and then she saw a shriek that startled everyone within a block.

"My baby! Someone has stolen my baby!" she cried, and turning the carriage around she started back at a speed that had the auto limit beaten a mile.

Everyone had to get out of the way for woman, carriage and baby were going like a cannon ball express while the kid was having the ride of his life.

Just then Officer Murphy happened along and if he hadn't done a side step that would have done credit to Jimmie Gardner he would have been under the relentless wheels of the vehicle.

"Officer," the woman cried "some one stole my poor little dear while I was in Pollard's and left me this colored baby!"

Back to Pollard's they went and there they beheld the white baby taking "short ones" out of the remainder of the bottle, while a colored woman who was seven shades paler than her usual color was trying to explain to the bystanders that she had lost something.

Officer Murphy who is a born diplomat explained the mistake to the satisfaction of both parties and everyone went away happy.

CONDITIONS SHOCKING

In the Steel Industries, Says Commissioner Neill

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The conditions of labor existing at the Bethlehem Steel Works, at South Bethlehem, Pa., as set forth in the report of the bureau of labor, recently sent to congress, are more or less common throughout the entire steel industry, according to a statement issued yesterday by Dr. Charles P. Neill, commissioner of labor. He referred to the conditions in the blast furnaces as shocking.

This announcement was brought forth by a protest made Tuesday by President Charles M. Schwab of the Bethlehem Steel Co., regarding the report. Mr. Schwab complained that the summary was unfair to his company. Commissioner Neill in his statement sustains Mr. Schwab's contention, that most of the skilled workmen of the Bethlehem plant had a Saturday half holiday and that "it is true that in some departments work for the entire seven days of the week, month in and month out, has been the practice throughout the entire steel industry."

Continuing, Dr. Neill said: "The annual reports of the bureau of labor on wages and hours show that in the blast furnaces, for example, 34 hours a week has been the regular working time in every section of the country; this means practically a 12 hour day every day in the week. In cases where the day shift and the night shift periodically exchange every week or second week, one shift works six days of 12 hours one week, while the other shift works six days of 12 hours and on the seventh day remains on duty continuously for 24 hours in order to effect the exchange."

"Those are conditions of labor which may well be termed shocking, but they are not confined to the Bethlehem Steel Works."

Mr. Neill added that blast furnace work was necessarily a continuous process and that three shifts of eight hours each offered the only plan of relief.

The recent public discussion on the subject, the commissioner added, has brought about a lessening of Sunday labor. In this connection the commissioner continued:

"It might be added that since the beginning of the investigation into the conditions at the Bethlehem plant, sympathetic orders have been issued by the United States Steel corporation to reduce Sunday work to the minimum."

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

16,828

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilotte, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1910. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

THE LOBSTER DISAPPEARING

The lobster seems to be growing scarce around the shores of Massachusetts. The legislature has asked the fish and game commission for an explanation. The present supply comes chiefly from Maine and Nova Scotia, so that it is necessary to ascertain the cause in order that a remedy may be provided. It is suspected that the lobster may be the prey of some other fish, such as the dog fish, while it is believed that much of the trouble arises from fishermen destroying the young in violation of law.

FOR PUBLIC BATHS.

The city of Somerville has appealed to the legislature for permission to borrow $25,000 to establish a system of public baths. Somerville is so near to the beaches and to Boston that it does not need public baths nearly so much as does a factory city like Lowell. We presume Lowell must wait for a considerable time before she can hope for such a "luxury." We say luxury because baths would be so regarded at the present time although in reality a system of public baths is not a luxury but an actual necessity in every factory city.

ANTIQUATED TENEMENTS AND FIRE TRAP BLOCKS.

Those who own antiquated tenement property may as well remodel it so as to meet present day requirements or else pull it down altogether. We have a lot of old rookeries in this city—they are to be found in every city—many of which should be condemned by the building inspector and pulled down.

We have also many large tenement blocks, some of which are ingeniously designed as fire traps. They are three or four stories high and so numerous they are occupied that if a fire ever started in them in the night time nothing but a miracle or the heroism of the firemen could ever save the occupants.

We have too many such buildings right in the heart of the city. Inspector Dow of the building department has condemned a few of the old eye sores, and it is to be hoped that he will exercise his authority to put more of them out of existence.

The working people very wisely avoid tenements that have a water closet in the basement with perhaps very poor sanitary arrangements.

When this very old and dilapidated tenement property shall have been either remodeled or cleared away, we may have more sanitary homes and a more healthful city.

DEMONSTRATIONS OF LOYALTY TO THE BRITISH MONARCHY.

The message sent out by the Queen Mother to the people of the nation is very touching and pathetic. She expresses her deepest gratitude to all classes for their sympathy and appeals to the people for remembrance in their prayers during her present affliction while at the same time commending to them her son, the new king, and expressing the belief that he will be as devoted to the interests of the whole people as was his beloved father. There is no doubt whatever that the death of King Edward has caused the deepest sympathy and sorrow among all classes of people throughout the United Kingdom. It seems to have inspired new loyalty to the throne and made it stronger if possible than ever before.

If any doubts were entertained as to the loyalty of the British people to monarchy, those doubts will be dispelled by the demonstrations of sorrow on the death of King Edward and of sympathy for the new king and his devoted queen. There have been strong expressions of sympathy and loyalty from unexpected sources since the death of King Edward. Even Mr. Crookes, the socialist leader, expressed the loyalty of himself and followers when he said: "We like to feel that he (the king) is above us all and to look up to him." This was unexpected from an organization that believes in individual equality and one that is particularly opposed to monarchy in any form. It would seem that in England the socialists exempt the king from their leveling process.

There was still another example of this sympathy that was rather surprising, coming as it did from the leader of the Laborites, Mr. Snowden. It was supposed that there had been a growing spirit among the working classes against monarchy and in favor of a republic, but according to Mr. Snowden's statement at the present time, there is no such feeling, for he says: "We are a democratic party, not republicans," and he adds: "No member of the labor party attacks the monarch."

That expression seems to be conclusive in regard to the attitude of the labor party and its loyalty to the throne. Nor is there any great reason why it should be otherwise so far as the English people are concerned. The British government is absolutely subject to the will of the people except so far as the popular will is thwarted by the House of Lords. Before the king's death it was hoped that in a short time this power of obstructing popular legislation would soon be wiped out. By some this reformation of the upper house with the curtailment of its powers is regarded as an attack upon the monarchy. In reality it is nothing of the kind. On the contrary it will rather strengthen the monarchy to have the House of Lords brought absolutely into subjection to the people. That is what will result if the veto power of the lords be nullified so that the peers can no longer defeat popular measures of legislation.

The new king has already made a good impression with the country and in advising the people not to let the mourning for the dead king interfere with their business or their amusements, he has shown such a regard for the interest of all classes that his message has been very highly appreciated. It shows a tendency on his part to consider the interests of the people as well as the interests of royalty, and that is the unselfish spirit that pleases the democracy of the country and that will insure its loyal support. The general belief at the present time is that King George will soon ingratiate himself with the people so that he will be fully as popular as was his father.

SEEN AND HEARD

Any one can carry his burden, however heavy, till nightfall. Any one can do his work, however hard, for one day. Any one can live sweetly, lovingly, purely, till the sun goes down. And this is all that life really means.—Emerson.

"Away, away from the dusty town, In the depths of the woodlands your grief to drown; From the bitter strife, Where the world is rife With song and bloom, and the breath of life!"

Let the very humblest man know that he may one day have it in his power to help the very strongest man he has ever known.—Joseph Parker.

"Look for goodness; look for sadness, You will find them all the while; If you bring a smiling visage To the glass, you find a smile. Do not look for wrong and evil, You will find them if you do; As you measure for your neighbor, He will measure back to you."

"Shirking responsibility is playing truant from the school of experience."

"When you get into a cloud, don't imagine that the sun has gone out of existence. Just do something to get out of the cloud."

Fire, sugar, whips, and words, both hard and soft, have been advocated from time to time as the proper thing to make a balky horse change his mind, but none of them seems to be effective in such cases. But here is a brand new one introduced on Fletcher street by a Hallow collection and called of rags and junk. At least a hundred people will testify that it is the most effective system.

A dignified sort of a horse came up Fletcher street a few days ago with a deliberate tread, while its owner dozed contentedly on the seat of the wagon. The horse came to an abrupt stop near Liberty Square and refused to go any farther. Immediately the driver jumped down from the seat and stepped in a doorway. A minute passed and a policeman walked across the street and said to the man:

"What do you mean by leaving that horse in the street that way?"

"He's balky," answered the driver.

"Well, then, why don't you try to make him go? Why don't you do something?"

The old peddler smiled patiently.

"That's the only way to make him go," he said "Just let him alone."

CONQUER OR DIE

"Tired? Well, what of that? Didst fancy life was spent on beds or ease? Fluttering the rose-leaves scattered by the breeze? Come, rouse thee! work while it is called day! Coward, arise! go forth upon thy way."

"Lonely? and what of that? Some must be lonely; 'tis not given to all. To feel a heart responsive rise and fall. To hold another life into its own? Work may be done in loneliness. Work on!"

"Dark? Well, and what of that? Didst fondly dream the sun would never set? Dost fear to lose thy way? Take courage yet! Learn then to walk by faith, and not thy steps will guided be, and guided right."

"Hard? Well, what of that? Didst fancy life one summer holiday. With lessons none to learn, and naught to go, but ease to task? Conquer or die! It must be learned; learn it, then, patiently."

When he bulks I get off the wagon and stand where he can't see me. If I stay on the seat or stand where he can get a glimpse of me, he won't go. He'll be starting in a minute or so.

Before the policeman had time to answer, the horse gazed cautiously about him and then started slowly along. "See," said the peddler, "he's going all right now," and he climbed over the back of the wagon and got on the seat.

A Sunday school teacher tells the story of the result of an attempted application of the principles of economics.

For some time she had endeavored to impress upon the mind of one of her scholars, the names of the three qualities, faith, hope, and charity. One Sunday she presented the pupil of the poor memory with three new shining coins, a penny, a five-cent piece and a dime.

"The penny," she said, "represents faith, the five-cent piece, hope, and the dime charity. Keep these coins and every time you look at them think of what they stand for."

The Sunday following the teacher reviewed the lesson of the week before and called upon the holder of the coins to produce them and give their names in proper rotation. The youngster shuffled from one leg to the other, stammered, blushed and seemed overcome with mortification. Finally he burst out with:

"Please, Miss Ethel, I ain't got nuthin' left but faith. Baby swallered hope, and mama took charity and bought in the world's fair a meat ter make hamburg steak out uv."

81 FIRMS SIGN

Agreement to Close on Thursday Afternoons

The retail clerks of the different stores of the city combined business and pleasure at Prescott hall, last evening, and after transacting business of importance they danced until midnight. The principal business was the discussion of the report of the special committee appointed at the previous meeting to confer with the merchants in regard to the Thursday afternoon closing.

The committee made report that 81 firms had agreed to close Thursday afternoons during the summer.

A vote of thanks was tendered the merchants for their prompt and general response to the request of the clerks.

The meeting also recommended that a committee be appointed to formulate plans for a clerks' protective association. After some discussion both these recommendations were unanimously adopted.

After the business meeting dancing was enjoyed until 12 o'clock. Another meeting will be held in the near future.

JOHN MARSH FARM

Brought $9100 at Public Auction Yesterday

Prospective purchasers came from miles around to the sale of the John H. Marsh farm at Pelham, N. H., yesterday afternoon. The sale was under the direction of C. H. Hanson & Co. and Mr. James S. Hanson, auctioneers.

J. D. Raymond of South Sudbury, Mass., was the purchaser and the price paid was $9100. The bidding was confined to three men, J. D. Raymond, the purchaser, S. W. Lane of Lynn, Mass., and Mr. Parker of the New England house of Boston. Bidding started at $5000 and was raised in bids of $1000 and $500, until knocked down to Mr. Raymond.

The farm is one of the largest in the town and the buildings in size and situation are not equalled for miles around. But one other barn in the state of New Hampshire it is said, is larger than the John H. Marsh barn, and the house is an imposing structure of 28 rooms, well set back from the street. There are 300 acres of land.

Mr. Raymond for several years has conducted a high grade milk farm at South Sudbury. He is a Harvard graduate and believes in farming on scientific principles. He stated yesterday that he finds conditions for his liking here and he will establish a farm in Pelham such as he conducted in South Sudbury.

The sale started promptly at 12.30 and was concluded at $15, about 400 lots of furniture and farming implements, carts, cows, pigs, hens, etc., being disposed of. Included in the furnishings of the house were many articles in antique ware. These were eagerly snapped up by those in the crowd who knew their value.

The sale as a whole netted good prices. The system of handling the various lots was good and little time was lost between bids. The purchaser of the farm will take possession some time in June.

LOCAL ARMENIANS

WILL HOLD NATIONAL CHURCH SERVICE NEXT SUNDAY

The local Armenians of the National Church will hold their first service in St. John's Episcopal church, next Sunday afternoon, when a mass will be celebrated by Rev. S. Tashjian of Boston. After the mass a baptismal service will be held. The service will be the first time that the complete ritual of the church has ever been used in this city.

CHELMSFORD

A supper and entertainment under the direction of the Ladies' Benevolent society was held in the Congregational vestry last evening. A Peddler's Parade supper began at 6.30, several of the boys acting as distributors of the sandwiches, fancy cakes, etc., later serving ice cream and coffee.

The entertainment included piano solos by Mrs. A. E. Barton, readings by Mrs. Isabelle Lovejoy, contralto solos by Miss Alice Stearns, and several selections upon the phonograph by Mr. A. G. Charles.

Those in charge were Miss Lillian Kilbourne, Miss Annie B. Bostick, Mrs. F. A. Lane, Mrs. E. T. Adams, Mrs. W. A. Mitchell.

OFFICERS CHOSEN

Chelmsford St. Church

The second and last day of the 28th annual meeting of the Massachusetts Association of Free Baptist Churches is being held at the Chelmsford Street Free Baptist church. Today's session opened with an experience meeting at 9:30, led by Rev. Walter Malvern of Melrose. Reports of committees were heard at 10:30, and there was a sermon at 11 o'clock by Rev. G. Bolster of Somerville. Dinner was served at 12:15.

In the afternoon there was a meeting of the Massachusetts Free Baptist Young People's society. Rev. Walter J. Malvern presided. There was a devotional service at 1:30, and at 2 o'clock business and reports held the boards. The rest of the afternoon was given over to music and addresses. At 4 o'clock there was prayer and consecration service.

Officers Elected

President, Rev. Charles E. McColly of Lawrence.

Vice president, Rev. J. C. Wilson of Lowell.

Executive board, for three years, Rev. C. B. McColly of Lawrence, Mrs. Emily A. Page of Haverhill.

Delegates to general conference, Rev. Myra C. Hoyt of Brockton (alternate), Mrs. J. E. Doe of Somerville, Rev. W. J. Twort of Haverhill (alternate), C. A.

Baton of Boston), Rev. W. W. Harris of Chelsea (alternate, J. L. Pugsley of Melrose).

The messengers were received, with their messages of greeting, from the Maine, Vermont and Rhode Island associations.

A workers' conference followed, when the following questions were discussed: "The Reason Why Young Men Should Enter the Ministry," Rev. Myra C. Hoyt, who is the only woman minister in the Massachusetts Free Baptist conference, said that the reason why young men should enter the ministry seemed much the same to her as the reasons why anyone should enter the ministry. No one should enter unless called.

"Why Men Should Work for Men" was discussed by Mr. Paul of Boston. Mrs. Frances S. Mosher of Boston gave some reasons why the church should extend its home mission work. A brief business session of the Woman's Mission society was held, and after supper, which was served in the lower rooms of the church, the evening session was opened with a praise service by Rev. H. Nickerson of Lynn.

The committee on resolutions reported, and the following recommendations were adopted by the conference: That all money collected for missions shall be forwarded to the treasurer of the state association. That the executive committee, in preparing the program for the next session, assign Wednesday evening entirely to a consideration of work for men.

That the clerk be instructed to pay the railroad fares of delegates to the general conference held at Ocean Park, Me., June 13; and also to pay $1 a day for the actual working days of the conference.

A rising vote of appreciation was given the local church, for its entertainment of the conference.

Rev. Horace H. Hayes of the Boston church received the right hand of fellowship from the conference through Rev. W. W. Malvern of Melrose.

Rev. Charles E. McColly gave an address on "Men's Work for Men." He held that the church is being "feminized" to a great extent. Men owe their duty to the church, he said, the same as to the state. All over the land we hear the cry, "Where are the men?" When a minister has to announce, as one did recently, "The janitor and I will hold the usual Friday night prayer meeting," something needs to be done. We have been putting the greatest burden of our societies on the shoulders of the women, and the burden is becoming almost unbearable. According to the census of 1905, out of 20 million Protestants, 60 per cent are women; and it might be added that 77 per cent of the men who do go to church do nothing but ride on the gospel chariot without even dragging their feet. The only way to solve the boy problem is to get the men into the church and the Sunday school. You cannot expect boys to stay to Sunday school if their fathers will not stay.

The church is being manned by women, and a manless church is the peril of the age. The church is losing her power and her prestige because of this. One reason why young men are not going into the ministry is because they have to preach to women almost entirely. We have got tired of being called ladies' men. Men are talking all over the country, that religion is a woman's business. Instead of letting George do it, they are letting the women do it. The elevation of the church must come into the hearts of men, through men. We want men in the church, and when we get them, we want to give them something to do.

Rev. H. H. Hayes of Boston preached a sermon on "The Promise and Potency of the Church." His text was from Matthew, 16th chapter, 18th and 19th verses.

COMEDY DRAMA

PRESENTED BY THE TOWER CLASS OF P. M. CHURCH

At the Gorham Street P. M. church last night the young men of the "Tower Class" presented the comedy-drama entitled "Strife." The play was given under the direction of Miss Maude M. Mountford and proved a great success.

Messrs. Orrin McKenzie, Kilgore Manning, Tom Baldwin, Guy McQuade, George Higginbottom, E. Sturkey, Walter Matthews, B. Sturkey, John Graham and others assisted in the "mob scene."

Miss Eva Robinson, reader; Mr. N. W. Matthews, Jr., baritone; Mr. Edward Looney, clarinetist; Messrs. Hoffs and Phil, banjo, mandolin and guitar, gave selections during the evening and were enthusiastically received, responding to encores.

Miss Alice Whelan was the accompanist of the evening. The cast: Judge Henry Buttons, a retired judge and wealthy mill owner,

Mr. George Dennett, a gentleman of leisure,

Mr. Richard Campbell,

Henry Hansell, a mechanic,

Mr. Harry Jepson,

Aristotle Thompkins, Horatio Squash, (the judge's most intimate friends),

Mr. Andrew Brown, Mr. A. Chapman,

Hans Von Sandt, his cook,

Mr. Fred Matthews,

Julius and Neb (his servants),

Mr. James Brown, Mr. Wm. Haines,

Policeman, Mr. Orrin Taylor,

Laura Bell, the judge's ward,

Mrs. Hansell, Henry's mother,

Miss Annie Taylor,

Dolly, a maid, Miss Susan Meade,

Mary Harris, Miss Susan Taylor,

Mob, etc., by the company.

THORNDIKE WILLS

Charities Are Likely to Get Millions

BOSTON, May 12.—In the will of Charles Thorndike and his wife, Mary F. Thorndike, of Nahant and Boston, which were probated at Salem yesterday, Harvard University, the Industrial School for Deformed and Crippled Children and the House of the Good Samaritan are named as possible legatees to bequests above several millions at the expiration of the trust. Dr. Augustus Thorndike, the only child, is given $200,000 outright in his father's will, and the residue, together with Mrs. Thorndike's estate, is left in trust, the income to be divided among Dr. Thorndike's five minor children and his father's sister. Twenty years after the death of all named in the trust both estates are to be divided among their issue.

Should the beneficiaries all die without issue Mr. Thorndike's estate is to be shared by the three public beneficiaries mentioned above, and Mrs. Thorndike's estate all goes to the Industrial School for Deformed and Crippled Children.

Mr. Thorndike's estate is estimated at $240,000 and Mrs. Thorndike's estate at $240,000. He died on April 3 of pneumonia and his wife died on the following day from the same disease so that the property disposed of in Mrs. Thorndike's will represents her dower rights in her husband's estate, as she lived a few hours longer.

The Thorndike home at Nos. 481 and 483 Commonwealth avenue is one of the finest in the Back Bay. It is a double house and extends through to Beacon street. Charles Thorndike's legal residence was in Nahant, where he had a summer home.

The chances of Harvard University and the Industrial School for Deformed and Crippled Children are rather good, as Dr. Thorndike is the father of five children, two boys and three girls, whose ages range from 8 to 17 years.

FOUND GUILTY

MAN ACCUSED OF TRYING TO EXTORT MONEY FROM CARUSO

NEW YORK, May 12.—A verdict of guilty was found in the Enrico Caruso "black hand" case in Brooklyn yesterday. The man on trial was Antonio Misiano, one of the men charged with attempting to extort $15,000 from the famous tenor. The jury found Misiano guilty of attempted extortion and he will be sentenced on Monday. Antonio (Cincotto), the other alleged would be blackmailer, will shortly be put on trial on a similar charge.

Caruso testified in the case before sailing Tuesday for Europe.

We've Done It!

BLUE SERGE SUITS AT $15.00

That Means Dollars to You

We've turned a trick on Serge Suits we're rather proud of.

With prices of worsted fabrics soaring in the air, we've put through a deal by which we've bettered our last year's $15 serge—which was a corker.

These are from one of the biggest and finest houses in Rochester—where only the best clothes are made. The fabric is a fine wale, lustrous serge of good weight and the tailoring is of high order.

We'll warrant them fully—color, cloth and making—if a suit fades or pulls out at the seams, we'll take it back. We've laid in a good supply—in regular, short, stout and long sizes—up to 46.

In our experience, we know of no suits to match them at the price.

Come in and see them—if you don't think as we do—don't buy.

You'll get $18.00 in value in every one of them.

BOARD OF TRADE

Secretary's Resignation Accepted With Regret

At the regular meeting of the directors of the board of trade yesterday the resignation of Secretary John A. McKenna was reluctantly accepted with regret. Before accepting the resignation, the directors sought to have Mr. McKenna retain his position for a time at least, but were unsuccessful as Mr. McKenna begins his duties with the Heating Electric company at once.

On motion of Charles H. Coburn, the board expressed its appreciation of the work accomplished by him for the good of the organization and the city by a rising vote, and genuine regret was expressed at his retirement.

Secretary McKenna, in response, stated that the four years of work had been very beneficial to him, and he hoped also to the board of trade. He trusted that the same cordial feeling and co-operation would be extended to the new secretary as had always been the good fortune to enjoy.

The new members admitted included Andrew P. Sackley, Napoleon D. LaFleur, Union National bank, John W. Holgate and B. H. Anderson.

No action was taken toward the election of a secretary, the directors finally postponing action until next Wednesday afternoon at 4:15.

It was announced that the board had become affiliated with the American Civic association, which is dealing with several problems of national importance, one of them being the forestry bills which include the reserve planned for the White mountains.

The work of the executive committee in behalf of a safer and safer observance of July 4th was discussed and approved. The board desires a more dignified program than one confined to mere noise and danger.

Daniel F. Carroll, chairman of the committee on factory locations, reported that a number of concerns had been in communication with the committee and that there is good prospect of a large company from Lynn locating here, employing 1000 hands. The Lowell Institution for Savings owns some land and it was believed that this bank would go the limit in providing suitable factory facilities for the new concern. The negotiations had proceeded far enough, Mr. Carroll thought, to indicate that it is reasonably certain that the new company would come here.

For the committee on new streets Robert F. Marden reported that the committee was planning to hold a meeting with residents of the Andover street section with a view to interesting them in the plan for a definite street plan for that vicinity as it develops. He read the law which was passed by the legislature in 1909, dealing with the requirements for Boston, and said that the committee planned to secure some such law for Lowell. The law reads as follows:

"After the passage of this act no person or corporation shall prepare or open for public travel in the city of Boston any way, unless its location, direction, width and grades are satisfactory to and have been approved in writing by said board of street commissioners."

Supt. of Streets Nayvelt F. Putnam was added to the committee. After a short discussion, resolutions were adopted identical with those already adopted by a number of other boards of trade of New England, inviting the International Convention of Chambers of Commerce and Industrial associations to meet in Boston in 1912. This year's meeting is to be held June 21 to 23 in London and an effort is to be made to bring the world convention to the United States and Boston in 1912.

A MOTHER'S SACRED DUTY

Her Noblest Work is to Safeguard the Health of Her Children.

Women are taught to sew, cook, make their own clothes, they are even given some knowledge of how to preserve their health and good looks.

But how many mothers have been educated to know the signs of the different diseases of children?

When their children have little sick spells how many mothers can tell what ails them?

For example, it is a fact that about three out of every four sick children are sick because they have worms in their stomach or bowels. Not many mothers know that, but it is a fact just the same.

Here is a valuable hint for all mothers when children are sick: "Think of worms first." It is the most frequent cause of ailments in children.

Here are some of the signs by which you can tell that your child has worms: Offensive breath, choking and swallowing during sleep, starting and growling in sleep, constant thirst, cross and peevish, either a greedy constant desire for food or very poor and finicky appetite, and also vomiting after eating.

Your child having worms should receive treatment at once. Save it from needless suffering by instant action on your part.

Don't let 25 cents in money stand between you and the health of your child. Go at once to a good drug store and with 25 cents purchase a package of Fossenden's Worm Expeller. It will be worth many times its cost in restoring your child by restoring your little one to rosy cheeks, happy health, but it will only cost you the small sum of 25 cents. In these days when doctors' bills are so high and the cost of everything is way up it is a blessing to be able to buy this child's life saving remedy for so small a sum as 25 cents, when it is really worth its weight in gold as a life savor for children. Remember the name, "Fossenden's Worm Expeller"—get it and start using it at once.

A Mystery Solved

Eczema Not a Blood Disease—New Remedy for Every Skin Trouble

For years the medical profession has been seeking a cure for Eczema, the most common and most stubborn of skin diseases. Some said it was a blood disease; some said it was the result of indigestion. It remained for one of our chemists to settle beyond any question that Eczema in all its forms is a skin disease and related in no way to the condition of the blood. This same chemist experimented with many antiseptic, healing and soothing agents, but it was not until he formed the compound Cadum that he at last realized he had given to the world something that would bring relief or cure to millions of sufferers. Cadum ranks today with the great discoveries of the medical world. Its action is so positive that the itching of Eczema is stopped immediately. People who have itched and scratched for years find sleep and rest as soon as Cadum is used, and in ordinary cases a complete restoration of the skin to a healthy condition is reached in two or three weeks. The soothing, healing effects of Cadum are almost instantaneous. Cadum is sold at all druggists. Trial box 10c; large box 25c. The small box is sufficient for trial purposes, and may be used not only for Eczema, but in all its forms, but also for hives, pimples, blotches, tetter, itch, acne, herpes, scaly skin, rash, psoriasis, ringworm, chafings, eruptions, sores, scabs, itching, piles, scurvy, etc.

proclaimed dictator and commander-in-chief. Covered with wounds he fell into the hands of his enemies and was restored to liberty by the Emperor Paul, two years later.

Alexander, in 1814, refused to grant an amnesty to Poles in foreign lands and to make Kosciuszko constitutional king of Poland, and for the remainder of his life he lay aside his sword and lived the peaceful life of a farmer in France, until he was killed when his horse plunged over a precipice. The Emperor Alexander later moved his body to Cracow and had it laid beside John Sobieski.

MURDER TRIAL

Two Judges to Sit on Bench

BOSTON, May 12.—Judges Crosby and Dana of the superior court have been assigned to preside at the trial of Mrs. Elizabeth Richmond, charged with the murder of Stewart McTavish, which will be held at East Cambridge. The murder of Stewart McTavish, which occurred at hotel Florence, 135 Cambridge street, East Cambridge, supposedly on the afternoon of July 22 last and for which Mrs. Elizabeth Richmond, 34 years old, was arrested and charged with the crime, was mysterious and sensational.

McTavish was 24 years old. It was generally thought at the time of the discovery of the crime that McTavish had intended to sail for his home in Charlestown, P. E. I., on the night that he was killed.

When the mutilated body of McTavish was discovered Mrs. Richmond was found lying in a stupor on the floor of the kitchen, which was situated but a few feet across the corridor from the room in which McTavish's body was found. A revolver and a short-handled ax, covered with blood, were found in the rooms on the first floor.

It was thought by the Cambridge police at the time of the discovery of the murder, which was undoubtedly committed with the ax, that McTavish and Mrs. Richmond had been imbibing freely and that in a quarrel the man met his death.

Mrs. Richmond was arraigned in the Cambridge district court on the day following the discovery of the murder and pleaded not guilty to the charge of murder. Her case was continued to August 3, when she was held for the grand jury. She was later arraigned in the superior court on the charge of murder on Sept. 21 and again pleaded not guilty. Ralph W. Glogus was assigned as counsel by Judge King.

CHOIR FESTIVAL

Grand Affair Planned in Aid of Playgrounds

The choir festival of all the churches in Lowell in aid of the public playgrounds, to be held in Associate hall on May 17 and 18, will be a unique affair. For the first time in the history of Lowell all the choirs in the city, Catholic, Protestant, Jew and Gentile, will join in making the affair a great success.

The concert program for the two evenings will be one that should attract all lovers of music. Each night will have special attractions that everybody will want to see.

The universal choir will present the sextet from "Lucia," and a male quartet from the "Miserere" from "Il Trovatore"; a quartet from St. Patrick's choir will render favorite Irish melodies, while a quartet from the Presbyterian churches will sing some of the most celebrated Scotch ballads. There will also be features from the Polish and Swedish churches, one from the Jewish synagogue, with several other choirs that have not yet reported their final programs.

So great is the enthusiasm in this festival that one choir of 100 voices for 20 cents so that it might get all the singers into the hall. There will be from 250 to 300 singers participating each evening. The tickets are for sale at O'Sullivan Brothers, Judd's, formerly Lawler's, Lowell Pharmacy, Carter & Sherburne's, Y. M. C. A. and X. W. C. A.

ARTILLER DEAD

Was Wounded in Fracas at Attleboro

ATTLEBORO, May 12.—Late yesterday morning Chief of Police Nerney secured a warrant charging Francis Ross with manslaughter in causing the death of Germanos Artiller, who died yesterday as the result of injuries in a fracas Sunday. The warrant was served on Ross at the Taunton jail, just before noon. The trouble took place in Lona Cut, a section of Attleboro, late Sunday afternoon. Some men became involved in an argument, and finally there was a fight, razors, knives and pistols being brought into play.

Suddenly, one of the men, Germanos Artiller, was seen to fall, and his assalant quickly made his escape. The chief of police was notified and he visited the scene with a squad of officers.

Artiller was found covered with blood and gasping. He was brought to the office of Dr. J. W. Battershall in an automobile and the physician found it necessary to take 30 stitches to close the wounds on the head, arm and abdomen. While the injured man was being attended to by the physician word was received at police headquarters that a man had rushed through several streets and finally hidden himself in the cellar at William Blair's house on Orange street. There he was taken by officers and proved to be Francis Ross. In court Monday Chief Nerney asked for a continuance, as he anticipated serious consequences. The injured man, Artiller, became insensible Tuesday morning and passed away. The chief says that he has witnesses to testify that Ross was the man who struck Artiller Sunday night and caused the injuries which proved fatal.

FATE OF HEINZE INMATES STARVED

Is the Charge Made by Ex-Mayor of Nashua

NEW YORK, May 12.—Fritz Augustus Heinze, Montana copper man and former banker, may know by tonight whether the government's long fight to convict him of crimes against the banking laws will result in making him share the fate of his former associate, Charles W. Morse, or whether the verdict of a jury will proclaim him innocent.

Heinze left to his counsel all the fighting for him throughout the long trial of the government's charges that he had misapplied funds of the Mercantile National bank while he was its president in 1907 in an effort to prop up the market for United Copper stock. In this connection he was charged with over-certification of the checks of his brother's firm, Otto Heinze & Co., who had the United Copper market operation in charge. The principal in the case did not go on the stand himself but smilingly sat by and watched the proceedings as his witnesses testified to the big mining land holdings of the Heinze and piled up figures to show that there was ample security behind the loans that had been taken out for the benefit of the Heinze firm on Oct. 14, 1907, when the prosecution charges he over-certified upwards of $400,000 in checks of his brother's firm.

There was apparent confidence in the ranks of the Heinze counsel before the summing up began today that the government had failed to make out a case of criminal intent on Heinze's part.

On the other hand, U. S. Dist. Atty. Wise, who had the final say in the case before Judge Hough, took up his duty of charging the jury on the law, by no means appeared downcast.

Summing up of the attorneys was expected to occupy pretty much the entire day with the prospect that the jury would be charged and retire for its deliberations in the late afternoon or early evening.

NORTH CHELMSFORD

The St. John's Ladies' Auxiliary of North Chelmsford held their annual May party and dance in the town hall last night. There was a very large attendance, with many invited guests. At eight o'clock a concert program was started and continued until 8.30, when general dancing followed to the music of Klitzke's orchestra of Lowell. The decorations were attractive and these with the light dresses worn by the young ladies made a pretty scene. At intermission ice cream and cake were served in the lower hall, after which dancing was resumed and continued until midnight. A car was turned to Lowell after the party. The committee in charge were Misses Belle Valentine and Loretta Ward, with Miss Mary Cox as floor marshal and Miss Nellie Ward as assistant. President Mrs. Thomas McTeague was chairman of the reception committee.

DONE BY A FIRE AT DERRY, N. H. YESTERDAY MORNING

DERRY, N. H., May 12.—A fire in the Charles W. Abbott block, on Railroad square, yesterday morning, caused a damage of $8000 or more. The fire was first seen in the lunch room of William J. Joyce, and quickly broke out through the windows and the staircase and spread to the roof. The building is some 200 feet long, with a basement of storerooms, the ground floor being occupied by stores and offices, and the entire top floor by the Dennis Casey bowling alleys and pool room.

The loss to the building will be about $1500; to William J. Joyce, lunch room, $500; Dennis Casey, bowling and pool room, $2000; George M. Phalen, cigar manufactory, $800; Henry T. Pelkey, boot and shoe dealer, $800; William J. Kingsbury, music store and insurance agency, $1000; George Bernier, barber shop, $800; Joseph Cohen, tailor, $500; Calvin H. Bradford, carpenter and builder; W. W. Gage, woodworker, and a clubroom, some $200.

NASHUA, N. H., May 12.—"When aged inmates complained that they were hungry they were told the board of trustees had ordered the food curtailed, and that is one of the causes for my withdrawal as a trustee." Thus spoke ex-Mayor Charles J. Burke yesterday in explaining his reasons for declining to longer serve as an official of the John M. Hunt Home. The announcement that Mr. Burke at a recent meeting of the board had stated in no uncertain language that he was through as trustee caused a decided stir in town. But the charges embodied in his statement of explanation have brought a sensation that aroused the entire city, and demands for an investigation are being freely made.

Mr. Burke declared in his statement, that inmates who had begged him to have sufficient food provided, told of being obliged to go to houses near the home and to friends in various parts of the city, asking for something to eat. The John M. Hunt home has been pointed to as an ideal institution. Persons who have been loud in their praises of the home are reported as among those who now favor thorough sifting of ex-Mayor Burke's charges. The institution occupies a magnificent building in the South End. It was dedicated to the memory of John M. Hunt, in his day one of Nashua's wealthiest and most progressive citizens, by his widow.

"The institution has an endowment fund of over $100,000 which is still growing," said Mr. Burke, "and there is no necessity for anything but good usage of the inmates. My pride and appreciation of a good name would not allow my connection with the board of trustees of the John M. Hunt home to continue."

"From the incorporation of the home I have been a member of the executive committee which has charge of the management of the institution. "I made several protests to Mr. Taylor, president of the board, against the management of the home, stating that I could not remain on a board of trustees that suffered the conditions at the home to continue. I told him we could afford to discharge several inmates, but we could not afford to hurt the reputation of the home."

"My appeal resulted in slight improvement of the meals at the home, more meat and more fish, and the dropping off of butterine from the daily bill of fare served on the table. The serving of butterine upon the table was a recent addition to the cuisine and its use was not authorized by the executive committee."

"In fact, the executive committee has held no meeting for some time past where the detail management of the home was considered."

"It was ignored as a committee, and matters that should have come before them for consideration were consigned to others."

Attorney Edward H. Wason, the clerk of the board of trustees defended the institution. He said that twice, very recently, members of the board had visited the home at meal time, the matron not having been previously warned of their coming, and they had found plenty of food, well cooked and well served, and of sufficient and substantial variety."

He declared his conviction that "the green-eyed monster" was at the bottom of trouble which had started among certain inmates of the institution. He said the institution purchased its butter from a well-known creamery, and that also had been used for cooking purposes only. He said that if also had ever been used on the table it had been "by mistake and was not the practice."

BIBLE SCHOOL

Convention Held at Chelmsford Centre

The Merrimack River Baptist Bible school convention was held yesterday at the Central Baptist church at Chelmsford Centre. There was a large attendance. President C. B. Mitchell presided.

The following committees were appointed: Arrangements, Mr. Hilliard, S. F. Snell of Lawrence, George E.

Murray of Lawrence, nominations, N. O. Magoon of Lawrence, Dr. E. S. Morse of Haverhill, Dea. Findlay Stevenson of Lowell; resolutions, Rev. D. W. J. Swaffield of Lawrence, J. W. Shirley of Lawrence, Rev. S. W. Cummings of Lowell; enrollment, Rev. A. R. Dilts of Lowell; Rev. W. F. Lombard of Andover, H. P. Morse of Haverhill.

The morning address was delivered by Rev. Dr. W. J. Swaffield of the First Baptist church of Lawrence.

The discussion on "Phases of Sunday School Work" was conducted by Rev. F. A. McDonald of the Fifth Street Baptist church of Lowell.

At the business session, which took place at the afternoon meeting, the following officers were chosen: President, J. W. Shirley, Lawrence; vice-president, George H. Taylor, Lowell; secretary-treasurer, Rev. C. H. Ellis, Chelmsford Centre; executive committee, the foregoing: officers and C. B. Mitchell, Haverhill, N. O. Magoon, Lawrence, R. B. Thomas, Lowell, P. F. Gilbert, Andover, and Mrs. N. D. Parker, Chelmsford; representative to the state board, Deacon G. E. Murray, Lawrence.

The annual report of Secretary Ellis was one of much interest. The first part of it concerned the total figures, while the second consisted of reports from each one of the Sunday schools in the association. There are 574 teachers and 4976 scholars, making a total of 5550. Last year there were 5454 scholars and teachers. Of the number this year 80 per cent. of the teachers have attended services regularly, while 56 per cent. of all the scholars have attended. The number of baptisms have been 196. The report stated that the financial condition of the association was not quite as good as last year.

The principal address of the afternoon was made by Rev. Asa Reed Dilts, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church of this city. He spoke on "Phases of Bible Work."

The evening session followed a supper served in the town hall. The principal address was by Rev. Dr. Edward Brailsford of Boston.

AMATEUR GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP BROOKLINE, May 12.—More than a hundred welders of the brass and the putter, many of them aspirants for national honors next fall, grasped the opportunity today of participating in the fifteenth annual spring tournament of the country club, over whose links the national amateur golf championship will be played next fall. The best sixteen in two days' medal play and match play for the country club medal. Among those who started today were James F. O'Neil of New York, P. W. Kendall and W. V. Conover of Dent, N. J., W. Fellows Morgan, Jr., of Baltimore, B. W. Corkran of Baltimore and P. Harrison of Lancashire, England, as well as a large number of Harvard players and local experts.

MAYOR OF LAWRENCE

Accuses Chief Engineer of Attempted Bribery

LAWRENCE, May 12.—Mayor White's specifications of charges against Chief Engineer James A. Hamilton of the fire department, on which he proposed to remove him, were made public at a hearing before the aldermen last night. Incompetency, extravagance, violation of the city ordinances in making purchases and attempt to bribe members of the city government were included.

The mayor charges that Chief Hamilton spent money and employed permanent firemen without authority of the city council; that the city has paid for no less than three mileage books on the Boston & Maine railroad for the chief; that he has been disobedient and careless of the city's interest in refusing to give assistance in Rushin Essex street; that he has not obtained proper discounts on purchases; that he has allowed friends and relatives to incur charges against the city for telephone calls; that extravagance was shown in the purchase of a horse; that he purchased a fire alarm wagon without authority, also safety rugs and horses; that he bought a new horse-wagon at a cost of $550 and approved the bill under the head of repairs; that excessive rates were paid for the board of horses that he has at various times bribed and attempted to bribe members of the city government; that he had recommended the purchase of hose at a time when the department had ample for double requirements; that he has ignored the assistant engineers; that he has been so wantonly extravagant that the expenses of the department have increased $17,767.02, as compared with the corresponding period of his predecessor and the fire alarm department alone has increased $2,495.32 in 10 months.

After Assistant Engineers McCreadie and Toye and Edward F. Kress had testified and Assistant City Clerk Wade had read records of meeting of the fire department committee last year, the hearing was adjourned until Thursday, May 19.

Combination Coal and Gas

Crawford Ranges

The Crawford Gas Ovens are safe. They are lighted in a new way; there is no dangerous pilot light and explosions are impossible. This improvement is patented and very important.

The Damper is automatically opened by opening oven door to light the burners, which cannot be lighted until the door is opened.

In these Gas Ovens there is an extra set of burners at the top for broiling; a great advantage over the ordinary gas oven, insuring better broiling and great convenience.

The Oven Bottoms and Racks are cast iron, and the outer walls are triple—an interlining of asbestos between two sheets of iron, which assists to retain the heat.

The use of these Gas Ovens does not interfere in any way with the operation of the coal range—both can be used at the same time.

Double Oven above or Single Oven at end of range.

BATTLESHIP FLORIDA

Biggest of the American Dreadnaughts Was Launched Today

NEW YORK, May 12.—Flying the star of the United States navy, the Stars and Stripes at her stern, and a string of signal pennants along the 520 feet of her deck line, the battleship Florida, the biggest of the American dreadnaughts built thus far, was successfully launched at the Brooklyn navy

The christening party, headed by Miss Elizabeth Fleming, daughter of a former governor of Florida, and comprising Gov. Gilchrist and Senators Tallahassee and Fletcher of Florida, took up their positions on the special platform built up near the nose of the big ship and Miss Fleming, in her eleven girl attendants, six representing Florida and five the navy, moved up unexpectedly to the rail. Finally, the noise of the hammering on the keel blocks ceased and Naval Constructor Baxter gave the word, "Saw off!" At the command two burly ship carpenters began drawing a gleaming eight foot saw across the five inch oak timber, forming one with the other, or permanent ways. Miss Fleming seized the ribboned bottle in her hand and, unfurled, awaited the crucial moment. There was an ominous creaking, the sliding and permanent ways slowly drew apart and with a mighty heave the little godmother of the giant sea-fighter sent the champagne bottle crashing against the ship's side. The Florida hesitated a moment, then slowly and ponderously glided yard today in the presence of the vice president of the United States, the secretary of the navy, the naval attaches of all the powers and a crowd of 5000 enthusiasts whom lowering skies and intermittent rains had failed to keep away.

The 21,325-ton fighting Leviathan built to carry the thunder of 12-inch guns, the concentrated big gun fire of five ordinary battleships glided down the ways to the strains of the Star Spangled Banner, played by the navy band and twenty-ninth infantry bands while the crowd cheered and hundreds of rivercraft tooted their noisy welcome. Her lesser sisters, anchored in the navy yard, the Rhode Island, Connecticut, Yankton and Hancock dipped their colors in salute as the monster gray and red fighting machine struck her stern into the dividing waters of the river and up and down stream for a mile men stood ready to let out the mooring and an-

down the ways with the voice of her sponsor clearly and proudly calling out:

"Go, brave ship, I christen thee Florida."

The launching was the most successful ever held at the Brooklyn navy yard. The gigantic battleship slid down the tallows-greased ways with the lightness of a frail lifeboat. As soon as she reached the water the current veered her lightly to the north and she wound her course to the end of the river where a dozen of navy tugs hugged her on all sides gradually forcing her to her mooring near Cobb dock. Rear Admiral Laule, commandant of the navy yard, warmly congratulated Miss Fleming on her coolness at a critical moment. Gov. Gilchrist and Vice President Sherman joining in the plaudits while the state flag of Florida waved frantically above the heads of the christening party.

ODD WRESTLING

Turkish Style at C. M. A. C. Saturday Night

There's something new on for the wrestling fans at C. M. A. C. hall, next Saturday night when Peter Jack, the funny but clever heavyweight Greek wrestler is to meet Kage Mokaine, the Turkish giant, in a bout at Turkish style in connection with the handicap match of Wilfred Barrette vs. Kid Pappas. Barrette to throw Pappas, three times in an hour to win.

There has never been any Turkish wrestling in Lowell and hence it will be a novelty. The wrestlers go by points and every old kind of a fall goes, pin falls, rolling falls and flying falls, each counting so many points. A most interesting fact in connection with Turkish style is if one wrestler can lift his opponent completely off his feet and carry him three steps with his opponent's feet in front of him and free from his body, he is credited with a fall. Jack weighs 190 while the Turk tips the beam at 310. Hence this ought to be worth the price of admission at least. But there is much discussion and considerable betting on the bout who saw Peter Jack this week will go miles to see him stacked up against

To Day Nursery Fair Opening Tonight

All roads will lead to Merrimack square this evening when what promises to be the greatest Day Nursery festival in history will be opened in Runels and the adjacent halls.

Everybody is invited to come early for the supper, to inspect the bazaar tables, and to witness the operetta, "Cupid's Garden." You will enjoy the songs, the dances, the tableaux. Some very wonderful costumes have been designed for the flowers. Indeed, if a flower to come to life and grow several sizes larger it would look like the flowers that will appear in this happy concert of the spring. Miss L. Blanche Perry and Mr. P. O. Blunt have charge of the direction of the dancing and the music, respectively, which promises a successful presentation.

GEORGE WHITING

Discusses the Milk Situation

BOSTON, May 12.—George Whiting, one of the leading Boston milk contractors, continued his testimony before the legislative committee investigating the milk situation when the hearing was resumed at the state house today. Mr. Whiting was the first contractor to appear before the committee, and it was expected when the hearing began today that it will be at least a week before the testimony is in. When the producers closed yesterday it was with the condition that they could have the privilege of appearing later if they had anything further to say.

AFTERNOON SOCIAL CLUB

The Ladies' Afternoon Social club met yesterday afternoon with Mrs. A. M. Brooks in Normal avenue. There was a large attendance of members, and the afternoon was passed in a delightful manner. Mrs. Bowen read an interesting sketch of "John Howard Payne," the composer of "Home, Sweet Home." Many of the older songs were charmingly sung. Miss Anna Brooks gave several interesting readings. Mrs. William Mitchell, the youngest member of the club, was presented a handsome punch bowl set. The bowl was filled with white flowers. Following the meeting a collection was served. The next meeting will be held on the afternoon of May 25 at the home of Mrs. Frank H. Fuller, 206 Wilder street.

PYTHIAN SISTERS

DORCAS TEMPLE OBSERVED 17TH ANNIVERSARY

The 17th anniversary of Dorcas Temple, Pythian Sisters, was celebrated last night. During the early part of the evening a short business meeting was held after which a social half hour was held. F. C. Robert J. Fullerton acted as master of ceremonies. William Davis entertained with piano selections after which a two act farce entitled "Six Knechtmaffen" was carried out. The cast of characters was as follows:

Mrs. Reynolds Mrs. C. H. Glidden
Jezab White Mrs. Margaret Benton
Clara Reynolds Mrs. Mantel Garland
Claudia Snell Mrs. Sewell A. Potter
Mrs. Lynch Mrs. Edward Young
Bridget O'Flanagan

Cecilia Jones Mrs. Henry E. King
Madame Joffe Mrs. Charles Nichols
Jennie Miss Janette Johnson
Carry Brown Miss Florence Gilmore

Refreshments were served in the banquet hall at the close of the exercises under the charge of Mrs. D. Myrick, assisted by Mrs. Robert J. Fullerton, Mrs. John Johnson and Mrs. Quinn.

The success of the entertainment was due to the hard work of the committee consisting of Mrs. A. Cora Stiles, chairman; Mrs. Minnie Benton, Mrs. Mantel Garland, Mrs. George Titcomb, Mr. George Titcomb, Mr. Robert J. Fullerton.

Rag time two days, tomorrow night.

LOSS IS $30,000 THE SHUBERTS

A Defective Chimney Have Swamped the Theatre Syndicate

WESTON, May 12.—The fine summer residence of Grant Walker on Concord road was totally destroyed by fire about 2.30 p. m. yesterday. A defective chimney is believed to have been the cause. The loss will be about $30,000.

The building was of wood and was owned by Mr. Walker, who used it as a summer home.

The flames had obtained a good start by the time the local fire department arrived, and as the nearest water supply was 2000 feet distant, the men devoted their attention to saving the contents. As the fire was in the upper part of the building, they succeeded in removing practically all the furniture on the lower floors.

Waltham was asked for help and Chief Johnson sent over one of his steamers, but by the time it reached the scene the house was gutted.

The residence was on what was originally the George Dunn farm, and was built by the late Daniel Sharp Ford of the Youth's Companion.

Mr. Walker bought the place about a dozen years ago. He had made extensive repairs and he and his family had just opened the house for the summer.

He was unable to determine the loss, but it is estimated that the damage to the building and contents will reach a total of $30,000, upon which there is a partial insurance.

NEW YORK, May 12.—The theatre syndicate is at an end. This fact became public yesterday, when it was announced that men who control more than 1200 theatres in the United States and Canada had formed the National Theatre Owners' Association to overthrow the so-called syndicate.

These theatres represent practically all the playhouses outside the big cities and for many years formed the essential part of the theatre trust. Without these theatres, the organization, of which Klaw and Erlanger, Charles Frohman and Nixon & Zimmerman were the chief members, is powerless to control the theatrical situation.

As the situation now stands Erlanger who prided himself on being the absolute dictator in this country, has fallen from his pedestal. There is a rumor of a speedy dissolution of the theatre trust itself.

The aim of the association is independence, and will have separate booking offices. They stand for the "open door" policy.

In the new organization the theatrical strength of the country cannot be controlled by one man. The officers of the association are John Cort, president; Moss Reis, vice president; J. J. Coleman, secretary; Albert Wells, treasurer. The directors are: Charles T. Klint, Jake Wells, C. P. Walker, H. de Giv, James Wingfield, L. M. Crawford, Calvin Heilig, C. A. Marshall, John L. Kerr, J. J. Coleman, John Cort and Albert Wells.

The organization was effected after more than 75 managers in the country met and talked over the theatrical situation. They decided to start an organization in line with the fight made by the Shuberts for independence, and after several conferences they adopted a constitution.

The theatres affected by the association include the Northwestern Theatrical association, Walker's, Winnipeg circuit, Marshall's, Copper and Iron circuit, Chamberlain, Harrington and Kindt circuit, the Crawford Philley and Zehring circuit, J. J. Coleman's circuit in the state of Kentucky, the Albert Wells, Jake Wells and Henry L. de Giv theatres, the Moss Reis circuit in the states of Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and New York, the O. T. Hathaway circuit, embracing the cities of Birmingham, Ontario, Middletown, Oswego and others, and the Julius Kahn circuit throughout New England.

Regarding the association, Lee Shubert said:

"We are more than pleased, as it means that the battle which we have fought for the last four or five years is at an end, that the principles for which we have so long contended have received final and complete recognition."

"The theatre owners at last come to appreciate that the power of the so-called Theatrical syndicate was only the power which they themselves gave it and which they could take away again. They have at last taken the matter into their own hands and have organized their new association to manage their own affairs."

BOSTON, May 12.—For the first time since she joined the community of Sisters of Charity, 33 years ago, Sister Josephine of St. Vincent de Paul, yesterday afternoon visited her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Bean of 21 Franklin street, Quincy.

Sister Josephine has been missioned to St. Mary's infant asylum, Dorchester, from the clerical department of Mulianahy hospital at St. Louis. At the time of the St. Louis exposition she was visited by her brother, Edwin L. Bean. He was the only relative she had seen in nearly three decades. Sister Josephine yesterday began her new duties at St. Mary's infant asylum.

THOMAS-PAPKE

Until May 19

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—The fight between Joe Thomas and Bill Papke which was to have been staged at Colma on May 14 has been postponed until May 19. The fight will take place at Driscoll and Hank in San Francisco and the length has been cut from 25 to 20 rounds. The change was made on account of the opposition encountered in San Mateo county.

RETAIL GROCERS.

IN SESSION PAID TRIBUTE TO A DEPARTED MEMBER

The monthly meeting of the Lowell Retail Grocers and Butchers association was held last night. There was a good sized audience and considerable business was transacted during the evening. At the conclusion of the routine business, Edward M. Bowers, treasurer of the association, spoke in a feeling manner of the loss of one of the members of the organization, John J. Keefe, who passed away last week.

President E. S. Fitzpatrick and Secretary John McCullough also paid a tribute to Mr. Keefe. It was voted unanimously not to hold a banquet this season.

Under good and welfare, the members endorsed the recent action of the clerks association on the half-holiday closing. A picnic, to be given early in August, was talked up, and some enthusiasm was shown. Trading stamps were denounced by the association.

Sealed proposals addressed to the select committee, and endorsed by the select committee, will be received by said committee at selectmen's room, Chelmsford Centre, until Friday, May 20th, 1910, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the supply of coal and wood as described below, and at that time will be publicly opened and read. All coal to be of the following brands or of equal quality: Philadelphia and Reading, Wilkesbarre, Susquehanna or Lehigh Valley.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT:

Thirty tons, more or less, of Egg coal, delivered and put into the West Chelmsford school house.

Forty tons, more or less, of Egg coal, delivered and put into the North Chelmsford school house.

Twenty tons, more or less, of stove coal, delivered and put into the North Chelmsford school house.

Forty tons, more or less, of Egg coal, delivered and put into the Centre school house.

Ten tons, more or less, of stove coal, delivered and put into the Golden Cove school house.

Also price per cord for first quality sawed hard wood, sawed pine wood and sawed oak wood, delivered and put into respective school houses in cord and half cord lots as wanted.

All coal must be weighed and wood measured by sworn surveyor of the Town of Chelmsford.

A bill of each load must be presented as delivered and original bill of lading must be presented as required.

Coal to weigh 2000 lbs. to the ton and be thoroughly screened.

The committee has the right to reject any and all bids.

JOHN J. MONAHAN,
HERBERT E. ELLIS,
JOHN E. HARRINGTON,
School Committee of the Town of Chelmsford.

ALMSHOUSE AND OTHER PUBLIC BUILDINGS

Under the same conditions and at the same time and place as above, bids will be received by the Board of Selectmen for the following amounts of coal:

Sixteen tons, more or less, of stove coal delivered and put into the Almshouse.

Eight tons, more or less, of stove coal, delivered and put into the Centre town hall.

Ten tons, more or less, of stove coal, delivered and put into the North Chelmsford fire house.

Eighteen tons, more or less, of stove coal, delivered and put into the I. O. O. F. Building, Chelmsford Centre.

E. T. ADAMS,
Chairman, Board of Selectmen.

Forbes Relates Story of Drop in a Balloon

HORSE CAYE, Ky., May 12.—That a flight for a world's distance record from Quincy, Ill., by A. Holland Forbes, holder of the Lahn cup, and Jas. C. Yates, the astronomer, both of New York, which began at Quincy, Ill., Monday evening terminated late Tuesday in a disastrous tumble to the earth from the height of perhaps 300 feet near Center, Ky., was "not without its compensations" was indicated by a statement made by Forbes last night. The balloon broke the ascent record, it is declared and some valuable photographs of the coma were secured at a height of 18,000 feet. Forbes, in discussing their experience after reaching an altitude of 20,000 feet, said: "In descending from the great elevation, we had very little sand left and as the gas contracted the balloon bag became extremely flabby. Everything went well until we were a few hundred feet above the ground when the appendage broke loose from the ring supporting the basket. There was so little gas in the bag at the time that the rigging collapsed and the basket attached naturally dropped. This caused the rip which was attached to the ring to rip open the balloon at the height of 200 feet from the ground.

"I cannot describe the sensation of that 300-foot drop to the ground. It came so suddenly. I have a faint recollection of seeing men below me in a flash, and of sub-consciously trying, it seemed to me, to catch that Mr. Yates and I might spring for

Presented Last Night

John W. Bowker, assisted by a capable cast, presented a pretty little comedy-drama entitled, "Just Plain Folks" at Hathaway's, theatre last night. There was a large and appreciative audience and the place itself and the manner in which it was produced spoke well for Mr. Bowker, the author and the portrayal of the leading role.

Prof. W. Eldred Edmunds had general charge of the training of the members of the cast and their capable work, spoke well of his ability.

The play had to do with the exposing of certain physicians, the story being that of a man who believes that he is being experimented on by physicians and oculists.

The cast of characters was as follows:

William Stoker, a sick man.

Mrs. Jennie Stoker, his wife.

Miss Louise Collins.

James Stoker, his brother.

Mr. N. A. Houston.

Doctor Truk, his hero. Mr. H. Leavitt.

Jimmy Draper, his neighbor.

Mr. Ellsworth Chappell.

Nettie Draper, Jimmy's wife.

Miss Flossie McManis.

Edward Leary, a farmer.

Mr. Samuel L. Taylor.

Edwin Soothe, a stranded actor.

Mr. John C. McKelvey.

Dr. Gussay, an expert. Mr. P. Dresser.

Dr. Butman, Supt. Eton hospital.

Mr. C. H. Griffin.

Dr. Trammer, not worth much.

Mr. Thomas Chinn.

Dr. Blinn, a foxy individual.

Mr. John Shaugnessy.

Seth Hoskins, a villager.

Mr. Charles D. Rodger.

Hank Symam, another one.

Mr. John McNulty.

Bill Symam, a neighbor.

Mr. Joshua Chappell.

Bill Jones, a grocer. Mr. D. H. Jones.

Mr. Shamp, Henry's neighbor.

Mr. Dresser.

Mr. Steam, a carrier. Mr. J. Chappell.

Rev. E. R. Amor, a true man.

Mr. B. R. Flynn.

Samantha Muggins, the hired girl.

Miss Katherine Grinn.

Mrs. Gussay.

Miss Rose Chappell.

the rigging when close to the ground. The basket did not tilt as it would have done under ordinary circumstances and that was the cause of our injury. I think the only thing that prevented the breaking of our backs when the basket fell bottom squarely down under the weight of the bag was the rubber air mattress which we had placed in the bottom of the basket that we might be comfortable when we wanted to lie down.

"For a moment I was stunned by the impact. Then I recovered and saw two or three men coming to our aid. They extended an aid in improvised litters we were carried to this house.

"In starting from Quincy we were unable to carry more than thirty-three forty pound bags of sand, which together with the tremendous height to which we ascended shortened the trip. We should never have started. The flight with less than 50 bags of ballast.

"On this trip I did not mind the low temperature so much. Both of us were prepared for it. We suffered for want of oxygen though when we went higher than 18,000 feet the air pressure at that altitude is not more than 3 or 4 pounds and it seems that one cannot get enough air. We panted like dogs and my eardrums and eyes pained me greatly. Yates suffered in the same manner. Some aeronauts take tanks of oxygen with their supplies but we did not have them and we did not need them. They became accustomed to the rapid changes in air pressure after he has been in the same a while."

Both Forbes and Yates were resting comfortably this morning and expressed the opinion that by the end of the week they would be able to undertake the journey to their homes in New York.

THE ASSESSORS

ADOPT RESOLUTIONS ON DEATH OF ABEL WHEELER

The following preamble and resolutions were this day adopted by the board of assessors:

Whereas, In the passing of him with whom our associations have been most intimately connected, we are again reminded of the uncertainty of life and while humbly submitting at all times to the will of Him whose last call we must all answer and

Whereas, Our friend and co-worker, Abel Wheeler, has answered the final summons, we feel it incumbent on us to pay tribute to his memory, be it therefore

Resolved, That by his death a vacancy has been created in a position of trust and responsibility to which, ever faithful and true, he contributed the best that was in him and the loss to the city, the home of his choice, cannot easily be reckoned.

Resolved, That while this parting has brought sorrow to his wife and other immediate relatives, as well as to his many friends, who are pleased to bear testimony to his unflinching good nature, to his ever genial disposition and to his hearty salutation, ever ready to extend a helping hand as occasion required and we feel that a void has been created which memory cannot allow to be obliterated.

Resolved, That we, the remaining members of the board of assessors and their assistants, feelingly pay this tribute to him whom they respected in life and we hereby tender to his bereaved ones such a measure of consolation as may help, somewhat, to relieve them in their time of sorrow.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the records of the board and that a copy be sent to the widow of the deceased.

FOR DEFENDANT

Elms Case Was Taken From Jury

The case of Quilley vs. Boston & Maine, an action of tort to recover for injuries received by a young Somerville girl whose hand was caught in the door of a car of the defendant company, was on trial today and was finished this noon, after which the case of Newell vs. Fitchburg & Lowell was in order.

In the case of Levi Elms vs. the city of Lowell, Judge Hardy yesterday ordered a verdict for the defense, after the counsel had argued. Mr. Elms sued on an alleged breach of contract for the collection of a will in Everett, the city claiming in defense that the board of health terminated the contract legally, as the plaintiff was not complying with the terms of his contract.

MAN ASSAULTED

The Police Are Looking for Woman

John Lowe, aged 35 years, was assaulted in a house at 50 Tyler street about five o'clock yesterday afternoon and now the police are looking for a woman who it is alleged struck Lowe.

When Lowe came to the police station the left side of his face was badly swollen and he had a laceration which looked as though it might have been caused by some person throwing the lid of a stove at him.

The police are now looking for Lowe's assailant.

BRITISH PARLIAMENT CITY FORESTER

Paid a Tribute to Memory of King Edward

LONDON, May 12.—Parliament paid a tribute to the memory of King Edward yesterday, adopting addresses of condolence and congratulations to the new king.

Premier Asquith, in the house of commons and the Earl of Crewe, in the house of lords, delivered eulogies on Edward VII and both showed great emotion.

The day was chiefly devoted to recording the nation's official condolences to the royal family.

King George and the queen mother received at Marlborough house and Buckingham palace, respectively, deputations from the lords and commons bringing the resolutions.

Numbers of beautiful wreaths are arriving at the palace, but at the queen mother's special request, all flowers will be sent to Windsor castle. The funeral will be of military character, and it is considered that carrying wreaths in procession would be somewhat incongruous.

The announcement that ex-President Roosevelt will attend the funeral as the special representative of the United States has been received with great satisfaction by the Great Britain public.

That King Edward's death was partly due to worry over the political situation, is officially declared in a statement regarding his illness which his physicians, Sir Francis Laking, Sir James Reid, and Sir Richard Douglas Powell, are publishing over their signatures in the Lancet today. The statement says:

"His Majesty had for some years suffered from emphysema, with attendant bronchial catarrh, signs of which were permanently present at the basis of the lungs. On several occasions digestive disturbances had caused his medical attendants to realize that His Majesty no longer had the reserve constitutional power which had stood him in such splendid stead after his serious operation in 1902, and that any subsequent attack of bronchitis might be a serious kind would at once call upon both heart and lungs for their fullest effort."

"It must here be said that those around him knew how earnestly concerned he was at the present strained position of political affairs, and this fact should not be lost sight of in an all-round consideration of the king's health."

Referring to the king's recent visit to Biarritz, the statement says: "The first night in Paris His Majesty had a severe attack of acute indigestion, followed by dyspnoea (shortness of breath). On his arrival at Biarritz this developed into a bronchitic attack, causing his physicians great anxiety. This passed off, and His Majesty returned better in every way, but he contracted a chill at Sandringham while inspecting the garden."

On his return to London the statement continues, from May 3 the attacks of dyspnoea increased, although the king insisted upon attending to business of state as late as Thursday, May 5.

"On that day," the physicians add, "the attacks became more frequent and distressing and with increasing cyanosis, gravely suggestive of threatened cardiac failure. With the king's permission the doctors issued the first bulletin on Thursday night, but not until it was signed by His Majesty, who somewhat modified his terms. From Friday morning his condition rapidly became worse. There were several dangerous attacks, and His Majesty only rallied by the use of powerful remedies. At 5 o'clock in the afternoon consciousness failed. The end came at 11:45 o'clock after a prolonged period of perfect calm."

CHOSE MARRIAGE

Young Man Says He Was Threatened

BOSTON, May 12.—Marriage or death was the alternative presented to Remo Renzaglia, a youth of 21 years, a few months ago, and he chose the former, so he told Judge Pierce yesterday afternoon in the divorce court. He brought an action against Caterino Cristodoro seeking to have the marriage annulled.

"If you don't marry my daughter I'll kill you," were the words his father-in-law used, Renzaglia testified. "I was visiting a doctor's house when I first met him and he asked me to come to his house." Renzaglia explained to the court the accusation made by the father concerning his daughter's condition and said he denied responsibility.

Continuing, he said: "We went next day to city hall and got a license, and then we got married. When the priest asked me if I was willing to marry I did not speak, and the priest told me to speak out so he could hear me, and I did then. We went back to Mr. Cristodoro's house and then I went home to my sister, and I never went back. I never went to live with her."

His daughter told me she had been wronged by Renzaglia and his father," testified Mr. Cristodoro, "so I found him and told him he would have to marry her or I would kill him."

When Jeremiah J. Hourvin took the stand to tell his troubles on which he filed his brief against Mary A. Hourvin he had a little blue book. The marriage occurred Nov. 18, 1899. Then he was asked what happened on Jan. 3.

Picking up the book, he turned over the pages and answered that his wife came home drunk. Then followed a series of questions relative to different dates with the witness coming to each one and stating what his wife did.

His book of records had something in it about events every other day and some days the events happened successively and covered a period of about four months. Patrolman Chisholm added his testimony to Mary's habits of intoxication and the judge ordered the libel to be called.

"You and I don't agree on the evidence, and unfortunately I have to decide the case," was the comment Judge Pierce made when the attorney for Cath. Wines finished his case.

"You'd better wait a year and bring a libel for desertion," was the judge's final comment.

LABOR TROUBLES ADJUSTED

BOSTON, May 12.—The differences between the telegraphers employed by the Boston Terminal company and the officials over hours of labor and wages which at one time threatened to end in a strike, have been adjusted. The new schedule goes into effect tomorrow.

PASSE-PARTOUT BINDING

This is the time of year when people do a great deal of camera work, or outdoor sketching, or maybe you clip some of the interesting pictures that abound in the magazines, to adorn the walls of your camp, your den, or your sleeping room. Why not preserve them? Our Passe-Partout Binding for artistic picture framing is inexpensive. It is heavily gummed, and will hold the pictures firmly together for years.
